West Rejects Russ Arms Plan

Soviet Demands Are Labeled Old Stuff By Austin

Include Immediate Atom Weapons Ban

PARIS, Nov. 16 (AP) — Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky demanded today an immediate ban on atomic weapons and a one-third cut in the armed forces of the five great powers as a prelude to world disarmament.

Secretary of State Acheson promptly rejected these demands and declared the intention of the United States, Britain and France to persevere with "the serious business of trying to get agreement on genuine steps toward disarmament."

Acheson said he was glad to see Vishinsky had decided to stop laughing at the three-power Western arms proposals, but said that Vishinsky still is not ready for action on real reduction of armaments.

"Old Claims," Austin Says

U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin tagged Vishinsky's ideas "old claims, old misrepresentations, old charges and old proposals."

Vishinsky spoke to the U. N. General Assembly at a session in which French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman urged the Russians to live in mutual trust with the rest of the world. U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie called for the foreign ministers here to start genuine negotiations on a settlement of East-West problems.

The Russian was in his usual form, sometimes shouting and sometimes speaking in a moderate tone.

Western spokesmen speculated that Moscow saw Vishinsky had pulled a boner by laughing at the arms limitation proposals laid down by the United States, Britain and France at the start of the sixth General Assembly. They suggested Vishinsky had been instructed to trot out old suggestions, often turned down by the U. N., in an attempt to recapture the initiative and woo peoples disillusioned by his rejection of what might be a step toward peace.

Adds Planks To Platform

In short, Vishinsky added the following planks to a platform he put before the Assembly last week:

1. A call for the Assembly to declare atomic weapons instruments of aggression and to ban their production immediately.

2. A demand for the five big powers—United States, France, Britain, Russia and Red China — to reduce all armaments by one-third within a year.

3. A demand that within one month after the Assembly approved the Soviet proposal all countries, in or out of the U. N., would supply full and complete data on their armaments, including atomic weapons.

4. A call for creation of an international control organ within the framework of the Security Council. This means the Security Council veto could be used to block decisions of the control organ.

Johnston Urges Indirect Curbs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—Eric Johnston, retiring as commander of the nation's defenses against inflation, recommended today that direct wage and price controls be dropped "at the earliest possible time."

"The only way this can be done is by adopting a firm policy on indirect controls," the economic stabilization director said in advocating greater reliance on taxation and credit policy.

Johnson is resigning his post Nov. 30 to return to the presidency of the Motion Picture Association. He discussed the task of his successor at a news conference one day after President Truman accepted the resignation with "real regret."

Johnston did not say what he thought would be "the earliest possible time" to substitute indirect controls for direct wage and price curbs. However, on other occasions he has said that, barring world war, controls can be eased off about the middle of 1953.

Johnston forecast a period of "relative calm" in the anti-inflation battle during the next two or three months. Reminded by reporters that the CIO steelworkers are coming up with demands for wage increases that would break present wage ceilings, he said that matter wouldn't reach the ESA for perhaps three months.

New Auto Price Lids To Reflect Cost Increases

Order To Be Issued In About Ten Days

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP) — Government price officials said tonight an order granting automobile manufacturers the right to compute new prices on the basis of the Capehart amendment to the new controls law probably will be issued in about 10 days.

A high official in the Office of Price Stabilization said each manufacturer will have to figure his own ceilings. He said there is positively no way OPS can estimate the amount by which passenger cars of any manufacturer will change.

This official said some price increase are almost certain to result. He pointed out that the controls law amendment, sponsored by Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) and others, requires OPS to allow manufacturers to add all their direct and indirect costs to pre-Korean prices. He said this generally means price hikes.

Until this amendment was adopted by Congress OPS only allowed direct cost increases, that is for labor and raw materials. These have been permitted up to last March 15 for labor and until last Dec. 31 or March 15 for varying types of materials.

The Capehart amendment requires additions up to last July 26.

Also figuring in the new automobile order is another regulation due to be issued soon covering conversion steel. An official said this will provide cost allowances for manufacturers who have to buy steel in forms other than they normally use and then have it converted or changed to types that can be used.

An official said both orders still are not completed and several changes may have to be made before they are issued around Nov 26 or shortly thereafter.

1,457,466 Red Casualties

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—The Army today estimated total enemy casualties in Korea through November 6 at 1,457,466, an increase of 14,622 since the previous week.

Cows Are Labeled To Warn Hunters

WESTMORELAND, N. J., Nov. 16 (AP)—L. W. Churchill hopes hunters won't mistake his cows for deer this season.

Last year one trigger-happy nimrod was credited with shooting a goat. Another blew a large hole in a bear skin rug draped over an automobile radiator.

On the sides of his cows, Churchill has painted in large letters:

"C-O-W."

Egypt Proposes Sudan Election

PARIS, Nov. 16 (AP) — Egypt challenged Britain in the United Nations today with a proposal that both let the Sudan alone until a U. N. - supervised election can decide the future of the million-square-mile area.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohamed Salah El Din said he was more than certain the British would not agree.

The British in London said they would think it over.

Salah El Din proposed in the U. N. Assembly's general debate that the U. N. run the Sudan — which Britain and Egypt have ruled jointly since 1899 — until a decision is made by vote of the 8,000,000 Sudanese people.

The proposal hit the U. N. as a surprise one day after King Farouk was hailed in his parliament at Cairo as king of Egypt and Sudan and smilingly acknowledged the cheers.

Egypt and Britain each has 1,000 to 1,500 troops in the Sudan, but the British command the several thousand Sudanese police troops.

The administration is run by a British governor-general, Sir Robert Howe.

Railroads Given Pay Hikes For Hauling Mail

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—The government today gave the railroads a $75,000,000-a-year pay boost for hauling the mail.

Today's award, handed out by the Interstate Commerce Commission, represents an increase of about 32 per cent since the last award.

The commission also specified that the new increase is retroactive to last Jan. 1.

Warren, Opening Campaign, Blasts Administration

Pleads For Liberal Republican Platform

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 16 (AP)—Republican Gov. Earl Warren opened his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination with a speech tonight assailing what he termed dishonesty in the Democratic administration and pleading for a liberal GOP platform.

The ailing California governor, hospitalized just a day after announcing his candidacy, declared in a transcribed address:

"We must clean out the chiseling, the favoritism and the dishonesty that is shocking the public today."

At the same time, he warned his own party not to stand still.

"We never could and never should try to satisfy the extremists on either end because neither of them want to see real progress made," he said.

Backing a bipartisan foreign policy, he spoke out, as he has before, against American isolationism. This country, he said, should help its friends in the free world to defend themselves against possible aggression.

Warren's speech was broadcast to the Republican State Central Committee meeting here and carried nationally. Doctor's orders yesterday forced him to cancel plans to deliver the address himself. He is suffering from an intestinal disturbance.

The 1948 GOP nominee for vice president, openly opposed by dissident Republicans in his home state, renewed his appeal for party unity.

"Our forces must not be divided by our own actions," he said, "only to be destroyed by our opposition."

Party leaders, most of whom are pledged to Warren, have sought to avert a public clash with a conservative faction at the state meeting. The anti-Warren group is planning to enter its own ticket of national convention delegates in the California primaries next June.

West Va. Rep. Kee Won't Seek Reelection

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Nov. 16 (AP) —Rep. Elizabeth Kee, Bluefield, said today she would not seek reelection to Congress next year from the West Virginia Fifth District.

Mrs. Kee, in a letter to the Bluefield Daily Telegraph, said that for "personal reasons" she had decided against running again after giving "a great deal of serious thought to the widespread requests that I become a candidate for reelection."

Mrs. Kee defeated Republican Cyrus Gadd of Princeton in a special election held last July to fill the unexpired term of her husband, Rep. John Kee, veteran Democratic congressman.

Most Prisoners Of Allies Want To Stay Below 38th

U. N. PRISONER OF WAR CAMP, Koje Island, Korea, Nov. 16 (AP)—Red prisoners of the Allies in Korea are well-fed, well-clothed, get an objective education and a well-rounded sports and recreation program.

Most of them say they don't want to return to China or North Korea.

John Benben, Chicago, chief of the instructional branch, civilian infromation and education section, at the prisoner of war camp, made these statements. He said:

"The average prisoner does not know why he was fighting.

"Most of the Chinese would like to go to Formosa to join the Nationalist forces, which in most cases they originally belonged to. With the exception of the few hard-core North Korean Communist officers, the average North Korean soldier would prefer to stay south of the 38th parallel."

Benben is on leave from Northwestern University to direct the educational program for prisoners on this island off the coast of South Korea.

"We have 160,000 people interned here including 18,000 Chinese and 40,000 North and South Korean civilians who are considered dangerous," said Col. Maurice J. Fitzgerald, Alexandria, Va., commander of the camp.

Activities Held Not In Keeping With His Duties

Caudle Declares "Heart Is Broken"

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 16 (AP) — President Truman fired Assistant Attorney General T. Lamar Caudle today, saying he had "engaged in outside activities" not in keeping with his duties as the government's No. 1 prosecutor of tax frauds.

The 47-year-old Caudle, chief of the Justice Department's tax division, has been under questioning by a House committee which previously had unearthed a widespread scandal in another government agency, the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Committeemen, who plan to question Caudle further, have said they wanted to find out why "so many" cases of alleged tax fraud, recommended for prosecution, had been dropped.

Trip Raised Question

However, Joseph Short, presidential secretary, stressed that Caudle was ousted for outside activities. He did not elaborate. Questions have been raised about a practically free trip Caudle took to Europe last summer to help two Italian wine merchants in this country preserve dollar credits "frozen" in Italian banks.

Oil well speculation in which Caudle had engaged also received recent public attention.

In Washington, Caudle told newsmin with tears in his eyes:

"My heart is broken. I have nothing to hide from anybody.

"I have many friends all over the United States who have pursued their cases in my division, but regardless of friendship or tremendous pressures, like the gyroscope on a battleship, I have steered straight down the course, sending cases to the grand jury when every conceivable pressure had been brought against me not to do so."

Still "Respects" Truman

Caudle said that during his four years as tax prosecution chief he had to make decisions that "led to suicide, heart trouble and mental derangement" of some accused persons.

He said President Truman fired him without a hearing and the first he knew about it was when Attorney General McGrath told him he was through shortly before the White House announcement.

"But I still want to emphasize that I still respect the President very much," he said.

Noted as one of Washington's best after-dinner speakers, Caudle is a close friend of Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark and had considered running for governor of North Carolina.

President Truman announced the firing of Caudle just 24 hours after telling newsmen he wanted to get at the bottom of tax-collection scandals and that if anybody is at fault he'll have to take the consequences.

30 Dope Sellers Arrested In D.C.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—At least 30 major Washington area dope peddlers were arrested tonight in a widespread series of raids, police reported. They declined to say how many more were being sought.

Boyd M. Martin, area narcotics supervisor, described those picked up as the "top men in the echelon of dope peddlers in the Washington area."

Many of them, he said, obtained supplies of heroin in New York and sold it to smaller peddlers here. They also provided a source of supplies for peddlers in Baltimore, Richmond and Norfolk, Martin said.

He described their operations as independent, rather than as those of an organized ring.

Martin said investigations leading to the raids were started last July 27. At that time, major operators in the area already were catalogued and most of the time since has been spent in collecting evidence, he explained.

U. S. Drafts New Formula To Spur Armistice Talks

Would Place Time Limit On Truce Line

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—A new formula designed to get Korean truce talks off dead center and attain an early armistice has been drafted here, officials disclosed tonight.

Indications are that it has already been forwarded to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, United Nations commander, for use as he sees fit in the negotiations with the Communists at Panmunjon.

The heart of the proposal is reported to be that the United Nations will agree conditionally to the drawing of a cease-fire line along the present battle line. This cease-fire would become effective when all terms of an armistice have been agreed upon.

Would Lay Down Time Limit

The specified condition is that the agreement on the line would be good only for a limited period of time—perhaps about 30 days. During that period the fighting would continue and the negotiators would be committed to see whether they could solve the remaining highly controversial armistice problems which they have not yet talked about.

If these problems could be solved full armistice terms would be agreed upon, subject only to approval by the Communist and United Nations governments and a cease-fire would then become effective along the present battle line.

Wary Of "Phoney Peace"

If the necessary terms were not agreed in the time fixed, then the negotiations could revert to their present stage—or take any other turn that the governments concerned thought necessary.

Ridgway and the officials here have also been wary of Red maneuvers to get what they consider a "phoney peace"—that is, an end to the fighting without arrangements for enforcing the armistice and exchanging prisoners. On this point the determined U. N. policy has been that until a real truce is fully established the fighting must go on.

Wind Delays A-Tests

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Nov. 16 (AP)—Atomic scientists waited today for high winds to die down so they can proceed with the second chapter of the fall nuclear series.

"Lots Closer" To Buffer Agreement

MUNSAN, Korea, Saturday, Nov. 17 (AP) — An Allied spokesman expressed fresh optimism Friday over the outcome of the stalled talks on a Korean cease-fire line—but there still was no settlement in sight.

A U. N. command communique said Friday's five-hour 15-minute session at Panmunjom ended "without attaining any tangible results."

However, the acting spokesman, Lt. Col. Howard S. Levie, New York, told correspondents he felt that they were "a lot closer today" than a month ago or a week ago.

"If your delegates didn't feel hopeful of a solution they wouldn't be going back day after day," he explained.

Talks Have "Cleared Air"

"The talks which have been going on have certainly cleared the air and, while I am not going to prognosticate, there is no reason why some means should not be found for the two parties to solve this problem."

The subcommittees have been assigned only one problem in the overall attempt to achieve an armistice in the bloody conflict — where to draw a temporary military demarcation line between the United Nations and Communist forces.

Their proposals are similar on that point. It would be a line based on the present battlefront. It would be two and one-half miles wide and would reflect battle changes, if any, up to the time a full armistice is signed.

Allies Admit Violation

But the Allied delegates insist that the Reds want to use such a line as the basis for an immediate cease-fire.

The U. N. is convinced that agreement can be reached on other points —such as the exchange of prisoners —only if the Reds know they face unrelenting military pressure until a formal armistice.

After investigating an informal Red complaint, the Allies admitted Friday a U. N. plane flew over the Panmunjom neutral area "through navigational error" Nov. 10.

Reds Force Allies Back

SEOUL, Saturday, Nov. 17 (AP) — Sudden Red attacks drove Allied troops off two advance positions on the Korean western and eastern fronts Friday.

In the west, north of Yonchon, Chinese infantry, aided by at least five tanks, made a sudden push that forced the Allies back from an unidentified location. Allied officers, who reported the action without disclosing the number of Reds involved, said the defenders withdrew soon after the Communists opened fire.

Tenant Overpaid Him; Owner Sues

DAYTON, O., Nov. 16 (AP) — A landlord today filed suit against his tenant, claiming he paid him too much rent.

Les Fashner bought a building from Charles Travner. He said Travner told him an apartment in it rented for $15 a week.

Fashner allowed Travner to stay in the building from March 4 to Oct. 15.

Fashner said his tenant then went to the rent office, reporting he had been overcharged because the building was registered for only eight dollars a week—and the government sued Fashner for three times the rent collection.

Fashner asked $5,000 damages, claiming Travner knew all the time the apartment was registered for eight dollars.

Official Of Western Union Accused Of Aiding Bookies

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP) — A Western Union vice president was arrested today, accused of conspiring with gamblers to set up a horse race wire in Michigan.

Michigan authorities charged the executive, Samuel Barr, 45, leased the wire "with full personal knowledge of what it was to be used for."

Barr surrendered in answer to a Grand Rapids, Mich., warrant. He was released for a hearing Dec. 7.

In New Jersey, meanwhile, Western Union and its Bridgeton office manager, Charles Frake, were fined $1,000 each for allegedly turning their small town office there into a $300,000 a year horse betting exchange.

Both Frake and the company at once filed notice of appeal. They were convicted Nov. 1 after a 25-day trial.

Frake also drew a suspended sentence of one to two years in prison.

In its defense, the company told New Jersey authorities it is obliged to send all messages that are not libelous or obscene.

However, on the day after the trial, Western Union ordered a nationwide ban on the use of its wires to send bets. It said it did so to protect its employes from possible prosecution.

Ridgway Sorry Evidence Not Coordinated

Red Radio Brands Charge As False

TOKYO, Saturday, Nov. 17 (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway tonight confirmed the authenticity of a report of atrocities committed by Communist soldiers in Korea.

But the supreme Allied commander expressed regret that evidence had not been coordinated before it was released.

He said that it had caused unnecessary anguish among relatives of soldiers in Korea, saying that all deaths had been reported to next of kin regardless of how death occurred.

Ridgway referred to a statement issued Wednesday by Col. James M. Hanley, chief of the U. S. Eighth Army's war crimes section, that 5,500 U. S. war prisoners had been massacred by the Reds since the outbreak of the war.

Gen. Ridgway's statement said:

"It had been concluded some months ago that at an appropriate time when the accumulated evidence warranted and when due coordination had been effected with the proper authorities in Washington this evidence should be made public.

"That this coordination was not properly effected at the time of this release is of the utmost regret to this headquarters."

Ridgway's statement made no mention of the exact figures on atrocities against Allied prisoners of war.

Charge False, Reds Say

TOKYO, Saturday, Nov. 17 (AP)— The Peiping radio today branded as false a report that United Nations war prisoners had been slain by the Communists and loosed the countercharge that "thousands and tens of thousands" of Red war prisoners "have been massacred."

A Chinese language broadcast monitored here asserted the statement issued by the U. S. Eighth Army's legal officer saying nearly 6,000 U. N. war prisoners had been slain "was nothing but shameful provocation."

The broadcast then said that "thousands and tens of thousands" of Chinese and North Korean Communist soldiers "who fell into the hands of the United Nations forces have been massacred."

The Allies maintain that all Communist prisoners have been treated well in conformity with the Geneva convention for the care of prisoners of war. The Chinese Communists do not subscribe to the Geneva convention.

The Peiping broadcast said the statement by Col. James M. Hanley, Eighth Army judge advocate general, had no basis in fact.

"The Communist side," Peiping said, "in accordance with the spirit of humanity, is treating the prisoners of war well despite difficult conditions.

"Fearing that the true facts might be reported, the United Nations command headquarters since last February has prohibited correspondents from questioning or interviewing released prisoners."

Hints Of Skepticism Arise

Hints of skepticism arose yesterday over the reported murder of 5,500 American prisoners of war in Korea as Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway pushed a full investigation into the story that shocked the nation.

It was suggested in Washington that figures on some of the reported killings may have been duplicated.

On the battlefront, the armed services radio broadcast the three-day-old report for the first time to U. S. troops and their Allies.

The Army denied any censorship in connection with the earlier radio silence on the story of mass atrocities. Field officers explained the delay on the ground there were "too many unknown quantities" and "so much conflict in the figures between various agencies."

U. S. Considering Iran Loan Plea

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 16 (AP)— President Truman has told Iran that her request for a U. S. loan will be given careful consideration.

He made no commitment otherwise, Presidential Press Secretary Joseph Short said today in disclosing that Mr. Truman had replied to the plea of Iran's Prime Minister Mossadegh for financial help.

Mossadegh has been in this country for weeks, pleading Iran's side of the dispute with Great Britain over the nationalization of British oil properties in Iran, and seeking a loan of about $120,000,000 for the next 12 months.

Johnston Urges Indirect Curbs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—Eric Johnston, retiring as commander of the nation's defenses against inflation, recommended today that direct wage and price controls be dropped "at the earliest possible time."

"The only way this can be done is by adopting a firm policy on indirect controls," the economic stabilization director said in advocating greater reliance on taxation and credit policy.

Johnson is resigning his post Nov. 30 to return to the presidency of the Motion Picture Association. He discussed the task of his successor at a news conference one day after President Truman accepted the resignation with "real regret."

Johnston did not say what he thought would be "the earliest possible time" to substitute indirect controls for direct wage and price curbs. However, on other occasions he has said that, barring world war, controls can be eased off about the middle of 1953.

Johnston forecast a period of "relative calm" in the anti-inflation battle during the next two or three months. Reminded by reporters that the CIO steelworkers are coming up with demands for wage increases that would break present wage ceilings, he said that matter wouldn't reach the ESA for perhaps three months.

Most Prisoners Of Allies Want To Stay Below 38th

U. N. PRISONER OF WAR CAMP, Koje Island, Korea, Nov. 16 (AP)—Red prisoners of the Allies in Korea are well-fed, well-clothed, get an objective education and a well-rounded sports and recreation program.

Most of them say they don't want to return to China or North Korea.

John Benben, Chicago, chief of the instructional branch, civilian infromation and education section, at the prisoner of war camp, made these statements. He said:

"The average prisoner does not know why he was fighting.

"Most of the Chinese would like to go to Formosa to join the Nationalist forces, which in most cases they originally belonged to. With the exception of the few hard-core North Korean Communist officers, the average North Korean soldier would prefer to stay south of the 38th parallel."

Benben is on leave from Northwestern University to direct the educational program for prisoners on this island off the coast of South Korea.

"We have 160,000 people interned here including 18,000 Chinese and 40,000 North and South Korean civilians who are considered dangerous," said Col. Maurice J. Fitzgerald, Alexandria, Va., commander of the camp.

West Va. Rep. Kee Won't Seek Reelection

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Nov. 16 (AP)—Rep. Elizabeth Kee, Bluefield, said today she would not seek reelection to Congress next year from the West Virginia Fifth District.

Mrs. Kee, in a letter to the Bluefield Daily Telegraph, said that for "personal reasons" she had decided against running again after giving "a great deal of serious thought to the widespread requests that I become a candidate for reelection."

Mrs. Kee defeated Republican Cyrus Gadd of Princeton in a special election held last July to fill the unexpired term of her husband, Rep. John Kee, veteran Democratic congressman.

Activities Held Not In Keeping With His Duties

Caudle Declares "Heart Is Broken"

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 16 (AP) — President Truman fired Assistant Attorney General T. Lamar Caudle today, saying he had "engaged in outside activities" not in keeping with his duties as the government's No. 1 prosecutor of tax frauds.

The 47-year-old Caudle, chief of the Justice Department's tax division, has been under questioning by a House committee which previously had unearthed a widespread scandal in another government agency, the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Committeemen, who plan to question Caudle further, have said they wanted to find out why "so many" cases of alleged tax fraud, recommended for prosecution, had been dropped.

Trip Raised Question

However, Joseph Short, presidential secretary, stressed that Caudle was ousted for outside activities. He did not elaborate. Questions have been raised about a practically free trip Caudle took to Europe last summer to help two Italian wine merchants in this country preserve dollar credits "frozen" in Italian banks.

Oil well speculation in which Caudle had engaged also received recent public attention.

In Washington, Caudle told newsmin with tears in his eyes:

"My heart is broken. I have nothing to hide from anybody.

"I have many friends all over the United States who have pursued their cases in my division, but regardless of friendship or tremendous pressures, like the gyroscope on a battleship, I have steered straight down the course, sending cases to the grand jury when every conceivable pressure had been brought against me not to do so."

Still "Respects" Truman

Caudle said that during his four years as tax prosecution chief he had to make decisions that "led to suicide, heart trouble and mental derangement" of some accused persons.

He said President Truman fired him without a hearing and the first he knew about it was when Attorney General McGrath told him he was through shortly before the White House announcement.

"But I still want to emphasize that I still respect the President very much," he said.

Noted as one of Washington's best after-dinner speakers, Caudle is a close friend of Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark and had considered running for governor of North Carolina.

President Truman announced the firing of Caudle just 24 hours after telling newsmen he wanted to get at the bottom of tax-collection scandals and that if anybody is at fault he'll have to take the consequences.

30 Dope Sellers Arrested In D.C.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—At least 30 major Washington area dope peddlers were arrested tonight in a widespread series of raids, police reported. They declined to say how many more were being sought.

Boyd M. Martin, area narcotics supervisor, described those picked up as the "top men in the echelon of dope peddlers in the Washington area."

Many of them, he said, obtained supplies of heroin in New York and sold it to smaller peddlers here. They also provided a source of supplies for peddlers in Baltimore, Richmond and Norfolk, Martin said.

He described their operations as independent, rather than as those of an organized ring.

Martin said investigations leading to the raids were started last July 27. At that time, major operators in the area already were catalogued and most of the time since has been spent in collecting evidence, he explained.

"Lots Closer" To Buffer Agreement

MUNSAN, Korea, Saturday, Nov. 17 (AP) — An Allied spokesman expressed fresh optimism Friday over the outcome of the stalled talks on a Korean cease-fire line—but there still was no settlement in sight.

A U. N. command communique said Friday's five-hour 15-minute session at Panmunjom ended "without attaining any tangible results."

However, the acting spokesman, Lt. Col. Howard S. Levie, New York, told correspondents he felt that they were "a lot closer today" than a month ago or a week ago.

"If your delegates didn't feel hopeful of a solution they wouldn't be going back day after day," he explained.

Talks Have "Cleared Air"

"The talks which have been going on have certainly cleared the air and, while I am not going to prognosticate, there is no reason why some means should not be found for the two parties to solve this problem."

The subcommittees have been assigned only one problem in the overall attempt to achieve an armistice in the bloody conflict — where to draw a temporary military demarcation line between the United Nations and Communist forces.

Their proposals are similar on that point. It would be a line based on the present battlefront. It would be two and one-half miles wide and would reflect battle changes, if any, up to the time a full armistice is signed.

Allies Admit Violation

But the Allied delegates insist that the Reds want to use such a line as the basis for an immediate cease-fire.

The U. N. is convinced that agreement can be reached on other points —such as the exchange of prisoners —only if the Reds know they face unrelenting military pressure until a formal armistice.

After investigating an informal Red complaint, the Allies admitted Friday a U. N. plane flew over the Panmunjom neutral area "through navigational error" Nov. 10.

Reds Force Allies Back

SEOUL, Saturday, Nov. 17 (AP) — Sudden Red attacks drove Allied troops off two advance positions on the Korean western and eastern fronts Friday.

In the west, north of Yonchon, Chinese infantry, aided by at least five tanks, made a sudden push that forced the Allies back from an unidentified location. Allied officers, who reported the action without disclosing the number of Reds involved, said the defenders withdrew soon after the Communists opened fire.

U. S. Drafts New Formula To Spur Armistice Talks

Would Place Time Limit On Truce Line

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—A new formula designed to get Korean truce talks off dead center and attain an early armistice has been drafted here, officials disclosed tonight.

Indications are that it has already been forwarded to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, United Nations commander, for use as he sees fit in the negotiations with the Communists at Panmunjon.

The heart of the proposal is reported to be that the United Nations will agree conditionally to the drawing of a cease-fire line along the present battle line. This cease-fire would become effective when all terms of an armistice have been agreed upon.

Would Lay Down Time Limit

The specified condition is that the agreement on the line would be good only for a limited period of time—perhaps about 30 days. During that period the fighting would continue and the negotiators would be committed to see whether they could solve the remaining highly controversial armistice problems which they have not yet talked about.

If these problems could be solved full armistice terms would be agreed upon, subject only to approval by the Communist and United Nations governments and a cease-fire would then become effective along the present battle line.

Wary Of "Phoney Peace"

If the necessary terms were not agreed in the time fixed, then the negotiations could revert to their present stage—or take any other turn that the governments concerned thought necessary.

Ridgway and the officials here have also been wary of Red maneuvers to get what they consider a "phoney peace"—that is, an end to the fighting without arrangements for enforcing the armistice and exchanging prisoners. On this point the determined U. N. policy has been that until a real truce is fully established the fighting must go on.

Wind Delays A-Tests

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Nov. 16 (AP)—Atomic scientists waited today for high winds to die down so they can proceed with the second chapter of the fall nuclear series.

Tenant Overpaid Him; Owner Sues

DAYTON, O., Nov. 16 (AP) — A landlord today filed suit against his tenant, claiming he paid him too much rent.

Les Fashner bought a building from Charles Travner. He said Travner told him an apartment in it rented for $15 a week.

Fashner allowed Travner to stay in the building from March 4 to Oct. 15.

Fashner said his tenant then went to the rent office, reporting he had been overcharged because the building was registered for only eight dollars a week—and the government sued Fashner for three times the rent collection.

Fashner asked $5,000 damages, claiming Travner knew all the time the apartment was registered for eight dollars.

Official Of Western Union Accused Of Aiding Bookies

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP) — A Western Union vice president was arrested today, accused of conspiring with gamblers to set up a horse race wire in Michigan.

Michigan authorities charged the executive, Samuel Barr, 45, leased the wire "with full personal knowledge of what it was to be used for."

Barr surrendered in answer to a Grand Rapids, Mich., warrant. He was released for a hearing Dec. 7.

In New Jersey, meanwhile, Western Union and its Bridgeton office manager, Charles Frake, were fined $1,000 each for allegedly turning their small town office there into a $300,000 a year horse betting exchange.

Both Frake and the company at once filed notice of appeal. They were convicted Nov. 1 after a 25-day trial.

Frake also drew a suspended sentence of one to two years in prison.

In its defense, the company told New Jersey authorities it is obliged to send all messages that are not libelous or obscene.

However, on the day after the trial, Western Union ordered a nationwide ban on the use of its wires to send bets. It said it did so to protect its employes from possible prosecution.

Ridgway Sorry Evidence Not Coordinated

Red Radio Brands Charge As False

TOKYO, Saturday, Nov. 17 (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway tonight confirmed the authenticity of a report of atrocities committed by Communist soldiers in Korea.

But the supreme Allied commander expressed regret that evidence had not been coordinated before it was released.

He said that it had caused unnecessary anguish among relatives of soldiers in Korea, saying that all deaths had been reported to next of kin regardless of how death occurred.

Ridgway referred to a statement issued Wednesday by Col. James M. Hanley, chief of the U. S. Eighth Army's war crimes section, that 5,500 U. S. war prisoners had been massacred by the Reds since the outbreak of the war.

Gen. Ridgway's statement said:

"It had been concluded some months ago that at an appropriate time when the accumulated evidence warranted and when due coordination had been effected with the proper authorities in Washington this evidence should be made public.

"That this coordination was not properly effected at the time of this release is of the utmost regret to this headquarters."

Charge False, Reds Say

TOKYO, Saturday, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Peiping radio today branded as false a report that United Nations war prisoners had been slain by the Communists and loosed the countercharge that "thousands and tens of thousands" of Red war prisoners "have been massacred."

A Chinese language broadcast monitored here asserted the statement issued by the U. S. Eighth Army's legal officer saying nearly 6,000 U. N. war prisoners had been slain "was nothing but shameful provocation."

The broadcast then said that "thousands and tens of thousands" of Chinese and North Korean Communist soldiers "who fell into the hands of the United Nations forces have been massacred."

The Allies maintain that all Communist prisoners have been treated well in conformity with the Geneva convention for the care of prisoners of war. The Chinese Communists do not subscribe to the Geneva convention.

The Peiping broadcast said the statement by Col. James M. Hanley, Eighth Army judge advocate general, had no basis in fact.

"The Communist side," Peiping said, "in accordance with the spirit of humanity, is treating the prisoners of war well despite difficult conditions.

"Fearing that the true facts might be reported, the United Nations command headquarters since last February has prohibited correspondents from questioning or interviewing released prisoners."

Hints Of Skepticism Arise

Hints of skepticism arose yesterday over the reported murder of 5,500 American prisoners of war in Korea as Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway pushed a full investigation into the story that shocked the nation.

It was suggested in Washington that figures on some of the reported killings may have been duplicated.

On the battlefront, the armed services radio broadcast the three-day-old report for the first time to U. S. troops and their Allies.

The Army denied any censorship in connection with the earlier radio silence on the story of mass atrocities. Field officers explained the delay on the ground there were "too many unknown quantities" and "so much conflict in the figures between various agencies."

U. S. Considering Iran Loan Plea

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 16 (AP)—President Truman has told Iran that her request for a U. S. loan will be given careful consideration.

He made no commitment otherwise, Presidential Press Secretary Joseph Short said today in disclosing that Mr. Truman had replied to the plea of Iran's Prime Minister Mossadegh for financial help.

Mossadegh has been in this country for weeks, pleading Iran's side of the dispute with Great Britain over the nationalization of British oil properties in Iran, and seeking a loan of about $120,000,000 for the next 12 months.

LeMay Says His Bombers Could Blast Any Foe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—The chief of the U. S. bomber force said tonight his far-reaching air fleet could launch swift retaliatory attacks at the industrial and military heart of any enemy. At the same time, he cautioned it would be a gigantic task needing more than "a handful of bombers and atomic bombs."

Gen. Curtis LeMay, head of the Strategic Air Command, outlined the mission and capability of his force in an address prepared for delivery to the National Geographic Society.

He did not use figures in his prepared text to explain how big a force would be needed to wage strategic air war against a large, land-mass enemy like Russia. However, the Joint Chiefs of Staff have recommended a buildup of the United States Air Force from a current strength of about 90 wings to a level of about 140. The force of strategic bomber units, now between 12 and 15 wings, presumably would be expanded at least proportionately in the buildup.

LeMay said a popular slogan now is "let's get the battle back to the battlefield," to wage a war between soldiers and air forces on the actual battlefront. He said he was in sympathy with that slogan but that the advent of the atomic bomb and the long range bomber force now make it difficult to confine a battle to a battlefield. Before that can be done, he said, two things are essential:

1. Destruction by interceptor planes of the Air Defense Command of enemy bomber planes flying to attack the United States. However, some bombers probably would get through the defenses.

2. Destruction of both enemy bomber fields and all war-goods industries, to wreck as much as possible of the enemy's bomber forces before it can become airborne and to cripple supplies of equipment for the battle front.

Mistrial Is Declared In Negro Assault Case

YANCEYVILLE, N. C., Nov. 16 (AP)—In a courtroom built nearly a century ago with the help of slaves, two negro jurors steadfastly refused today to convict a negro sharecropper of assaulting a pretty white girl.

Refusal of the two to believe Mack Ingram guilty of assault resulted in Superior Court Judge J. A. Rousseau declaring the case a mistrial. Two other negroes on the jury and eight white men had voted to convict Ingram, Foreman C. J. Long reported.

The state had contended that Ingram, 44-year-old father of nine children had frightened 17-year-old Willie Jean Boswell by "leering" at her and chasing her across a cornfield last June 4. This, said Solicitor R. J. Scott, constituted an assault on a female under North Carolina law.

300-Lb. Deer Will Cost Hunter $1,500

DENVER, Nov. 16 (AP)— Robert T. Broden, Denver, returned from a hunting trip with a four-point buck weighing 300 pounds.

There was no space available in commercial food lockers.

In desperation, Broden bought bought himself a $300 deep freeze. Then he found there was no space for it in the family's four-room home.

So Broden started building a porch on the house in which to place the deep freeze. Total estimated cost, including hunting equipment and trip, deep freeze and construction: $1,500—or about $5 a pound for his deer.

Navy Is Blamed For Smelly Water

PERRYVILLE, Md., Nov. 16 (AP)—Even the president of the water company acknowledged today that Perryville's supply is all fouled up.

He assured uneasy residents that the water is safe to drink, though smelly. He blamed the trouble on the U. S. Navy.

Don Cole, president of the Perryville Water Company, said he has had but three hours sleep in three days because people have been pestering him.

One rumor started going around to the effect that the schools had told children not to drink it.

Cole explained how the trouble developed:

On Nov. 1, the big Bainbridge naval training center a few miles up the Susquehanna River started cleaning out its sewage disposal plant.

Sludge from the plant was spread on two large fields. The fields sloped toward a creek and springs that feed into the Perryville reservoir. Sludge covered the ground to a depth of eight inches. One of the fields is only 80 yards from the main spring supplying the reservoir.

Italian Floods Kill 94, Cover 15 Villages

REVIGO, Italy, Nov. 16 (AP)—The worst floods in North Italy's modern history covered at least 15 villages today, claimed 94 persons dead or missing and lapped at the outskirts of this city of 40,000, which lies between the raging Po and Adige Rivers.

The public works department said only blasting of dikes of the two rivers could divert the flood from Rovigo. An Italian fighter plane was specially fitted out to bomb the dikes, but fog forced delay of its takeoff until tomorrow.

Runaway Miss Travels By Plane

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—Time was, not so many years ago, a kid got fed up with things and decided to run away, she hopped her tricycle and ended up a few blocks from home.

Not any more, though. Take 11-year-old Sandra Mateza, a modern miss from Boston.

She ran away last night, walked aboard a Northeast Airlines plane at Boston's Logan Field and headed —she thought—for California. That she didn't have a cent was only incidental to her.

A stewardess made brown-haired, blue-eyed Sandra comfortable, and gave her cocoa and cookies. Nobody said anything about a ticket.

At La Gurdia Field here, Sandra hopped a Trans-Canada airliner instead of one to California.

Curiosity got the best of Sandra as the pilot warmed up the motors. Other people had tickets. Something about this seemed too easy to her. So Sandra went to the pilot's compartment and asked him what all this ticket business was about.

That, of course, did it and her whole story soon came out. Sandra spent the night in a children's shelter.

Today, Sandra's father, Joseph, a Boston tool and die maker, drove to New York to take her home. He said she is bright but "emotionally upset."

British Military Jeep Ambushed In Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 16 (AP)—The British said a military jeep escorting the car of Capt. Dunford Slater, commander of the cruiser Gambia, was ambushed today in the Suez Canal zone, but no one was wounded.

They also reported four Egyptians were injured in a fight that broke out when British military police went to the rescue of two British soldiers who had fallen into the hands of a street gang in the Arab part of Port Said.

A British spokesman said "a certain amount of rifle fire was exchanged by both sides," but denied Egyptian newspaper reports that the troops were supported by tanks.

Stolen Gems Found After Bargain Offer

BOSTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—Proffer of a $12,000 ring for $5 today resulted in recovery of $30,000 in stolen jewelry and placed a woman in custody after police were summoned by a pawnbroker.

They said Amelia Grace, 37, a domestic, told them she had no idea of the value of the jewelry, much of which was found in her room. She said it had been given her by a man she met in a tavern.

Police said it was part of $47,000 in jewelry stolen from a Cape Cod home more than a year ago.

Stamps Needed For Punchboards

BALTIMORE, Nov. 16 (AP)—The Collector of Internal Revenue today warned Maryland punchboard operators that they come under the new federal law which makes it necessary for lottery operators and gamblers to obtain federal tax stamps by Dec. 1.

Collector George Hofferbert said no operators from Anne Arundel, Charles or Calvert Counties have applied for the stamps. Though punchboards are legal in those counties, the operators are subject to the federal law, he added.

He also warned that conductors of football, baseball and other sports pools, who work for a profit, can be prosecuted for failure to comply with the law.

He pointed out that penalties range up to $10,000 fines plus imprisonment.

Terrors Seeking Win For Perfect Season

[By The Associated Press]

The state's best little football rivalry, John Hopkins and Western Maryland, has extra interest today (Saturday) because of the Green Terrors' undefeated record.

If Western Maryland wins the finale for both teams it will be the first undefeated, untied season for the Westminster College since 1929. That was during Western Maryland's golden era of football when coached by Dick Harlow the Terrors met and beat some of the biggest names in the game.

A Western Maryland victory will carry with it the championship of the Mason Dixon Conference.

Coach Charlie Havens, as usual, has a rugged defensive crew which has held seven opponents to 60 points. Hopkins, on the other hand, shines on offense with 171 points. Hopkins has a 2-5 record.

Waste Paper Collections Are Postponed Here

Weekly waste paper collections in Cumberland have been postponed until further notice, according to Emmet A. Dougherty.

The reason for the curtailment of collections, Dougherty noted, is the lack of a market for the paper at the present time. The postponement, Dougherty said, will continue about a month until a market develops.

Officer Swears Out Warrant In Assault Case

Lonaconing Police Officer Stanley Davis yesterday swore out a warrant before Trial Magistrate William J. Gunter for the arrest of a Westernport man charged with assaulting him.

The alleged assault, Davis said, occured Thursday night at his home in Lonaconing following a traffic hearing in which Richard Reeves, of Westernport, was fined $11.45 by Magistrate James Blair, at Midland, on two traffic violations.

After subduing Reeves, according to a report, Davis took him into custody and put him in the Lonaconing jail. Bond of $100 was posted by Reeves and he was to have appeared for a hearing at Trial Magistrate's Court in Cumberland.

Yesterday morning when Reeves failed to appear, Davis swore out the warrant and, according to Magistrate Gunter, Reeves will be taken into custody and given a hearing next week.

State Police and the sheriff's office reported that Richard Reeves, of Westernport, had been arrested in Lonaconing on two traffic charges.

They said a woman resident of Lonaconing had warrants sworn out against Reeves for speeding and running through a red traffic light near her home.

Treasury To Review Law Practice Rolls

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP) —The Treasury Department announced today it is reviewing the qualifications of some 97,000 attorneys and accountants now licensed to practice before its agencies.

The purpose of the review, Treasury officials said, is to weed out disbarred attorneys, criminals and other unfit persons.

John L. Graves, chairman of the Treasury Committee on Practice, disclosed that the practice rolls have not been revised in 17 years. The last revision, he said, was in 1934, when the number of persons permitted to practice before tax courts, customs boards and similar agencies was reduced from 34,000 to 26,000.

Bodies Of Two

was bound for Langley Field, Va., but he could not be certain.

The B-26 normally carries a six-man crew.

Two Bodies Found

Maryland State Police said wreckage of the B-26 was scattered over about six acres as the light bomber hit a tree and exploded near W. Va. Route 24 between Eglon and Aurora, W.Va., late yesterday afternoon.

They said parts of the bodies of two of the three crewmen believed aboard the plane enroute to Langley Field, Va., from Pittsburgh, Pa., have been recovered.

No trace had been found early last night, they said, of the third man believed aboard the plane which was was traveling over the Allegany plateau in a dense fog.

Motors of the twin-engined plane were found over 300 yards apart, Maryland State Police said.

Aid Is Dispatched

LaVale barracks of the Maryland State Police received word of the plane crash about 6:15 a. m. in a radio report from Trooper First Class Robert Henline, Oakland, who left immediately for the scene of the accident, about two miles across the Maryland line and about 12 miles from Oakland.

Maryland State Police here immediately radioed news of the crash to the Romney, W. Va., State Police barracks, who notified Elkins.

The barracks said searchers had identified four numbers of the plane and listed them as 5434.

Two other Maryland State Troopers, Blair Buckle, Grantsville, and Timothy M. Gilmore, Westernport, were dispatched to the scene to aid West Virginia authorities, the barracks said.

In Rural Area

The Army Air Force plane went down between Eglon, a Preston County town with a population of 184, and Aurora, W. Va., which has a population of about 140.

Witnesses said the plane crashed about 5:30 p. m. and said it seemed to explode in mid-air.

One of the engines of the twin-engined light bomber struck a corner of the home of Ernest Shaffer, near Eglon, W. Va., causing some damage to the house but leaving its occupants unhurt.

Rush To Scene

James Bell, Oakland photographer, said he learned of the crash when the Oakland Fire Company siren sounded the alarm.

He accompanied the firemen and volunteers to the scene of the crash.

Within a few minutes, over five ambulances were at the scene.

Bell said when they arrived, flickering fires remained where wreckage of the plane had burned.

Small bits of the plane, trees, clothing, parachutes and bodies were scattered, he said, over several acres, concentrating on W. Va. Route 24 and about the Shaffer home and barn.

Motor Hits Home

One of the motors of the plane hit the north side of the Shaffer home, near Eglon. The home was badly damaged as the heavy engine hit the kitchen.

The engine riccocheted to a swamp about 100 yards away.

Occupants of the Shaffer home escaped injury when the house was struck.

Bell said the engine demolished the wagon of one of the Shaffer children, who was heartbroken at his loss. Bystanders soothed the child by saying he would get another wagon from Santa Claus.

The searchers began their work as fog and sleet which later changed to snow, fell on the area.

At least 500 volunteers rushed to the scene to aid in rescue work and and remained to search for bodies of the victims.

LeMay Says His Bombers Could Blast Any Foe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—The chief of the U. S. bomber force said tonight his far-reaching air fleet could launch swift retaliatory attacks at the industrial and military heart of any enemy. At the same time, he cautioned it would be a gigantic task needing more than "a handful of bombers and atomic bombs."

Gen. Curtis LeMay, head of the Strategic Air Command, outlined the mission and capability of his force in an address prepared for delivery to the National Geographic Society.

He did not use figures in his prepared text to explain how big a force would be needed to wage strategic air war against a large, land-mass enemy like Russia. However, the Joint Chiefs of Staff have recommended a buildup of the United States Air Force from a current strength of about 90 wings to a level of about 140. The force of strategic bomber units, now between 12 and 15 wings, presumably would be expanded at least proportionately in the buildup.

LeMay said a popular slogan now is "let's get the battle back to the battlefield," to wage a war between soldiers and air forces on the actual battlefront. He said he was in sympathy with that slogan but that the advent of the atomic bomb and the long range bomber force now make it difficult to confine a battle to a battlefield. Before that can be done, he said, two things are essential:

1. Destruction by interceptor planes of the Air Defense Command of enemy bomber planes flying to attack the United States. However, some bombers probably would get through the defenses.

2. Destruction of both enemy bomber fields and all war-goods industries, to wreck as much as possible of the enemy's bomber forces before it can become airborne and to cripple supplies of equipment for the battle front.

Mistrial Is Declared In Negro Assault Case

YANCEYVILLE, N. C., Nov. 16 (AP)—In a courtroom built nearly a century ago with the help of slaves, two negro jurors steadfastly refused today to convict a negro sharecropper of assaulting a pretty white girl.

Refusal of the two to believe Mack Ingram guilty of assault resulted in Superior Court Judge J. A. Rousseau declaring the case a mistrial. Two other negroes on the jury and eight white men had voted to convict Ingram, Foreman C. J. Long reported.

The state had contended that Ingram, 44-year-old father of nine children had frightened 17-year-old Willie Jean Boswell by "leering" at her and chasing her across a cornfield last June 4. This, said Solicitor R. J. Scott, constituted an assault on a female under North Carolina law.

300-Lb. Deer Will Cost Hunter $1,500

DENVER, Nov. 16 (AP)— Robert T. Broden, Denver, returned from a hunting trip with a four-point buck weighing 300 pounds.

There was no space available in commercial food lockers.

In desperation, Broden bought bought himself a $300 deep freeze. Then he found there was no space for it in the family's four-room home.

So Broden started building a porch on the house in which to place the deep freeze. Total estimated cost, including hunting equipment and trip, deep freeze and construction: $1,500—or about $5 a pound for his deer.

Navy Is Blamed For Smelly Water

PERRYVILLE, Md., Nov. 16 (AP)—Even the president of the water company acknowledged today that Perryville's supply is all fouled up.

He assured uneasy residents that the water is safe to drink, though smelly. He blamed the trouble on the U. S. Navy.

Don Cole, president of the Perryville Water Company, said he has had but three hours sleep in three days because people have been pestering him.

One rumor started going around to the effect that the schools had told children not to drink it.

Cole explained how the trouble developed:

On Nov. 1, the big Bainbridge naval training center a few miles up the Susquehanna River started cleaning out its sewage disposal plant.

Sludge from the plant was spread on two large fields. The fields sloped toward a creek and springs that feed into the Perryville reservoir. Sludge covered the ground to a depth of eight inches. One of the fields is only 80 yards from the main spring supplying the reservoir.

Italian Floods Kill 94, Cover 15 Villages

REVIGO, Italy, Nov. 16 (AP)—The worst floods in North Italy's modern history covered at least 15 villages today, claimed 94 persons dead or missing and lapped at the outskirts of this city of 40,000, which lies between the raging Po and Adige Rivers.

The public works department said only blasting of dikes of the two rivers could divert the flood from Rovigo. An Italian fighter plane was specially fitted out to bomb the dikes, but fog forced delay of its takeoff until tomorrow.

Sub Report Unverified

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP) — Navy headquarters said today an investigation had failed to substantiate reports that an unidentified submarine had been contacted in the Pacific Ocean off San Diego, Calif.

Runaway Miss Travels By Plane

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—Time was, not so many years ago, a kid got fed up with things and decided to run away, she hopped her tricycle and ended up a few blocks from home.

Not any more, though. Take 11-year-old Sandra Mateza, a modern miss from Boston.

She ran away last night, walked aboard a Northeast Airlines plane at Boston's Logan Field and headed —she thought—for California. That she didn't have a cent was only incidental to her.

A stewardess made brown-haired, blue-eyed Sandra comfortable, and gave her cocoa and cookies. Nobody said anything about a ticket.

At La Gurdia Field here, Sandra hopped a Trans-Canada airliner instead of one to California.

Curiosity got the best of Sandra as the pilot warmed up the motors. Other people had tickets. Something about this seemed too easy to her. So Sandra went to the pilot's compartment and asked him what all this ticket business was about.

That, of course, did it and her whole story soon came out. Sandra spent the night in a children's shelter.

Today, Sandra's father, Joseph, a Boston tool and die maker, drove to New York to take her home. He said she is bright but "emotionally upset."

British Military Jeep Ambushed In Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 16 (AP)—The British said a military jeep escorting the car of Capt. Dunford Slater, commander of the cruiser Gambia, was ambushed today in the Suez Canal zone, but no one was wounded.

They also reported four Egyptians were injured in a fight that broke out when British military police went to the rescue of two British soldiers who had fallen into the hands of a street gang in the Arab part of Port Said.

A British spokesman said "a certain amount of rifle fire was exchanged by both sides," but denied Egyptian newspaper reports that the troops were supported by tanks.

Stolen Gems Found After Bargain Offer

BOSTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—Proffer of a $12,000 ring for $5 today resulted in recovery of $30,000 in stolen jewelry and placed a woman in custody after police were summoned by a pawnbroker.

They said Amelia Grace, 37, a domestic, told them she had no idea of the value of the jewelry, much of which was found in her room. She said it had been given her by a man she met in a tavern.

Police said it was part of $47,000 in jewelry stolen from a Cape Cod home more than a year ago.

Stamps Needed For Punchboards

BALTIMORE, Nov. 16 (AP)—The Collector of Internal Revenue today warned Maryland punchboard operators that they come under the new federal law which makes it necessary for lottery operators and gamblers to obtain federal tax stamps by Dec. 1.

Collector George Hofferbert said no operators from Anne Arundel, Charles or Calvert Counties have applied for the stamps. Though punchboards are legal in those counties, the operators are subject to the federal law, he added.

He also warned that conductors of football, baseball and other sports pools, who work for a profit, can be prosecuted for failure to comply with the law.

He pointed out that penalties range up to $10,000 fines plus imprisonment.

Terrors Seeking Win For Perfect Season

[By The Associated Press]

The state's best little football rivalry, John Hopkins and Western Maryland, has extra interest today (Saturday) because of the Green Terrors' undefeated record.

If Western Maryland wins the finale for both teams it will be the first undefeated, untied season for the Westminster College since 1929. That was during Western Maryland's golden era of football when coached by Dick Harlow the Terrors met and beat some of the biggest na...es in the game.

A Western Maryland victory will carry with it the championship of the Mason Dixon Conference.

Coach Charlie Havens, as usual, has a rugged defensive crew which has held seven opponents to 60 points. Hopkins, on the other hand, shines on offense with 171 points. Hopkins has a 2-5 record.

Waste Paper Collections Are Postponed Here

Weekly waste paper collections in Cumberland have been postponed until further notice, according to Emmet A. Dougherty.

The reason for the curtailment of collections, Dougherty noted, is the lack of a market for the paper at the present time. The postponement, Dougherty said, will continue about a month until a market develops.

Officer Swears Out Warrant In Assault Case

Lonaconing Police Officer Stanley Davis yesterday swore out a warrant before Trial Magistrate William J. Gunter for the arrest of a Westernport man charged with assaulting him.

The alleged assault, Davis said, occured Thursday night at his home in Lonaconing following a traffic hearing in which Richard Reeves, of Westernport, was fined $11.45 by Magistrate James Blair, at Midland, on two traffic violations.

After subduing Reeves, according to a report, Davis took him into custody and put him in the Lonaconing jail. Bond of $100 was posted by Reeves and he was to have appeared for a hearing at Trial Magistrate's Court in Cumberland.

Yesterday morning when Reeves failed to appear, Davis swore out the warrant and, according to Magistrate Gunter, Reeves will be taken into custody and given a hearing next week.

State Police and the sheriff's office reported that Richard Reeves, of Westernport, had been arrested in Lonaconing on two traffic charges.

They said a woman resident of Lonaconing had warrants sworn out against Reeves for speeding and running through a red traffic light near her home.

Treasury To Review Law Practice Rolls

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP) —The Treasury Department announced today it is reviewing the qualifications of some 97,000 attorneys and accountants now licensed to practice before its agencies.

The purpose of the review, Treasury officials said, is to weed out disbarred attorneys, criminals and other unfit persons.

John L. Graves, chairman of the Treasury Committee on Practice, disclosed that the practice rolls have not been revised in 17 years. The last revision, he said, was in 1934, when the number of persons permitted to practice before tax courts, customs boards and similar agencies was reduced from 34,000 to 26,000.

Bodies Of Two

was bound for Langley Field, Va., but he could not be certain.

The B-26 normally carries a six-man crew.

Two Bodies Found

Maryland State Police said wreckage of the B-26 was scattered over about six acres as the light bomber hit a tree and exploded near W. Va. Route 24 between Eglon and Aurora, W.Va., late yesterday afternoon.

They said parts of the bodies of two of the three crewmen believed aboard the plane enroute to Langley Field, Va., from Pittsburgh, Pa., have been recovered.

No trace had been found early last night, they said, of the third man believed aboard the plane which was was traveling over the Allegany plateau in a dense fog.

Motors of the twin-engined plane were found over 300 yards apart, Maryland State Police said.

Aid Is Dispatched

LaVale barracks of the Maryland State Police received word of the plane crash about 6:15 a. m. in a radio report from Trooper First Class Robert Henline, Oakland, who left immediately for the scene of the accident, about two miles across the Maryland line and about 12 miles from Oakland.

Maryland State Police here immediately radioed news of the crash to the Romney, W. Va., State Police barracks, who notified Elkins.

The barracks said searchers had identified four numbers of the plane and listed them as 5434.

Two other Maryland State Troopers, Blair Buckle, Grantsville, and Timothy M. Gilmore, Westernport, were dispatched to the scene to aid West Virginia authorities, the barracks said.

In Rural Area

The Army Air Force plane went down between Eglon, a Preston County town with a population of 184, and Aurora, W. Va., which has a population of about 140.

Witnesses said the plane crashed about 5:30 p. m. and said it seemed to explode in mid-air.

Rush To Scene

James Bell, Oakland photographer, said he learned of the crash when the Oakland Fire Company siren sounded the alarm.

He accompanied the firemen and volunteers to the scene of the crash.

Within a few minutes, over five ambulances were at the scene.

Bell said when they arrived, flickering fires remained where wreckage of the plane had burned.

Small bits of the plane, trees, clothing, parachutes and bodies were scattered, he said, over several acres, concentrating on W. Va. Route 24 and about the Shaffer home and barn.

Motor Hits Home

One of the motors of the plane hit the north side of the Shaffer home, near Eglon. The home was badly damaged as the heavy engine hit the kitchen.

The engine ricocheted to a swamp about 100 yards away.

Occupants of the Shaffer home escaped injury when the house was struck.

Bell said the engine demolished the wagon of one of the Shaffer children, who was heartbroken at his loss. Bystanders soothed the child by saying he would get another wagon from Santa Claus.

The searchers began their work as fog and sleet which later changed to snow, fell on the area.

At least 500 volunteers rushed to the scene to aid in rescue work and and remained to search for bodies of the victims.

Eisenhower Six Years Later

More than six years have now elapsed since the end of the war in which General Dwight David ("Ike" to you) Eisenhower led the U. S. troops in Europe to victory, yet he is being discussed on all sides as a 1952 Presidential possibility. It was three years after the end of the Civil War before General Grant could be, and was, nominated. Fifteen years after the end of that war, the Democrats gave their Presidential nomination to Gen. Hancock, one of the Union commanders at Gettysburg.

Earlier, General Taylor had been picked by the Whigs for President nine months after the end of the Mexican War, in which he had been a military hero. One of the men defeated by Taylor for that Whig nomination in 1848 was General Winfield Scott, another Mexican War hero. Scott got the Whig nomination four years later.

Still earlier, General Andrew Jackson had been a candidate for the Presidency in 1824, almost nine years after his victory at New Orleans at the end of the War of 1812. Jackson had an electoral plurality but failed of an electoral majority, and had to wait until 1828 to be elected President. He was then 61, the same age as Eisenhower today.

According to the late Harry L. Hopkins, as quoted in Robert E. Sherwood's "Roosevelt and Hopkins," Eisenhower once told Hopkins of having always been a Republican, of voting against Roosevelt up to 1944, but of voting for FDR that year. Sherwood comments that, on the other hand, Eisenhower once told him of never having voted, although hoping for Roosevelt's defeat in 1940 because of the third term issue and then hoping for Roosevelt's re-election in 1944.

Well, Grant confessed, before being nominated by the Republicans in 1868, that he had voted only once for President and then for a Democrat because he mistrusted the Republican nominee. Taylor said in 1848 that he had never voted for President; and that although he was a Whig, he was not a fanatical one.

Problem Of Re-Districting

A special session of the New York legislature convenes this month to change some of the state's Congressional districts. Changes must be made because the state loses two of its present 45 seats in the next House of Representatives—New York increased only 10 per cent in population between 1940 and 1950 while the national population was increasing by 14½ per cent.

When a state gains one or more seats in the House, the state can, if it wants, keep its old districts unchanged and elect the additional member or members from the state as a whole ("at large"). But that solution is of course impossible when a state's delegation is reduced.

The N. Y. state leaders of the Republican party, which controls the legislature, drew up redistricting plans before the special session met. However, those plans ran into bitter opposition. For one thing, they called for eliminating the present 37th District, and Rep. Edwin Arthur Hall, present Republican incumbent, objected strenuously to being eliminated.

Then Rep. Celler, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, charged for the Democrats that the GOP plans would gerrymander certain districts so as to minimize the influence of Democratic areas and maximize the influence of Republican areas in electing representatives. One traditional gerrymandering technique is to draw the boundaries of districts so that one representative is allotted to an urban one with a relatively large population and another to a rural one with a relatively few inhabitants.

When New York re-districted following the 1940 census of population, one Congressional district (the 25th) in the Bronx contained 55 per cent more inhabitants than one (the 45th) in the extreme western part of the state. No action was taken in the 1951 session of Congress on the Celler bill to authorize Congress to deny seats to representatives from states which had failed to set up "contiguous and compact" Congressional districts with relatively small variations in population.

"Only Human"

"Hey, what did you give me a ticket for?" the teen-ager called to the traffic cop. "I was too young to vote." And thereby hangs a tale—of the cold war being waged in Yonkers, N. Y., between the police and motorists.

Before the election, a motorist had to do something special to get a ticket. A referendum was coming, at which the voters were being asked to approve a $500 pay increase for city employes. After all, according to Safety Commissioner O'Hara: "It was only human for them to avoid offending motorists whose support they wanted in the referendum."

But that was before the election, in which the pay increase was voted down. It is only human, no doubt, to chisel on traffic and parking laws, but the fine spirit of tolerance the commissioner manifested has not been evident on the force since election day.

The cops are humanly angry, and they are now so busy handing out tickets that the officer who has any left at the end of the day is a sissy.

It's all legal and aboveboard. Non-violators don't get tickets. But the days when motorists could get away with anything are over. They are becoming anxious and hypercautious. Why should a fellow take a chance when he hasn't a chance?

Few persons will weep because the cops didn't get their raise after neglecting their duty in the hope of getting votes. But they had many examples in higher echelons of government for their course.

Plenty For The Table

Statistics reveal that Americans collectively will have eaten five pounds of turkey each by the time the end of the year rolls around. Any way one looks at it, this is a considerable amount of gobbler.

It appears that everyone with a penchant for the noble, broadbreasted bird can let himself or herself go during the protracted holiday season ahead, which traditionally begins with Thanksgiving Day. Turkeys are in long supply and, wonder of wonders, they are no more expensive than last year.

It also appears that all of the traditional side trappings will—with an exception or two—be plentiful. Display cases are also bulging with chickens, geese, ducks and other entrees.

Some few persons differ, but the best stuffing for turkey is the kind that is semi-moist, loaded with small chestnuts and only faintly spiced. This is greatly superior to the highly seasoned, drumbly kind or the soggy dough variety. Dissenters are not necessarily anti-social, but there is a suspicion their gastronomic taste has not been properly whetted.

But turkey—ah, there is a dish for kings.

The Indispensable Bath

Credit goes to Benjamin Franklin for bringing the first formal bathtub into this country. It was made of copper and resembled a large shoe with a grate in the "heel" to warm the water. If Franklin had not been in the habit of introducing "firsts" we might suspect an ulterior motive as his father was a soapmaker.

Despite the copper tub, America was slow to learn the benefits of bathing. Even as recently as 50 years ago physicians argued privately and publicly on the advantages and disadvantages of the bathtub. Attractiveness, comfort, pleasure, and body odor were not points in question. Bathing was frowned upon because it was thought that soaking removed valuable oils and protective layers from the skin. We now know that more oil is produced and that the surface continues to shed regardless of bathing.

A good bath goes along with civilization. The Romans were past masters of this art. Water was obtained from the famous aqueducts for their steam baths which induced perspiration and for the hot baths that baked the body. In addition, the bather was oiled and massaged and climaxed the affair with a swim in a cold pool. All this was done in a combination gymnasium, swimming pool, and theater. The peoples of Asia Minor eliminated the gymnasium and the pool and concentrated on the bath. They allowed plenty of time and encouraged relaxation and the custom survives in our present day Turkish baths. In ancient eras the bath also had ceremonial and religious aspects; it was taken for inner rejuvenation.

The dark ages did away with civilization in general and the bath in particular. This period might be labeled the dirty ages because hygiene reached an all-time low. The outcome was plague, typhus, dysentery, and all the other diseases encouraged by filth. Even the ruling classes preferred perfume to a bath, thereby substituting one odor for another. The Knights of the Bath in England could count on at least one bath in a lifetime, on being inducted into this select group.

It is difficult for any one who appreciates the benefits of cleanliness to understand how the human race can degenerate to this extreme. Many individuals living today, however, seem to enjoy dirt and filth. No one knows this better than the physician who examines them; they do not bathe even when they know that an examination is to be made. It takes all kinds to make a world.

The advantages of cleanliness are numerous. The person looks and feels better. Bacteria are eradicated from the skin and infection is kept to a minimum. Dirt and oil are removed from the pores, which encourages perspiration. The bath also gives a much needed lift, especially on returning home from a day of hard work. Many find bathing relaxing, particularly before bedtime and in summer, it has a tendency to cool the body. If there were no other reasons than these, the procedure is well worth the time.

WHO'S CRAZY?

Mrs. J. D. writes: I like to sit at the window and look out. This seems to relax me after a day of turmoil with the children. My husband says this is the first stage of insanity. Is he right?

REPLY

No; he's the one with "crazy" ideas. All of us enjoy moments of relaxation and gazing out the window is one way of obtaining diversion.

ELECTRICAL WARMTH

Mrs. L. writes: What is your opinion of the electric blanket?

REPLY

In my opinion, it is safe and keeps the body warm, hence there is no objection to its use, from the health standpoint. It also represents a new adventure in sleeping. Mrs. Van Dellen is fond of hers and I doubt if she ever would go back to heavy bedding.

TYPES OF MILK

N. W. writes: Can skim milk and buttermilk be used in place of whole milk on the ulcer diet?

REPLY

According to Dr. Barborka, during the early stages of ulcer a mixture of milk and cream is preferred but there is no objection (and no advantage) to skim milk. The fat content of buttermilk is low and, as a result, it would not remain in the stomach as long as cream or whole milk. This is its disadvantage. Later on, skim and buttermilk may be substituted for the usual mixture if the individual desires.

UNLIKELY

V. T. writes: Could pain in the roof of the mouth be caused by a heart condition?

REPLY

No, despite the popular expression, "My heart jumped into my mouth."

Ridgway To Speed Armistice By Increasing Pressure On Communists; Uncle Sam Recognizes Santa Claus; 'Friscglers Harass Immigration Officials

WASHINGTON—Here is the inside story on the Korean truce talks.

General Ridgway has cabled a strong recommendation to the Pentagon that we keep the military pressure on the Communists until all the terms of the armistice are settled. Otherwise, he warns that the Chinese will stall over such matters as inspection teams and exchanging prisoners.

Ridgway also claimed that his forces can hurry the final armistice—provided they remain free to twist the Communists' arm. On the other hand, he argues that after a truce his men won't feel like fighting for ground that they know is going to be given back anyway. Ridgway's gamble is that his tactics won't cause a breakdown of the talks, but will actually speed the final armistice.

However, there is no question but that Ridgway's proposal represents a definite and important change of policy. Therefore his proposal is still under active consideration by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the National Security Council. Until they reach a final decision, he has been given authority to press his demands at Panmunjon.

Here are the background facts which they are considering.

When we went into the truce talks, the biggest obstacle seemed to be drawing a truce line. We agreed—in fact, urged—that the truce line be settled first. This has been the whole question of the past several weeks. We even drew our proposed truce line on a map so the Communists could have no doubts about it. After months of haggling, the Communists finally came around to our terms. Their last proposal was so close to our demands that there was nothing left to haggle over. At first Washington couldn't understand why Ridgway didn't snap it up, but sent his negotiators back instead with a flat rejection and a warning that the truce line couldn't be drawn until the other terms of the armistice were settled.

Reasons For Reversal

In other words, we reversed ourselves regarding the proposed line we had previously drawn; ignored the long months of haggling over a few yards of ground here, a few miles there; and announced that a firm line couldn't be drawn until the armistice was ready to be signed, sealed and delivered.

The reason for this reversal was that originally we agreed to take up the truce line first, because we then didn't plan to go anywhere during the armistice. We planned to move into strong positions in the hills and camp there for the winter. In fact, Ridgway told Gen. Omar Bradley, as previously reported in this column, that jeep accidents would outnumber battle casualties this winter. What Ridgway meant by this was that he didn't plan to do any fighting. Thus, there was no reason not to draw the truce line first.

The last Communist proposal agrees that the fighting should continue until the final armistice terms are settled. It even agrees that our planes should have the right to continue bombing Communist supply lines.

However, Ridgway is now so confident in his own military strength and so convinced the Chinese are seriously crippled that he is willing to gamble on using force in order to speed up the entire negotiations and gain a more favorable armistice. What he fears is that the Communists will stall once a truce is decided and wait all winter before agreeing to a final peace. This would mean leaving our prisoners in Chinese hands during the dread Korean winter—a winter which some of them could not survive.

Santa Claus And Uncle Sam

Perhaps for the first time in history a department of the government has officially recognized Santa Claus.

The man who has unbent to this extent is Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman who has issued an application blank, bearing the picture of Santa Claus, by which those living near government-owned lands can cut Christmas trees for their families.

Previously, the Interior Department used an application blank that was so complicated and required so many unnecessary answers that the applicant usually gave up in disgust and cut the trees on public lands anyway.

In contrast, Secretary Chapman has printed the following application form, featuring a red and green picture of Santa Claus in the background:

"Through the courtesy of the Bureau of Land Management of the Department of the Interior, and in the spirit of the holiday season, (name and address) is hereby granted permission to cut and remove from lands under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management in the vicinity of ———, on or before ———, Christmas trees (species). This permit is granted on the express condition that the permittee will not sell, barter or trade said trees and that they will be used solely for Christmas season purposes and none other." (Signed) Oscar L. Chapman, Secretary of the Interior, and Marion Clawson, Director, Bureau of Land Management.

Tax Delinquents

House investigators have asked for a full report on nine delinquent San Francisco taxpayers who suddenly paid up after James G. Smyth was suspended as San Francisco collector.

Heading the list is Ben Swig, owner of the fashionable Fairmont Hotel, who is a power in West Coast Democratic politics and usually entertains President Truman when he comes to town.

Smyth was allowing Swig to pay off a $500,000 tax debt at the rate of $5,000 per month—on the grounds that he couldn't afford any more. However, Smyth was bounced out last month, and Charles Masarik, a deputy collector from Pittsburgh, was sent to San Francisco to take over.

Masarik promptly notified Swig that a lien would be put on his property so the government could collect its money ahead of any other debts. Within two days Swig coughed up the remaining $307,000 that was due. The investigators now want to know why Smyth was so lenient to a taxpayer who could raise so much money in so short a time.

The same question will also be asked of eight other, lesser cases.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Dixie Flag

In stores in Southern cities, neckties, flags, caps are sold exhibiting the Confederate flag. Automobiles fly the flag on their radiators.

It is not a symbol of rebellion against the United States. It is the symbol of schism in the Democratic party. The unpopularity of Harry Truman is not personal; it, too, is symbolic of distress at the corruption in Washington and the treachery in foreign affairs.

To a New Yorker, like myself, the South is always a puzzle. I said to James Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville Banner, that the columnists and correspondents who speak so surely about all things American from the vantage point of Washington and New York ought to be required to take "atmosphere" trips all over the United States.

This country is so varied; popular responses are so different; no one part of the country can speak for all of it. Each area has a political and social climate that is distinct and important. It is not a matter of a particular story or even of an individual. It is something that goes deep into the three centuries of American history. The events of today, the nuances of activities today, were manufactured, by historical processes, long ago, often long before men and women migrated to this country. It is like the cast of the profile of seemingly unrelated individuals whose nose and forehead and coloring bespeak, centuries ago perhaps, a common ancestor.

The Scotch-Irish Covenanters who settled in Tennessee, for instance, were an unusually sturdy and uncompromising breed of man.

The schism in the Democratic party in the South may or may not express itself in votes in 1952. I do not believe that I am sufficiently experienced to judge that. But it is obvious that it does and must influence the votes of members of the Senate and the House of Representatives. They cannot avoid the "atmosphere" any more than I could. They may kill off the rebellion before election day, but they will not forget that Harry Truman was once one of them and is no longer.

These Democrats feel disgraced. They feel betrayed by their own party. So far as I can gauge sentiment, these men remain Democrats and are likely, in spite of their thinking, to pursue their sentiments. Naturally, the Northern Democrats stake their plans on sentiment winning over knowledge and thought.

A break must come sooner or later in this "atmosphere." Just as New England is producing a new deal Republican party to meet the shifting population of that area, so in the South some day an issue will arise which by sentiment will overcome the traditions of the Civil War. It may be so in 1952 or it may not, but it must come because the thinking of these Southerners is too much like that of most Northerners for a meeting of the minds not to occur sometime.

The sophisticates of the New York skyscrapers call this region "The Bible belt" in derision, failing to recognize that it is no more possible to separate American tradition from the Bible than it is Russia from the ikon. God is for many of these people not an abstraction or a subject for sociological disputation. He is a living, influencing, destinating Being, a guiding intelligence. The ridicule which the very smart minds hurled at "the Bible belt" did not seep below the surface; it was little more than Yankee drivel to them. And that is probably a correct view.

The importance of the relationship between these people and the Bible is in their distress at the corruption and immorality of Washington. When I heard Washington and New York referred to as Sodom and Gomorrah, I was not shocked. Somehow, in the "atmosphere" in which I found myself, it seemed to be right. The sophisticates' attitudes often reflect a revolt against American tradition.

All this may appear to be a superficial reaction to a short visit, but in this business of capturing the "atmosphere" of many places, of foreign countries and alien peoples, it seems to me that every part of the world is stirred in troubled times by its own traditions which, no matter how long quiescent, never really die.

In troubled times, a people looks inward, back to the great storm in its racial life which moved it to take up its belongings and wander elsewhere. It was such a stirring that sent these Scotch-Irish to these shores; it is stirring them now to fierce decision.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Truman has every intention of sending a representative to the Vatican no matter what happens to delay or block confirmation of the appointment of Gen. Mark Clark as ambassador.

This is because Mr. Truman has made a commitment to the Pope that he would send a representative to the Vatican, and he means to abide by that pledge.

It is not known just when the agreement was arrived at or by what means, but it is assumed that either the message was conveyed through Myron C. Taylor, who resigned in January, 1950, as personal representative of the President at the Vatican, or by someone else who has since visited the Pope in behalf of the President and conveyed the same information. It could, of course, have been an exchange of letters, but the important fact is that Mr. Truman has given assurances that he intends to remain faithful to his promise.

Clark Could Withdraw

If both houses of Congress fail to bring to a vote or pass the special legislation required to give General Clark the status that has been requested for him, so that he can serve in a diplomatic post and still retain his rank in the Army, the President may name someone else. In fact, it would not be surprising if sometime during the next session General Clark himself asked that his name be withdrawn so that it would not interfere with possible opportunities he may have for promotion to a more responsible position in the Army than he now holds as commander of the field forces.

Thus it could turn out that Mr. Truman would send a "personal representative" to the Vatican without waiting for congressional action on the matter of an embassy. He has handled it by the "personal representative" method before, and so has President Roosevelt. But the envoy would not then be a formal member of the diplomatic service. So far as the Vatican is concerned, it naturally would prefer that the representation be regularized as an embassy. If Congress shows a disposition to delay indefinitely, Mr. Truman is determined that during the balance of his term there will be some representation at the Vatican.

Incidentally, the National Catholice Welfare Conference here, in a statement just released, give the statistics about diplomatic rpresentation at the Vatican by various countries and says:

"It should be plain from the statistics we cite that many countries which do not have Catholic majorities maintain relations with the Vatican City on the ground that it is a soverign state. The only major countries which do not send representatives to the Vatican City are: Communist Russia, Communist China, and the United States of America."

The President has been impressed by the fact that all the other major powers in the free world except the United States are represented at the Vatican.

It is known, too, that the furor which the appointment of General Clark has brought about has been carefully noted by the President, and it is reported that he expected far more disapproval than has been manifested.

More Discussion Likely

But there are evidences that the issue is likely to provoke even more discussion in the future than the past. This correspondent is in receipt of several documents and statements from Protestant sources indicating deep feeling about it. The principal argument made is that diplomatic recognition involves a union of church and state. Catholic statements, on the other hand, insist that the American hierarchy does not believe in a union of church and state either. This phase of the debate is not likely to be resolved in the court of public opinion, because it is bound to be lost in religious prejudices.

The issue, however, will play a part in next year's politics. The Republican-dominated Massachusetts Senate just the other day voted unanimously to support President Truman's proposal. The membership there consists of 20 Protestants, 19 Catholics and one Jew. No record vote was taken.

It is regrettable, of course, that the controversy has arisen at all. It is still a mystery why the President, holding the viewpoint he has expressed, didn't promptly appoint a successor to Myron Taylor when he resigned in January, 1950. That would have simply continued a precedent established by his predecessor in the White House. Even the "personal representative" idea, on the other hand, was vehemently opposed by Protestant groups, some of whom claim the President promised he wouldn't do it. This form of appointment did not, however, evoke the widespread bitterness that has developed as a consequence of the formal request for the establishment of an embassy at the Vatican.

Aura Of Mystery

By MARK SULLIVAN

The present stage of the Presidential situation looking to next year conforms to a phase Winston Churchill once used about Russia as a country and a people, here paraphrased from memory, a riddle compounded with an enigma wrapped in a mystery. Reasons for the mystification are obvious. They include a natural lack of comprehensive acquaintance with the facts on the part of most of the people; and a widely publicized affirmation and denial about an important point, whether President Truman told Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower that he would like him to be the Democratic Presidential nominee. Added to these reasons for mystification are two of the most extraordinary and potent silences in the contemporary world, those of President Truman and Gen. Eisenhower about whether they want the Presidency next year.

Yet is is possible to bring together a few of the essential factors. First among them is President Truman. He can determine the Democratic nomination as a matter of course, if he decides to take it himself, and he can largely influence the nomination if he wants it for another. And as the Republicans proceed toward making a nomination, Mr. Truman is the man most in their minds. More than is common in our political history, the wish of the opposition party on this occasion is less to get a specific man of their own into the White House than to get the incumbent out. Here again Mr. Truman adds to the mystification by the possibility that he may take himself out by declaring he will not run for the nomination.

Want Truman Out

So long as it remains a likelihood or possibility that Mr. Truman will run, this condition influences the Republican nomination. The Taft followers are for the nomination of Sen. Taft, of course. But above that they are primarily for the defeat of President Truman. Similarly many Republicans who advocate Gen. Eisenhower have as their fundamental purpose the elimination of Mr. Truman from headship of the country. It is possible or even probable that after all the delegates to the Republican National Convention have been chosen and are in session, those for Taft or Eisenhower or any other, the nomination they make will be influenced by consideration of which of the possible and available choices would be most likely to defeat Mr. Truman if he is a candidate. Here once more Mr. Truman is able to hold mystification, for the Republican convention comes prior to the Democratic one and Mr. Truman can defer decision about himself until the last moment.

If the importance of Mr. Truman as a factor in the whole situation, including the Republican part of it, is a paradox, another paradox is the importance of the Democrats who are determined to prevent Mr. Truman from being President again. Leaders of these have a fairly well understood plan. They expect to wait until after Mr. Truman has formally stated that he wants the nomination, assuming he does that, until the convention is in session. They expect to fight desperately against nomination of Mr. Truman and to put forward a selection of their own. They expect to be beaten. Therefore they expect to oppose him in the election.

Should Vote Republican

A possible method of opposition would be formation of a new party similar to the States' Rights party in 1948. But a third party would be, so to speak, only 50 per cent effective. It would take votes away from Mr. Truman but would not add to the votes for the Republican candidate. Much the more effective way for the dissident Democrats to prevent election of Mr. Truman would be simply to vote for the Republican candidate.

Here once more arises a complexity for the Republicans as they choose their nominee. Most of the dissident Democrats are in the South and it is argued, with some reason, that Southern Democrats who wish to vote for the Republican candidate might find it more palatable to vote for Gen. Eisenhower than for some other Republican nominee. Gen Eisenhower's career as a military man has been remote from politics; other possible Republican nominees, whether Sen. Taft or some other, have had careers in politics and as Republicans. At the same time if the Southern Democrats regard elimination of President Truman as their primary purpose they might give relatively little thought to who the Repuolican nominee is.

Complex as the whole situation is at this stage, it may be made more so by events and conditions yet to arise or to become apparent. Gen. Eisenhower has not said whether he is willing to be the Republican nominee, and pending developments having to do with his office as head of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces, likely to be serious, may influence his willingness. Similarly, developments on the whole global front, practically certain to be serious and containing possibilities of being adverse to us, may influence President Truman in deciding whether he wishes to contend for another term.

Eisenhower Six Years Later

More than six years have now elapsed since the end of the war in which General Dwight David ("Ike" to you) Eisenhower led the U. S. troops in Europe to victory, yet he is being discussed on all sides as a 1952 Presidential possibility. It was three years after the end of the Civil War before General Grant could be, and was, nominated. Fifteen years after the end of that war, the Democrats gave their Presidential nomination to Gen. Hancock, one of the Union commanders at Gettysburg.

Earlier, General Taylor had been picked by the Whigs for President nine months after the end of the Mexican War, in which he had been a military hero. One of the men defeated by Taylor for that Whig nomination in 1848 was General Winfield Scott, another Mexican War hero. Scott got the Whig nomination four years later.

Still earlier, General Andrew Jackson had been a candidate for the Presidency in 1824, almost nine years after his victory at New Orleans at the end of the War of 1812. Jackson had an electoral plurality but failed of an electoral majority, and had to wait until 1828 to be elected President. He was then 61, the same age as Eisenhower today.

According to the late Harry L. Hopkins, as quoted in Robert E. Sherwood's "Roosevelt and Hopkins," Eisenhower once told Hopkins of having always been a Republican, of voting against Roosevelt up to 1944, but of voting for FDR that year. Sherwood comments that, on the other hand, Eisenhower once told him of never having voted, although hoping for Roosevelt's defeat in 1940 because of the third term issue and then hoping for Roosevelt's re-election in 1944.

Well, Grant confessed, before being nominated by the Republicans in 1868, that he had voted only once for President and then for a Democrat because he mistrusted the Republican nominee. Taylor said in 1848 that he had never voted for President; and that although he was a Whig, he was not a fanatical one.

Problem Of Re-Districting

A special session of the New York legislature convenes this month to change some of the state's Congressional districts. Changes must be made because the state loses two of its present 45 seats in the next House of Representatives—New York increased only 10 per cent in population between 1940 and 1950 while the national population was increasing by 14½ per cent.

When a state gains one or more seats in the House, the state can, if it wants, keep its old districts unchanged and elect the additional member or members from the state as a whole ("at large"). But that solution is of course impossible when a state's delegation is reduced.

The N. Y. state leaders of the Republican party, which controls the legislature, drew up redistricting plans before the special session met. However, those plans ran into bitter opposition. For one thing, they called for eliminating the present 37th District, and Rep. Edwin Arthur Hall, present Republican incumbent, objected strenuously to being eliminated.

Then Rep. Celler, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, charged for the Democrats that the GOP plans would gerrymander certain districts so as to minimize the influence of Democratic areas and maximize the influence of Republican areas in electing representatives. One traditional gerrymandering technique is to draw the boundaries of districts so that one representative is allotted to an urban one with a relatively large population and another to a rural one with a relatively few inhabitants.

When New York re-districted following the 1940 census of population, one Congressional district (the 25th) in the Bronx contained 55 per cent more inhabitants than one (the 45th) in the extreme western part of the state. No action was taken in the 1951 session of Congress on the Celler bill to authorize Congress to deny seats to representatives from states which had failed to set up "contiguous and compact" Congressional districts with relatively small variations in population.

"Only Human"

"Hey, what did you give me a ticket for?" the teen-ager called to the traffic cop. "I was too young to vote." And thereby hangs a tale—of the cold war being waged in Yonkers, N. Y., between the police and motorists.

Before the election, a motorist had to do something special to get a ticket. A referendum was coming, at which the voters were being asked to approve a $500 pay increase for city employes. After all, according to Safety Commissioner O'Hara: "It was only human for them to avoid offending motorists whose support they wanted in the referendum."

But that was before the election, in which the pay increase was voted down. It is only human, no doubt, to chisel on traffic and parking laws, but the fine spirit of tolerance the commissioner manifested has not been evident on the force since election day.

The cops are humanly angry, and they are now so busy handing out tickets that the officer who has any left at the end of the day is a sissy.

It's all legal and aboveboard. Non-violators don't get tickets. But the days when motorists could get away with anything are over. They are becoming anxious and hypercautious. Why should a fellow take a chance when he hasn't a chance?

Few persons will weep because the cops didn't get their raise after neglecting their duty in the hope of getting votes. But they had many examples in higher echelons of government for their course.

Plenty For The Table

Statistics reveal that Americans collectively will have eaten five pounds of turkey each by the time the end of the year rolls around. Any way one looks at it, this is a considerable amount of gobbler.

It appears that everyone with a penchant for the noble, broadbreasted bird can let himself or herself go during the protracted holiday season ahead, which traditionally begins with Thariksgiving Day. Turkeys are in long supply and, wonder of wonders, they are no more expensive than last year.

It also appears that all of the traditional side trappings will—with an exception or two—be plentiful. Display cases are also bulging with chickens, geese, ducks and other entrees.

Some few persons differ, but the best stuffing for turkey is the kind that is semi-moist, loaded with small chestnuts and only faintly spiced. This is greatly superior to the highly seasoned, drumbly kind or the soggy dough variety. Dissenters are not necessarily anti-social, but there is a suspicion their gastronomic taste has not been properly whetted.

But turkey—ah, there is a dish for kings.

How To Keep Well

The Indispensable Bath

Credit goes to Benjamin Franklin for bringing the first formal bathtub into this country. It was made of copper and resembled a large shoe with a grate in the "heel" to warm the water. If Franklin had not been in the habit of introducing "firsts" we might suspect an ulterior motive as his father was a soapmaker.

Despite the copper tub, America was slow to learn the benefits of bathing. Even as recently as 50 years ago physicians argued privately and publicly on the advantages and disadvantages of the bathtub. Attractiveness, comfort, pleasure, and body odor were not points in question. Bathing was frowned upon because it was thought that soaking removed valuable oils and protective layers from the skin. We now know that more oil is produced and that the surface continues to shed regardless of bathing.

A good bath goes along with civilization. The Romans were past masters of this art. Water was obtained from the famous aqueducts for their steam baths which induced perspiration and for the hot baths that baked the body. In addition, the bather was oiled and massaged and climaxed the affair with a swim in a cold pool. All this was done in a combination gymnasium, swimming pool, and theater. The peoples of Asia Minor eliminated the gymnasium and the pool and concentrated on the bath. They allowed plenty of time and encouraged relaxation and the custom survives in our present day Turkish baths. In ancient eras the bath also had ceremonial and religious aspects; it was taken for inner rejuvenation.

The dark ages did away with civilization in general and the bath in particular. This period might be labeled the dirty ages because hygiene reached an all-time low. The outcome was plague, typhus, dysentery, and all the other diseases encouraged by filth. Even the ruling classes preferred perfume to a bath, thereby substituting one odor for another. The Knights of the Bath in England could count on at least one bath in a lifetime, on being inducted into this select group.

It is difficult for any one who appreciates the benefits of cleanliness to understand how the human race can degenerate to this extreme. Many individuals living today, however, seem to enjoy dirt and filth. No one knows this better than the physician who examines them; they do not bathe even when they know that an examination is to be made. It takes all kinds to make a world.

The advantages of cleanliness are numerous. The person looks and feels better. Bacteria are eradicated from the skin and infection is kept to a minimum. Dirt and oil are removed from the pores, which encourages perspiration. The bath also gives a much needed lift, especially on returning home from a day of hard work. Many find bathing relaxing, particularly before bedtime and in summer, it has a tendency to cool the body. If there were no other reasons than these, the procedure is well worth the time.

WHO'S CRAZY?

Mrs. J. D. writes: I like to sit at the window and look out. This seems to relax me after a day of turmoil with the children. My husband says this is the first stage of insanity. Is he right?

REPLY

No; he's the one with "crazy" ideas. All of us enjoy moments of relaxation and gazing out the window is one way of obtaining diversion.

ELECTRICAL WARMTH

Mrs. L. writes: What is your opinion of the electric blanket?

REPLY

In my opinion, it is safe and keeps the body warm, hence there is no objection to its use, from the health standpoint. It also represents a new adventure in sleeping. Mrs. Van Dellen is fond of hers and I doubt if she ever would go back to heavy bedding.

TYPES OF MILK

N. W. writes: Can skim milk and buttermilk be used in place of whole milk on the ulcer diet?

REPLY

According to Dr. Barborka, during the early stages of ulcer a mixture of milk and cream is preferred but there is no objection (and no advantage) to skim milk. The fat content of buttermilk is low and, as a result, it would not remain in the stomach as long as cream or whole milk. This is its disadvantage. Later on, skim and buttermilk may be substituted for the usual mixture if the individual desires.

Ridgway To Speed Armistice By Increasing Pressure On Communists; Uncle Sam Recognizes Santa Claus; 'Friscglers Harass Immigration Officials

WASHINGTON—Here is the inside story on the Korean truce talks.

General Ridgway has cabled a strong recommendation to the Pentagon that we keep the military pressure on the Communists until all the terms of the armistice are settled. Otherwise, he warns that the Chinese will stall over such matters as inspection teams and exchanging prisoners.

Ridgway also claimed that his forces can hurry the final armistice—provided they remain free to twist the Communists' arm. On the other hand, he argues that after a truce his men won't feel like fighting for ground that they know is going to be given back anyway. Ridgway's gamble is that his tactics won't cause a breakdown of the talks, but will actually speed the final armistice.

However, there is no question but that Ridgway's proposal represents a definite and important change of policy. Therefore his proposal is still under active consideration by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the National Security Council. Until they reach a final decision, he has been given authority to press his demands at Panmunjon.

Here are the background facts which they are considering.

When we went into the truce talks, the biggest obstacle seemed to be drawing a truce line. We agreed—in fact, urged—that the truce line be settled first. This has been the whole question of the past several weeks. We even drew our proposed truce line on a map so the Communists could have no doubts about it. After months of haggling, the Communists finally came around to our terms. Their last proposal was so close to our demands that there was nothing left to haggle over. At first Washington couldn't understand why Ridgway didn't snap it up, but sent his negotiators back instead with a flat rejection and a warning that the truce line couldn't be drawn until the other terms of the armistice were settled.

Reasons For Reversal

In other words, we reversed ourselves regarding the proposed line we had previously drawn; ignored the long months of haggling over a few yards of ground here, a few miles there; and announced that a firm line couldn't be drawn until the armistice was ready to be signed, sealed and delivered.

The reason for this reversal was that originally we agreed to take up the truce line first, because we then didn't plan to go anywhere during the armistice. We planned to move into strong positions in the hills and camp there for the winter. In fact, Ridgway told Gen. Omar Bradley, as previously reported in this column, that jeep accidents would outnumber battle casualties this winter. What Ridgway meant by this was that he didn't plan to do any fighting. Thus, there was no reason not to draw the truce line first.

The last Communist proposal agrees that the fighting should continue until the final armistice terms are settled. It even agrees that our planes should have the right to continue bombing Communist supply lines.

However, Ridgway is now so confident in his own military strength and so convinced the Chinese are seriously crippled that he is willing to gamble on using force in order to speed up the entire negotiations and gain a more favorable armistice. What he fears is that the Communists will stall once a truce is decided and wait all winter before agreeing to a final peace. This would mean leaving our prisoners in Chinese hands during the dread Korean winter—a winter which some of them could not survive.

Santa Claus And Uncle Sam

Perhaps for the first time in history a department of the government has officially recognized Santa Claus.

The man who has unbent to this extent is Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman who has issued an application blank, bearing the picture of Santa Claus, by which those living near government-owned lands can cut Christmas trees for their families.

Previously, the Interior Department used an application blank that was so complicated and required so many unnecessary answers that the applicant usually gave up in disgust and cut the trees on public lands anyway.

In contrast, Secretary Chapman has printed the following application form, featuring a red and green picture of Santa Claus in the background:

"Through the courtesy of the Bureau of Land Management of the Department of the Interior, and in the spirit of the holiday season, (name and address) is hereby granted permission to cut and remove from lands under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management in the vicinity of ———, on or before ———, Christmas trees (species). This permit is granted on the express condition that the permittee will not sell, barter or trade said trees and that they will be used solely for Christmas season purposes and none other." (Signed) Oscar L. Chapman, Secretary of the Interior, and Marion Clawson, Director, Bureau of Land Management.

Tax Delinquents

House investigators have asked for a full report on nine delinquent San Francisco taxpayers who suddenly paid up after James G. Smyth was suspended as San Francisco collector.

Heading the list is Ben Swig, owner of the fashionable Fairmont Hotel, who is a power in West Coast Democratic politics and usually entertains President Truman when he comes to town.

Smyth was allowing Swig to pay off a $500,000 tax debt at the rate of $5,000 per month—on the grounds that he couldn't afford any more. However, Smyth was bounced out last month, and Charles Masarik, a deputy collector from Pittsburgh, was sent to San Francisco to take over.

Masarik promptly notified Swig that a lien would be put on his property so the government could collect its money ahead of any other debts. Within two days Swig coughed up the remaining $307,000 that was due. The investigators now want to know why Smyth was so lenient to a taxpayer who could raise so much money in so short a time.

The same question will also be asked of eight other, lesser cases.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Dixie Flag

In stores in Southern cities, neckties, flags, caps are sold exhibiting the Confederate flag. Automobiles fly the flag on their radiators.

It is not a symbol of rebellion against the United States. It is the symbol of schism in the Democratic party. The unpopularity of Harry Truman is not personal; it, too, is symbolic of distress at the corruption in Washington and the treachery in foreign affairs.

To a New Yorker, like myself, the South is always a puzzle. I said to James Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville Banner, that the columnists and correspondents who speak so surely about all things American from the vantage point of Washington and New York ought to be required to take "atmosphere" trips all over the United States.

This country is so varied; popular responses are so different; no one part of the country can speak for all of it. Each area has a political and social climate that is distinct and important. It is not a matter of a particular story or even of an individual. It is something that goes deep into the three centuries of American history. The events of today, the nuances of activities today, were manufactured, by historical processes, long ago, often long before men and women migrated to this country. It is like the cast of the profile of seemingly unrelated individuals whose nose and forehead and coloring bespeak, centuries ago perhaps, a common ancestor.

The Scotch-Irish Covenanters who settled in Tennessee, for instance, were an unusually sturdy and uncompromising breed of man.

The schism in the Democratic party in the South may or may not express itself in votes in 1952. I do not believe that I am sufficiently experienced to judge that. But it is obvious that it does and must influence the votes of members of the Senate and the House of Representatives. They cannot avoid the "atmosphere" any more than I could. They may kill off the rebellion before election day, but they will not forget that Harry Truman was once one of them and is no longer.

These Democrats feel disgraced. They feel betrayed by their own party. So far as I can gauge sentiment, these men remain Democrats and are likely, in spite of their thinking, to pursue their sentiments. Naturally, the Northern Democrats stake their plans on sentiment winning over knowledge and thought.

A break must come sooner or later in this "atmosphere." Just as New England is producing a new deal Republican party to meet the shifting population of that area, so in the South some day an issue will arise which by sentiment will overcome the traditions of the Civil War. It may be so in 1952 or it may not, but it must come because the thinking of these Southerners is too much like that of most Northerners for a meeting of the minds not to occur sometime.

The sophisticates of the New York skyscrapers call this region "The Bible belt" in derision, failing to recognize that it is no more possible to separate American tradition from the Bible than it is Russia from the ikon. God is for many of these people not an abstraction or a subject for sociological disputation. He is a living, influencing, destinating Being, a guiding intelligence. The ridicule which the very smart minds hurled at "the Bible belt" did not seep below the surface; it was little more than Yankee drivel to them. And that is probably a correct view.

The importance of the relationship between these people and the Bible is in their distress at the corruption and immorality of Washington. When I heard Washington and New York referred to as Sodom and Gomorrah, I was not shocked. Somehow, in the "atmosphere" in which I found myself, it seemed to be right. The sophisticates' attitudes often reflect a revolt against American tradition.

All this may appear to be a superficial reaction to a short visit, but in this business of capturing the "atmosphere" of many places, of foreign countries and alien peoples, it seems to me that every part of the world is stirred in troubled times by its own traditions which, no matter how long quiescent, never really die.

In troubled times, a people looks inward, back to the great storm in its racial life which moved it to take up its belongings and wander elsewhere. It was such a stirring that sent these Scotch-Irish to these shores; it is stirring them now to fierce decision.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Truman has every intention of sending a representative to the Vatican no matter what happens to delay or block confirmation of the appointment of Gen. Mark Clark as ambassador.

This is because Mr. Truman has made a commitment to the Pope that he would send a representative to the Vatican, and he means to abide by that pledge.

It is not known just when the agreement was arrived at or by what means, but it is assumed that either the message was conveyed through Myron C. Taylor, who resigned in January, 1950, as personal representative of the President at the Vatican, or by someone else who has since visited the Pope in behalf of the President and conveyed the same information. It could, of course, have been an exchange of letters, but the important fact is that Mr. Truman has given assurances that he intends to remain faithful to his promise.

Clark Could Withdraw

If both houses of Congress fail to bring to a vote or pass the special legislation required to give General Clark the status that has been requested for him, so that he can serve in a diplomatic post and still retain his rank in the Army, the President may name someone else. In fact, it would not be surprising if sometime during the next session General Clark himself asked that his name be withdrawn so that it would not interfere with possible opportunities he may have for promotion to a more responsible position in the Army than he now holds as commander of the field forces.

Thus it could turn out that Mr. Truman would send a "personal representative" to the Vatican without waiting for congressional action on the matter of an embassy. He has handled it by the "personal representative" method before, and so has President Roosevelt. But the envoy would not then be a formal member of the diplomatic service. So far as the Vatican is concerned, it naturally would prefer that the representation be regularized as an embassy. If Congress shows a disposition to delay indefinitely, Mr. Truman is determined that during the balance of his term there will be some representation at the Vatican.

Incidentally, the National Catholice Welfare Conference here, in a statement just released, give the statistics about diplomatic rpresentation at the Vatican by various countries and says:

"It should be plain from the statistics we cite that many countries which do not have Catholic majorities maintain relations with the Vatican City on the ground that it is a soverign state. The only major countries which do not send representatives to the Vatican City are: Communist Russia, Communist China, and the United States of America."

The President has been impressed by the fact that all the other major powers in the free world except the United States are represented at the Vatican.

It is known, too, that the furor which the appointment of General Clark has brought about has been carefully noted by the President, and it is reported that he expected far more disapproval than has been manifested.

More Discussion Likely

But there are evidences that the issue is likely to provoke even more discussion in the future than the past. This correspondent is in receipt of several documents and statements from Protestant sources indicating deep feeling about it. The principal argument made is that diplomatic recognition involves a union of church and state. Catholic statements, on the other hand, insist that the American hierarchy does not believe in a union of church and state either. This phase of the debate is not likely to be resolved in the court of public opinion, because it is bound to be lost in religious prejudices.

The issue, however, will play a part in next year's politics. The Republican-dominated Massachusetts Senate just the other day voted unanimously to support President Truman's proposal. The membership there consists of 20 Protestants, 19 Catholics and one Jew. No record vote was taken.

It is regrettable, of course, that the controversy has arisen at all. It is still a mystery why the President, holding the viewpoint he has expressed, didn't promptly appoint a successor to Myron Taylor when he resigned in January, 1950. That would have simply continued a precedent established by his predecessor in the White House. Even the "personal representative" idea, on the other hand, was vehemently opposed by Protestant groups, some of whom claim the President promised he wouldn't do it. This form of appointment did not, however, evoke the widespread bitterness that has developed as a consequence of the formal request for the establishment of an embassy at the Vatican.

Aura Of Mystery

By MARK SULLIVAN

The present stage of the Presidential situation looking to next year conforms to a phase Winston Churchill once used about Russia as a country and a people, here paraphrased from memory, a riddle compounded with an enigma wrapped in a mystery. Reasons for the mystification are obvious. They include a natural lack of comprehensive acquaintance with the facts on the part of most of the people; and a widely publicized affirmation and denial about an important point, whether President Truman told Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower that he would like him to be the Democratic Presidential nominee. Added to these reasons for mystification are two of the most extraordinary and potent silences in the contemporary world, those of President Truman and Gen. Eisenhower about whether they want the Presidency next year.

Yet is is possible to bring together a few of the essential factors. First among them is President Truman. He can determine the Democratic nomination as a matter of course, if he decides to take it himself, and he can largely influence the nomination if he wants it for another. And as the Republicans proceed toward making a nomination, Mr. Truman is the man most in their minds. More than is common in our political history, the wish of the opposition party on this occasion is less to get a specific man of their own into the White House than to get the incumbent out. Here again Mr. Truman adds to the mystification by the possibility that he may take himself out by declaring he will not run for the nomination.

Want Truman Out

So long as it remains a likelihood or possibility that Mr. Truman will run, this condition influences the Republican nomination. The Taft followers are for the nomination of Sen. Taft, of course. But above that they are primarily for the defeat of President Truman. Similarly many Republicans who advocate Gen. Eisenhower have as their fundamental purpose the elimination of Mr. Truman from headship of the country. It is possible or even probable that after all the delegates to the Republican National Convention have been chosen and are in session, those for Taft or Eisenhower or any other, the nomination they make will be influenced by consideration of which of the possible and available choices would be most likely to defeat Mr. Truman if he is a candidate. Here once more Mr. Truman is able to hold mystification, for the Republican convention comes prior to the Democratic one and Mr. Truman can defer decision about himself until the last moment.

If the importance of Mr. Truman as a factor in the whole situation, including the Republican part of it, is a paradox, another paradox is the importance of the Democrats who are determined to prevent Mr. Truman from being President again. Leaders of these have a fairly well understood plan. They expect to wait until after Mr. Truman has formally stated that he wants the nomination, assuming he does that, until the convention is in session. They expect to fight desperately against nomination of Mr. Truman and to put forward a selection of their own. They expect to be beaten. Therefore they expect to oppose him in the election.

Should Vote Republican

A possible method of opposition would be formation of a new party similar to the States' Rights party in 1948. But a third party would be, so to speak, only 50 per cent effective. It would take votes away from Mr. Truman but would not add to the votes for the Republican candidate. Much the more effective way for the dissident Democrats to prevent election of Mr. Truman would be simply to vote for the Republican candidate.

Here once more arises a complexity for the Republicans as they choose their nominee. Most of the dissident Democrats are in the South and it is argued, with some reason, that Southern Democrats who wish to vote for the Republican candidate might find it more palatable to vote for Gen. Eisenhower than for some other Republican nominee. Gen Eisenhower's career as a military man has been remote from politics; other possible Republican nominees, whether Sen. Taft or some other, have had careers in politics and as Republicans. At the same time if the Southern Democrats regard elimination of President Truman as their primary purpose they might give relatively little thought to who the Repuolican nominee is.

Complex as the whole situation is at this stage, it may be made more so by events and conditions yet to arise or to become apparent. Gen. Eisenhower has not said whether he is willing to be the Republican nominee, and pending developments having to do with his office as head of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces, likely to be serious, may influence his willingness. Similarly, developments on the whole global front, practically certain to be serious and containing possibilities of being adverse to us, may influence President Truman in deciding whether he wishes to contend for another term.

Airline Plans To Eliminate Local Service

Cumberland was represented at a pre-hearing conference held by All American Airways Thursday in Washington before the Civil Aeronautics Board.

All American is seeking to eliminate service to Cumberland in its application for an extension of its operating authority which will be formally heard at a hearing in January.

W. Earle Cobey, city attorney, said the Mayor and Council and Charles Z. Heskett, local attorney and former city solicitor who is a member of the Maryland State Aviation Commission, obtained the representative for Cumberland.

He was Richard Jamieson, of Baltimore, state aviation director. The pre-conference hearing is held so that the airline can publicly announce its route changes.

Cobey said the cities affected can then prepare their cases for the formal hearing in January before the CAB.

In its renewal application All American seeks to continue its present routes, with the exception of service to Cumberland, Connellsville-Uniontown, Pa.; Dunkirk-Fredonia, N. Y.; Easton-Cambridge, Md., and Bridgeton-Millville-Vineland, N. Y.

The reasons for the eliminations were not discussed at the conference. An Associated Press dispatch said they were presumably for the lack of traffic or inadequacy of airports.

At one time, it was suggested that All American have a Cumberland stop on a Huntington, W. Va., Washington route.

However, in its application Thursday All American proposed this route, eliminating Cumberland and substituting Hagerstown.

This route would go from Huntington to Clarksburg, W. Va., via Parkersburg, W. Va. From Clarksburg one route would go to Morgantown, W. Va., and Hagerstown. Another would go to Elkins, W. Va., and Washington.

In an earlier release from All American officials, the airline indicated that Cumberland's Municipal Airport was not suitable for night landings because of mountain obstructions.

Ridgeley School Marks Education Week

Members of Ridgeley High and Elementary School PTAs met Thursday night at the high school following an "open house" held in conjunction with the observance of American Education Week.

Miss Jeanette McGuffie, supervisor of Mineral county schools, spoke on "Know Your Schools." She discussed the improvement in state schools, how the tax dollar is spent for education, outlined the various types of schools in Mineral county, explained the teachers' certification and the classification of county schools.

Other events on the program included a pantomine showing highlights in the history of education, presented by social studies classes; a pantomine, "The Torch of Knowledge," by Janet Knieriem, and four radio scripts by various school groups.

The Journalism class presented each patron with a copy of the American Education Week issue of the school paper, "The Rideco."

Terrence J. Boyle Retires As Allegany Co. Investigator

The retirement of County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle was announced today by Paul M. Fletcher.

Boyle has been in ill health for a few years and this was given as the reason for his retirement. In a letter to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, the state's attorney said Boyle had asked to be placed on retirement.

The county board accepted Boyle's retirement with regret and it was the unanimous opinion of the commissioners that the veteran county officer had served faithfully for the many years he held the position.

State's Attorney Fletcher commented that Boyle was, in the opinion of men competent to judge, the finest investigative officer the county could have had during his 29 years service.

Boyle served under three state's attorneys. The first was the late William A. Huster, then Morgan C. Harris and finally, Fletcher.

The retirement of Boyle is effective January 1, 1952.

Commissioners Vote $500 In County Civil Defense Work

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday morning passed an order under which $500 will be furnished the Civil Defense organization of the county to match federal funds for the purchase of materials, equipment and facilities for training CD workers.

The action followed a letter from William G. Barger, director of county Civil Defense, stating that the federal government has appropriated five million dollars which will be matched by the various states.

Actually, the county will receive $1 for each 25 cents appropriated. This will make available $2,500 for Civil Defense needs here. The board had previously set aside $5,000 for Civil Defense needs of the county.

Morris L. Radoff, archivist of the Maryland Manual, has requested the board to furnish him with information pertaining to various officials of county departments and the names of the mayors of county communities.

Radoff informed the board the data is needed for compilation of a new issue of the manual. The publication lists officials of all state departments, commissions and boards and also various officers of the 23 Maryland counties.

The board also received a letter of thanks from James A. Jennings, an officer of Queens Point Memorial Post No. 6775, Veterans of Foreign Wars, McCoole, thanking it for taking part in dedication of the bridge across the Potomac River between McCoole and Keyser, W. Va.

Two Symbols of Thanksgiving

Everyone knows that the turkey is a symbol of Thanksgiving. But, do you recognize the other symbol —the more important one?

It is the smile on this young lad's face!

A turkey, after all, is not essential to the celebration of Thanksgiving Day. Some folks prefer duck, or steak, or even an old-fashioned meat-loaf.

But a smile is indispensable! For thankfulness and happiness are cut from the same fabric. Thankfulness is really happiness with a sense of direction. It is happiness that traces its source to the goodness of God, and expresses its destiny in humble reverence.

The smile of a thankful Christian is the natural symbol of Thanksgiving. And it explains the meaning of this sacred Day: GOD HAS SMILED ON US!

HOLY BIBLE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Two Symbols of Thanksgiving

Everyone knows that the turkey is a symbol of Thanksgiving. But, do you recognize the other symbol —the more important one?

It is the smile on this young lad's face!

A turkey, after all, is not essential to the celebration of Thanksgiving Day. Some folks prefer duck, or steak, or even an old-fashioned meat-loaf.

But a smile is indispensable! For thankfulness and happiness are cut from the same fabric. Thankfulness is really happiness with a sense of direction. It is happiness that traces its source to the goodness of God, and expresses its destiny in humble reverence.

The smile of a thankful Christian is the natural symbol of Thanksgiving. And it explains the meaning of this sacred Day: GOD HAS SMILED ON US!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

WESTMINSTER, Md., Nov. 16—Fort Hill High School's powerful Sentinels from Cumberland made it six in a row tonight by walloping Westminster High School's Owls by the score of 32 to 0.

Richard Beard, John Poling, Dave Ritter, Leonard White and Donald Stine chalked up touchdowns and Beard scored both extra points for the Western Marylanders who have won seven and lost one this season.

Fort Hill's first touchdown in the opening quarter came after a 90-yard march. The Sentinels started on the Owls' 10 and in seven plays reeled off four first downs and a score. During the drive Beard and Stine reeled off 20 and 10 yards and as a climax Beard went off tackle for 28 yards and the six-pointer.

Coach William P. Hahn's outfit scored thrice in the second period to roll up a 26-0 lead at the halfway mark.

Fumbles Pave Way

After Fort Hill had kicked out of bounds on the 16, Westminster marked up a first down on the 26. Then Quarterback John Kauffman fumbled and John Poling, substitute tackle, scooped up the loose ball on the 20 and ran it over for the score. Beard's kick for the point was good.

On the first play following the succeeding kickoff, Dave Ritter, of Fort Hill, recovered Kauffman's fumble on the Westminster 27. Beard passed to Steppe who fumbled in the end zone. Then Beard passed from 25 yards out to Ritter who made a leaping catch of the ball between two Westminster players in the end zone. Beard converted and the score was 20-0.

Kauffman's third costly fumble set the stage for the Sentinels' fourth score of the game. It was committed late in the second quarter after Westminster had made a first down on the 48. Bill Steppe, substitute end, recovered the fumble on Westminster's 46 and on the first play Beard passed to White, who made an over-the-shoulder catch on the five, and went over from there as the first half ended.

Cage Makes 40 Yard Run

In the third stanza, Westminster kicked off to Norman Cage who returned the ball 40 yards before being brought down on the 42. He ran up the middle of the field and was given excellent blocking. The Cumberlanders scored nine plays later. Jim Farris passed 12 yards to Ritter on the nine. Beard toted the ball to the one and Stine plunged over for the score.

Three of Beard's five kicks for extra points went wide of the mark.

Westminster was limited to 27 net yards on the ground, failed to advance within Fort Hill's 41 yard line and failed to make a first down in the second half. The Owls had a net loss of 12 yards rushing the in last two periods.

Fort Hill gained 250 yards on the ground and in the air.

The Sentinels play their final game with Allegany for the city championship of Cumberland on Thanksgiving Day. The lineups:

Paddy DeMarco Defeats Chavez

New Yorker Annexes Rough-House Match

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (INS) — Lightweight title aspirant Paddy De Marco of New York mixed rough-house slugging with wrestling holds tonight to score a unanimous ten-round decision over Eddie Chavez of San Jose, Cal., at Madison Square Garden.

The clever Chavez was unable to cope with De Marco's bull-like rushes, which kept the black haired Californian's back against the ropes much of the time.

Chavez went down for a count of five in the seventh round after a particularly violent collision.

De Marco, who has won 11 straight and hopes to meet champion James Carter soon, weighed 138½ to 139¼ for Chavez.

John Adams was the first president to occupy the White House.

Unbeaten Illini Faces Buckeyes In Top Contest

Stanford, Vols, TCU Battle Worthy Foes

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—Coaches of the nation's undefeated top-ranking college football teams will find that sleep comes very slowly tonight.

They know that, on the law of averages, at least one of their select number probably will get axed by some fired-up "have not" tomorrow, and the thought of all that New Year's Day bowl money going down the drain will not be conducive to slumber.

Highest on the list of worryers figure to be Ray Eliot of Illinois and Chuck Taylor of Stanford, with Bob Neyland of Tennessee's Thundering Herd not far behind. Dutch Meyer of Texas Christian though not numbered among the undefeated elect, probably will do a little floor-pacing, too.

Illinois Tackles Buckeyes

It is possible that Eliot has the most reason to fear the morrow. His Illini, seeking their eighth straight victory and a certain bid to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl, must tackle Ohio State on the latter's home field at Columbus. It is a rough assignment.

Dispatches from the west say that Taylor, who has been picking his stanford "Cinderella Kids" to win week after week, is similarly confident they will come through again and upend the Oregon State Beavers at Palo Alto for their ninth straight and the defending berth in the Rose Bowl.

But did he say positively? The record shows that the Beavers are no chumps. They held Michigan State, the nation's current pinup team, to a 6-0 decision, lost to Southern Cal by a disputed two points, and a fortnight ago whaled Washington, 40 to 14.

Vols Oppose Old Miss

Neyland, whose Volunteers risk an unblemished 7-0 record and an almost certain bowl bid against Mississippi at Oxford, Miss. can find two things to worry about. First, he can't help knowing that Old Miss swatted a good Auburn team, 39-14 last week. Second, he can run a cold sweat at the thought of his boys holding out their best licks for Kentucky, their dearest rival, next week.

MEYER, whose T.C.U. Horned Frogs could take a virtual stranglehold on the Southwest Conference title and a Cotton Bowl berth by defeating Texas at Austin, will be lucky if he sleeps a wink. Long and bitter experience has taught him it's nearly always fatal to be the front runner at this stage of the unpredictable Texas derby.

As Michigan State is not eligible for a New Year's Day assignment, Biggie Munn, the Spartans' mentor, is under considerably less pressure than his fellow geniuses. Still, it would not be surprising if he experiences a twinge or two before tomorrow's joust with lowly Indiana at Bloomington.

Tigers Are Favored

Charlie Caldwell of the all-conquering Princetons probably will rest fairly easy. His Tigers, otherwise known as Dick Kazmaier, figure to run up a packet on Yale in their 74th meeting at Princeton. Besides, the Tigers wouldn't be caught dead in any bowl, including the Rose.

Maryland, winner of seven straight, should give Jim Tatum few uneasy moments in its tilt with North Carolina State at College Park, Md. San Francisco, also boasting seven in a row and hungry for a bowl bid, is favored over College of Pacific at Stockton, Calif., mainly because of its great fullback, Ollie Matson.

Georgia Tech, which already has an Orange Bowl invitation salted away, has nothing much to worry about in its brawl with Alabama at Birmingham. For that reason, many experts are tipping 'Bama as the week's best bet.

Keyser Plays Alumni Today

Benefit Game Set For Stayman Field

KEYSER, Nov. 16—Keyser High School's football team needs another win to finish in the .500 class for the season and hopes to be able to score it Saturday when it plays the Alumni at Stayman Field at 1:30 p. m.

Coach Fred "Tack" Clark's schoolboy eleven has won four, lost five and played one tie game.

Wins were registered over Ridgeley, Parsons, Moorefield and Petersburg. Losses were suffered at the hands of Morgantown High, Charles Town, Beall, Allegany and the West Virginia School for the Deaf.

The final game of the 1951 season here is a benefit affair and is being staged by the "K" Club of the school and the Touchdown Club of the Alumni.

Wolfpack Has Upset Marylanders In Past

COLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 16 (AP)—A do-or-die North Carolina State football team tries to salvage a poor season tomorrow by upsetting undefeated and fifth ranking Maryland, named to play Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl.

Coach Beattie Feathers and his North Carolinians are talking anything except like a team which has won only three out of nine compared with Maryland's seven straight.

"We can win if we can take the physical beating and keep our key personnel in the game," said the coach.

"We know if we play our best football we can beat Maryland and I think we'll do just that," said the Wolfpack's great tackle, Elmer Costa.

The same Costa's big hands helped ruin Maryland last year in a 16-13 upset. He did it so well he was named Associated Press lineman of the week for it.

Coach Jim Tatum of Maryland is a little afraid of his opponents might not be talking through their helmets.

"You know they've always been my jinx," referring to their past three meetings. Maryland was favored in all of them. They were held to a scoreless tie in 1947, eked out a 14-6 triumph the next year and then were upended last season.

Coach Tatum doesn't think North Carolina State is as weak as its record indicates. "They just ran out of reserve strength several times."

Giles Defers Naming Successor To Klem

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 16 (INS)—National League President Warren Giles announced today that no appointment will be made to the vacant office of chief of league umpires.

The post previously was held by the late Bill Klem but Giles said he and his assistant, Fred Fleig, will serve instead as supervisors of umpires on a one-year experimental basis.

Giles said a chief umpire might be inclined to bias in an argument between players and other umpires.

Lure Of Rabbits Costs Frederick Football Game

SUITLAND, Md., Nov. 16 (AP)—The lure of rabbit hunting may have cost Frederick High School a football game today. It lost to Suitland High 13-7.

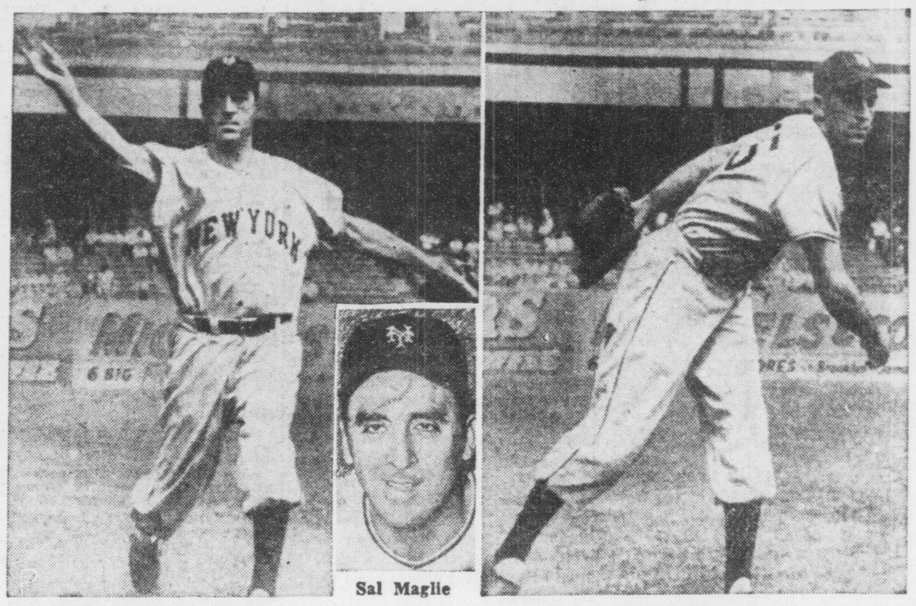
Missing from the losers' squad were four regulars and seven other players suspended because they went hunting on the opening day of rabbit season yesterday instead of reporting for practice. Coach Homer Brooks, who ordered the suspension, declined to say directly that was the reason for the loss. He shrugged off the question with "what do you think?"

Despite the weakened squad, Frederick started out strongly. Larry Krantz got off to a 75-yard run in the first quarter and a short time later Bob Weedle passed two yards to Bill Ward for a score. Krantz converted.

But Suitland's Chris Mayhew scored on a 13-yard end run completing a 78-yard downfield march in the second period, Bobby Thompson converted, and Billy Matthews scored in the third after a 70-yard march to give Suitland the victory.

Frederick expected to be stronger for its game against Rockville Thanksgiving Day. Brooks said the suspended players would be eligible if they reported regularly for practice next week. They promised to do that.

Sal Maglie Is Visitor Here Today, Aids Hot Stove Membership Drive



Sal Maglie

IT TOOK SAL MAGLIE, New York Giants' pitcher, several years to decide that U. S. baseball was his career but after he reached that decision he moved to the top quickly. After pitching in the minors for five years, the Niagara Falls, N. Y., flinger retired for two years. He came back in 1945 and after a 5-4 season with the Giants he jumped to the Mexican league. Even though that bubble burst shortly after, Maglie wasn't reinstated until October 1949. And it wasn't until July of 1950 that Maglie started a game for the Giants. From then on, though, he has been terrific. He wound up the 1950 campaign with an 18-4 record and this year he helped pitch the Giants into the World Series with a 23-6 mark. Maglie comes here today in connection with the Hot Stove Baseball League membership drive and he will be at the Moose Home from 10 a. m. until noon to "meet the boys" at open house arranged by the local Moose lodge. Sal is a member of the Moose lodge at Niagara Falls. The Giants' ace will autograph membership cards. Officers, managers and players of the league and others interested are invited to attend.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (INS)—It has been our sad experience recently to run across many cases of old-time fighters in distress.

Some are totally blind, some are physical wrecks, some are mentally unfit and all of them are financially broke.

There is an organization called the National Sports Alliance which can dribble out a few bucks here and there to help such men. The NSA does the best it can but it simply hasn't the funds to do the job as it should be done.

This could be remedied by having a small tax placed on every fighter's purse, and the promoter taxed an equal amount for every fighter on his card.

The monies thus acquired could be put in escrow to be administered by a non-political organization of men of high standing for the benefit of distressed cases.

Bad investments, not riotous living, cost Mike the fortune he earned by his fists in the ring.

It is distressing to find a great old time lightweight like Kid McPartland up against it or to see Harlem Tommy Murphy in a hospital. Tommy fought all the best in his day from Abe Attell and Terry McGovern to Owen Moran, Packy McFarland and, Ad Wolgast. Ask your dad what kind of fighters they were.

Scores of fights may have left Tommy not as sharp mentally as he might be.

This tax plan we suggest also could be used to help the families of boxers in the ring.

Perhaps the $500,000 damage suit instituted the other day by the widow of Georges Flores, killed in the ring, against the International Boxing Club, Madison Square Garden, and the N. Y. Boxing Commission may serve to make promoters less careless in their matchmaking.

We have been yelling about mismatches for years but we might just as well have been yelling into an empty rain barrel. Perhaps a suit or two may be far more effective in making promoters pay more attention to the welfare of the boxer and less to conniving managers and matchmaking.

We have insisted that any boxer who is knocked out should not be permitted to fight again anywhere for a period of at least 30 days. And only then after the most rigid medical examination.

Now we go a step further with the suggestion that any fighter who is knocked out in three consecutive fights be barred from fighting ever again anywhere.

You will note that we stress the word anywhere because under present conditions a fighter barred, say, in New York for 30 days often goes into another state and fights.

Fighters are not always mental giants and they are easily influenced by conniving, chiselling managers. Something should be done to help them if they get in distress, mentally, physically or financially when they are down and out. We think the plan we suggest might solve the problem.

P. V. C. Meeting Set For Monday

The fall meeting and dinner of the Potomac Valley Conference, comprising nearby West Virginia high school, will be held Monday at 7 p. m. at the Old Homestead Hotel in Burlington, W. Va.

Moorefield High School won the P.V.C. football championship this year.

U. S. Davis Cuppers Score In Australia

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 16 (AP)—Two American Davis Cup stars, Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas, advanced smoothly through the second round of the New South Wales Tennis Tournament today amid indications that the U. S. team might have an easier time against Sweden in the inter-zone final Dec. 13-15 than had been anticipated.

Lennart Bergelin, No. 1 star of the Swedish team which swept through the European Zone, appeared badly handicapped by a lame shoulder as he won his opening match from Neville Snellgrove, a second-rate Syndey player, by scores of 6-1, 6-4, 4-6, 9-7.

Trabert, the youthful Cincinnati star who received a leave from the navy to accompany the U. S. squad, scored his second straight-set victory at the expense of Geoff Pryor of Sydney, 6-2, 6-2, 6-1. Seixas, of Philadelphia, breezed past Rex Hartwig of Australia 6-2, 6-2, 6-3. Other members of the American squad were idle.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 16 (AP)—Behind the passing and running of Francis (Reds) Bagnell, the Bainbridge Naval Training Center dropped the Naval Academy junior varsity football squad 21-6 here today.

Dr. Byrd Asserts He Did Not Poll 16 S. C. Members

Expects Conference To OK Bowl Contest

Dr. H. C. "Curly" Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, said last night that he did not poll the other 16 Southern Conference members before the Terrapin football team accepted a bid to play the University of Tennessee in the New Orleans' Sugar Bowl on New Year's Day.

The college president was here to speak at the first session mid-winter meeting of the Maryland Moose Association.

"We are following the pattern of past procedure in this matter and are handling it exactly as it has always been done in the Southren Conference," Dr. Byrd said. "We will ask for approval at the Conference meeting December 15 in Chapel Hill, N. C."

The Maryland president would not answer directly a question as to what the football team would do about playing in the Sugar Bowl should the Conference refuse to allow the request.

"I would expect the conference officials would approve participation in the bowl game just as they have always done before when any other conference member made the request," he concluded.

Huntington Vinson Bags Class B Title

MILTON, W. Va., Nov. 16 (AP)—Huntington Vinson's unbeaten Tigers won their third Class B West Virginia high school football championship in four years here tonight by downing Sissonville, 26 to 7.

Vinson's powerful offensive rolled for two touchdowns each in the first and third quarters. Sissonville got its lone marker in the last period.

The Tigers, sporting a winning streak extending back into the 1950 season, shared the title last year with Poca and were champions in 1948, the first year the State High School Athletic Association designated Class B winners.

ALTOONA, Pa., Nov. 16—LaSalle High School of Cumberland, Md. rolled over Altoona Catholic High School's gridders here tonight on muddy Cricket Field by the score of 30 to 0.

The victory was the Cumberland team's second in three starts under Coach Norman F. Geatz, Jr., and it marked the first time that the Explorers had beaten the Marauders since 1935. The series now stands 6-2 in favor of ACHS with two games ending in ties.

McKenzie Scores Twice

Earl McKenzie, left halfback, racked up two of the visitors' five touchdowns. The other six-pointers were credited to Bobby Arnone, Ray Brown and Frank Taccino, substitute back. LaSalle's five tries for extra points via passing were incomplete.

Coach Geatz used practically all the members of the squad in the contest that was played on a gridiron made gooey by the heavy rains.

LaSalle scored in the first period on a 45-yard touchdown gallop by McKenzie. McKenzie also scored the second td in the second period from 10 yards out.

The Explorers registered twice in the third stanza when Bobby Arnone smashed over from the three and Ray Brown intercepted a pass and ran 45 yards to pay dirt.

Frank Taccino, substitute back, added the finishing touches with a 32-yard touchdown run in the fourth period.

Arnone Runs 42 Yards

In the first period, Arnone gave the spectators a thrill with a 42-yard run to Altoona's 17. Three plays later, however, Altoona intercepted a pass to halt the march. On another occasion, Paul Ackerman, LaSalle end, intercepted an aerial and ran it back for a td but the score was nullified by a tripping penalty.

Wrong Alley Shot Proves Costly To Milwaukee Bowler

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 16 (AP)—Howie Kissner rolled 12 strikes in a row starting in the first frame Thursday night but still failed to bowl a perfect game.

Impossible, you say?

Well, they're calling him Howie (Wrong Alley) Kissner today.

After rolling a 242 opening game, Kissner—leadoff man for the Magaw team in the greater all star league—stepped to the alleys and sent a sizzler down the polished lane for a perfect strike. Then they told him it didn't count. Wrong alley.

He opened again with another strike and followed with 10 more. On the 12th ball, with a chance remaining for a perfect game, the No. 10 pin remained standing for a 299 count. He finished the series with a medicore 167 but had a creditable 708 aggregate.

This is what that wrong alley shot cost Kissner:

$300 in cash from a bowling shirt manufacturer whose shirt he was wearing.

And $50 from a Milwaukee haberdasher.

Turkey Shoot Is Set For Ridgeley Sunday

Trapshooters will gather at the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club on the Frankfort Road Sunday to participate in the annual Thanksgiving turkey shoot, scheduled to get under way at noon.

Thirty turkeys will be distributed among the lucky gunners. Clay and still targets will be used.

Rookie In Service

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (INS)—The New York Yankees were informed today that rookie southpaw pitcher Bob Wiesler has gone on active service at Ft. Ethan Allen, Vt., with a Missouri National Guard unit.

Weisler joins pitchers Ed Ford and Davie Madison and outfielder Art Schult on the Yankees' national defense list. The Yanks now have one vacancy on their roster which may be filled at Monday's major league draft meeting.

HUNTERS TAKE NOTE!—L. W. Churchill, of Westmoreland, N. H., points to one of his cows on which he has painted in large letters C-O-W, as John Roll of New York City, acts the part of a hunter and makes sure he knows what it is. Churchill hopes hunters won't mistake his cows for deer this season. Last year one trigger-happy nimrod was credited with shooting a goat. Another blew a large hole in a bear skin rug draped over an automobile radiator.

WESTMINSTER, Md., Nov. 16—Fort Hill High School's powerful Sentinels from Cumberland made it six in a row tonight by walloping Westminster High School's Owls by the score of 32 to 0.

Richard Beard, John Poling, Dave Ritter, Leonard White and Donald Stine chalked up touchdowns and Beard scored both extra points for the Western Marylanders who have won seven and lost one this season.

Fort Hill's first touchdown in the opening quarter came after a 90-yard march. The Sentinels started on the Owls' 10 and in seven plays reeled off four first downs and a score. During the drive Beard and Stine reeled off 20 and 10 yards and as a climax Beard went off tackle for 28 yards and the six-pointer.

Coach William P. Hahn's outfit scored thrice in the second period to roll up a 26-0 lead at the halfway mark.

Fumbles Pave Way

After Fort Hill had kicked out of bounds on the 16, Westminster marked up a first down on the 26. Then Quarterback John Kauffman fumbled and John Poling, substitute tackle, scooped up the loose ball on the 20 and ran it over for the score. Beard's kick for the point was good.

On the first play following the succeeding kickoff, Dave Ritter, of Fort Hill, recovered Kauffman's fumble on the Westminster 27. Beard passed to Steppe who fumbled in the end zone. Then Beard passed from 25 yards out to Ritter who made a leaping catch of the ball between two Westminster players in the end zone. Beard converted and the score was 20-0.

Kauffman's third costly fumble set the stage for the Sentinels' fourth score of the game. It was committed late in the second quarter after Westminster had made a first down on the 48. Bill Steppe, substitute end, recovered the fumble on Westminster's 46 and on the first play Beard passed to White, who made an over-the-shoulder catch on the five, and went over from there as the first half ended.

Cage Makes 40 Yard Run

In the third stanza, Westminster kicked off to Norman Cage who returned the ball 40 yards before being brought down on the 42. He ran up the middle of the field and was given excellent blocking. The Cumberlanders scored nine plays later. Jim Farris passed 12 yards to Ritter on the nine. Beard toted the ball to the one and Stine plunged over for the score.

Three of Beard's five kicks for extra points went wide of the mark.

Westminster was limited to 27 net yards on the ground, failed to advance within Fort Hill's 41 yard line and failed to make a first down in the second half. The Owls had a net loss of 12 yards rushing the in last two periods.

Fort Hill gained 250 yards on the ground and in the air.

The Sentinels play their final game with Allegany for the city championship of Cumberland on Thanksgiving Day. The lineups:

New Yorker Annexes Rough-House Match

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (INS) — Lightweight title aspirant Paddy De Marco of New York mixed rough-house slugging with wrestling holds tonight to score a unanimous ten-round decision over Eddie Chavez of San Jose, Cal., at Madison Square Garden.

The clever Chavez was unable to cope with De Marco's bull-like rushes, which kept the black haired Californian's back against the ropes much of the time.

Chavez went down for a count of five in the seventh round after a particularly violent collision.

De Marco, who has won 11 straight and hopes to meet champion James Carter soon, weighed 138½ to 139¼ for Chavez.

John Adams was the first president to occupy the White House.

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—Coaches of the nation's undefeated top-ranking college football teams will find that sleep comes very slowly tonight.

They know that, on the law of averages, at least one of their select number probably will get axed by some fired-up "have not" tomorrow, and the thought of all that New Year's Day bowl money going down the drain will not be conducive to slumber.

Highest on the list of worryers figure to be Ray Eliot of Illinois and Chuck Taylor of Stanford, with Bob Neyland of Tennessee's Thundering Herd not far behind. Dutch Meyer of Texas Christian though not numbered among the undefeated elect, probably will do a little floor-pacing, too.

Illinois Tackles Buckeyes

It is possible that Eliot has the most reason to fear the morrow. His Illini, seeking their eighth straight victory and a certain bid to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl, must tackle Ohio State on the latter's home field at Columbus. It is a rough assignment.

Dispatches from the west say that Taylor, who has been picking his stanford "Cinderella Kids" to win week after week, is similarly confident they will come through again and upend the Oregon State Beavers at Palo Alto for their ninth straight and the defending berth in the Rose Bowl.

But did he say positively? The record shows that the Beavers are no chumps. They held Michigan State, the nation's current pinup team, to a 6-0 decision, lost to Southern Cal by a disputed two points, and a fortnight ago whaled Washington, 40 to 14.

Vols Oppose Old Miss

Neyland, whose Volunteers risk an unblemished 7-0 record and an almost certain bowl bid against Mississippi at Oxford, Miss. can find two things to worry about. First, he can't help knowing that Old Miss swatted a good Auburn team, 39-14 last week. Second, he can run a cold sweat at the thought of his boys holding out their best licks for Kentucky, their dearest rival, next week.

MEYER, whose T.C.U. Horned Frogs could take a virtual stranglehold on the Southwest Conference title and a Cotton Bowl berth by defeating Texas at Austin, will be lucky if he sleeps a wink. Long and bitter experience has taught him it's nearly always fatal to be the front runner at this stage of the unpredictable Texas derby.

As Michigan State is not eligible for a New Year's Day assignment, Biggie Munn, the Spartans' mentor, is under considerably less pressure than his fellow geniuses. Still, it would not be surprising if he experiences a twinge or two before tomorrow's joust with lowly Indiana at Bloomington.

Tigers Are Favored

Charlie Caldwell of the all-conquering Princetons probably will rest fairly easy. His Tigers, otherwise known as Dick Kazmaier, figure to run up a packet on Yale in their 74th meeting at Princeton. Besides, the Tigers wouldn't be caught dead in any bowl, including the Rose.

Maryland, winner of seven straight, should give Jim Tatum few uneasy moments in its tilt with North Carolina State at College Park, Md. San Francisco, also boasting seven in a row and hungry for a bowl bid, is favored over College of Pacific at Stockton, Calif., mainly because of its great fullback, Ollie Matson.

Georgia Tech, which already has an Orange Bowl invitation salted away, has nothing much to worry about in its brawl with Alabama at Birmingham. For that reason, many experts are tipping 'Bama as the week's best bet.

Mountaineers Invade Pitt

Other leading games tomorrow: Army at Penn, George Washington at Kentucky, Notre Dame at North Carolina, Northwestern at Oklahoma, Wake Forest at Baylor, Navy at Columbia, Duke at William & Mary, S. Carolina at Virginia, Clemson at Furman, Auburn vs. Georgia (at Columbus, Ga.), West Virginia at Pittsburgh.

KEYSER, Nov. 16—Keyser High School's football team needs another win to finish in the .500 class for the season and hopes to be able to score it Saturday when it plays the Alumni at Stayman Field at 1:30 p. m.

Coach Fred "Tack" Clark's schoolboy eleven has won four, lost five and played one tie game.

Wins were registered over Ridgeley, Parsons, Moorefield and Petersburg. Losses were suffered at the hands of Morgantown High, Charles Town, Beall, Allegany and the West Virginia School for the Deaf.

The final game of the 1951 season here is a benefit affair and is being staged by the "K" Club of the school and the Touchdown Club of the Alumni.

Wolfpack Has Upset Marylanders In Past

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 16 (AP)—A do-or-die North Carolina State football team tries to salvage a poor season tomorrow by upsetting undefeated and fifth ranking Maryland, named to play Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl.

Coach Beattie Feathers and his North Carolinians are talking anything except like a team which has won only three out of nine compared with Maryland's seven straight.

"We can win if we can take the physical beating and keep our key personnel in the game," said the coach.

"We know if we play our best football we can beat Maryland and I think we'll do just that," said the Wolfpack's great tackle, Elmer Costa.

The same Costa's big hands helped ruin Maryland last year in a 16-13 upset. He did it so well he was named Associated Press lineman of the week for it.

Coach Jim Tatum of Maryland is a little afraid of his opponents might not be talking through their helmets.

"You know they've always been my jinx," referring to their past three meetings. Maryland was favored in all of them. They were held to a scoreless tie in 1947, eked out a 14-6 triumph the next year and then were upended last season.

Coach Tatum doesn't think North Carolina State is as weak as its record indicates. "They just ran out of reserve strength several times."

Giles Defers Naming Successor To Klem

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 16 (INS)—National League President Warren Giles announced today that no appointment will be made to the vacant office of chief of league umpires.

The post previously was held by the late Bill Klem but Giles said he and his assistant, Fred Fleig, will serve instead as supervisors of umpires on a one-year experimental basis.

Giles said a chief umpire might be inclined to bias in an argument between players and other umpires.

Each school boasts a 5-1 record and each school goes into today's contest with a five-game winning streak.

The West Virginia Silents have crushed the Virginia and New Jersey Deaf School elevens while Mt. Airy walloped the New Jersey and New York elevens.

West Virginia never has beaten the Mt. Airy school and hopes to snap that three-game losing streak today. Starting with 1948 the Keystone Staters have won by scores of 12-0, 20-19 and 19-7.

Tackett is considered West Virginia's standout player while Averillo is Mt. Airy's best bet. The Pennsy squad will be composed of 31 players.

Lure Of Rabbits Costs Frederick Football Game

SUITLAND, Md., Nov. 16 (AP)—The lure of rabbit hunting may have cost Frederick High School a football game today. It lost to Suitland High 13-7.

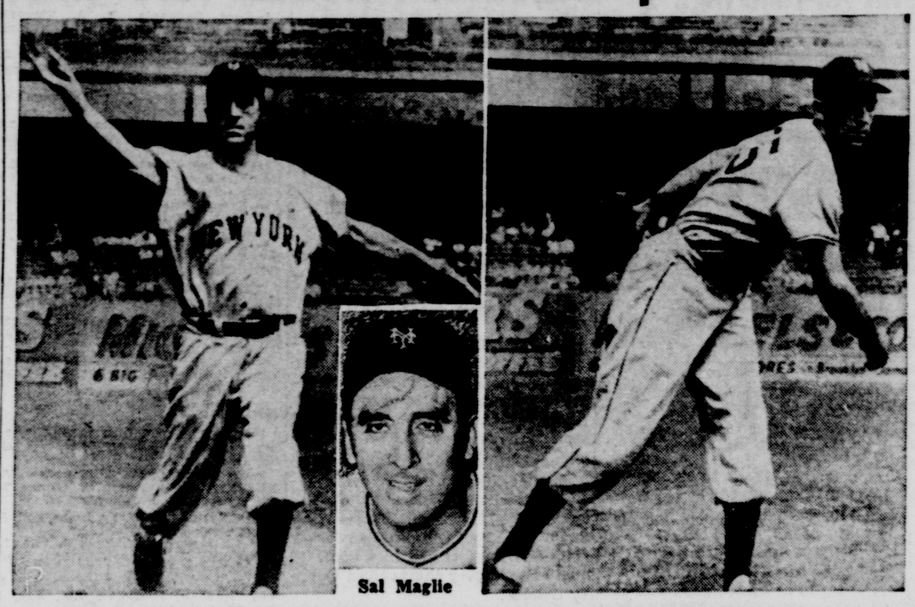
Missing from the losers' squad were four regulars and seven other players suspended because they went hunting on the opening day of rabbit season yesterday instead of reporting for practice. Coach Homer Brooks, who ordered the suspension, declined to say directly that was the reason for the loss. He shrugged off the question with "what do you think?"

Despite the weakened squad, Frederick started out strongly. Larry Krantz got off to a 75-yard run in the first quarter and a short time later Bob Weedle passed two yards to Bill Ward for a score. Krantz converted.

But Suitland's Chris Mayhew scored on a 13-yard end run completing a 78-yard downfield march in the second period, Bobby Thompson converted, and Billy Matthews scored in the third after a 70-yard march to give Suitland the victory.

Frederick expected to be stronger for its game against Rockville Thanksgiving Day. Brooks said the suspended players would be eligible if they reported regularly for practice next week. They promised to do that.

Sal Maglie Is Visitor Here Today, Aids Hot Stove Membership Drive



Sal Maglie

IT TOOK SAL MAGLIE, New York Giants' pitcher, several years to decide that U. S. baseball was his career but after he reached that decision he moved to the top quickly. After pitching in the minors for five years, the Niagara Falls, N. Y., flinger retired for two years. He came back in 1945 and after a 5-4 season with the Giants he jumped to the Mexican league. Even though that bubble burst shortly after, Maglie wasn't reinstated until October 1949. And it wasn't until July of 1950 that Maglie started a game for the Giants. From then on, though, he has been terrific. He wound up the 1950 campaign with an 18-4 record and this year he helped pitch the Giants into the World Series with a 23-6 mark. Maglie comes here today in connection with the Hot Stove Baseball League membership drive and he will be at the Moose Home from 10 a. m. until noon to "meet the boys" at open house arranged by the local Moose lodge. Sal is a member of the Moose lodge at Niagara Falls. The Giants' ace will autograph membership cards. Officers, managers and players of the league and others interested are invited to attend.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (INS)—It has been our sad experience recently to run across many cases of old-time fighters in distress.

Some are totally blind, some are physical wrecks, some are mentally unfit and all of them are financially broke.

There is an organization called the National Sports Alliance which can dribble out a few bucks here and there to help such men. The NSA does the best it can but it simply hasn't the funds to do the job as it should be done.

This could be remedied by having a small tax placed on every fighter's purse, and the promoter taxed an equal amount for every fighter on his card.

The monies thus acquired could be put in escrow to be administered by a non-political organization of men of high standing for the benefit of distressed cases.

Bad investments, not riotous living, cost Mike the fortune he earned by his fists in the ring.

It is distressing to find a great old time lightweight like Kid McPartland up against it or to see Harlem Tommy Murphy in a hospital. Tommy fought all the best in his day from Abe Attell and Terry McGovern to Owen Moran, Packy McFarland and Ad Wolgast. Ask your dad what kind of fighters they were.

Scores of fights may have left Tommy not as sharp mentally as he might be.

This tax plan we suggest also could be used to help the families of boxers in the ring.

Perhaps the $500,000 damage suit instituted the other day by the widow of Georges Flores, killed in the ring, against the International Boxing Club, Madison Square Garden, and the N. Y. Boxing Commission may serve to make promoters less careless in their matchmaking.

We have been yelling about mismatches for years but we might just as well have been yelling into an empty rain barrel. Perhaps a suit or two may be far more effective in making promoters pay more attention to the welfare of the boxer and less to conniving managers and matchmaking.

We have insisted that any boxer who is knocked out should not be permitted to fight again anywhere for a period of at least 30 days. And only then after the most rigid medical examination.

Now we go a step further with the suggestion that any fighter who is knocked out in three consecutive fights be barred from fighting ever again anywhere.

You will note that we stress the word anywhere because under present conditions a fighter barred, say, in New York for 30 days often goes into another state and fights.

Fighters are not always mental giants and they are easily influenced by conniving, chiselling managers. Something should be done to help them if they get in distress, mentally, physically or financially when they are down and out. We think the plan we suggest might solve the problem.

P. V. C. Meeting Set For Monday

U. S. Davis Cuppers Score In Australia

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 16 (AP)—Two American Davis Cup stars, Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas, advanced smoothly through the second round of the New South Wales Tennis Tournament today amid indications that the U. S. team might have an easier time against Sweden in the inter-zone final Dec. 13-15 than had been anticipated.

Lennart Bergelin, No. 1 star of the Swedish team which swept through the European Zone, appeared badly handicapped by a lame shoulder as he won his opening match from Neville Snellgrove, a second-rate Syndey player, by scores of 6-1, 6-4, 4-6, 9-7.

Trabert, the youthful Cincinnati star who received a leave from the navy to accompany the U. S. squad, scored his second straight-set victory at the expense of Geoff Pryor of Sydney, 6-2, 6-2, 6-1. Seixas, of Philadelphia, breezed past Rex Hartwig of Australia 6-2, 6-2, 6-3. Other members of the American squad were idle.

Dr. Byrd Asserts He Did Not Poll 16 S. C. Members

Expects Conference To OK Bowl Contest

Dr. H. C. "Curly" Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, said last night that he did not poll the other 16 Southern Conference members before the Terrapin football team accepted a bid to play the University of Tennessee in the New Orleans' Sugar Bowl on New Year's Day.

The college president was here to speak at the first session mid-winter meeting of the Maryland Moose Association.

"We are following the pattern of past procedure in this matter and are handling it exactly as it has always been done in the Southren Conference," Dr. Byrd said. "We will ask for approval at the Conference meeting December 15 in Chapel Hill, N. C."

The Maryland president would not answer directly a question as to what the football team would do about playing in the Sugar Bowl should the Conference refuse to allow the request.

"I would expect the conference officials would approve participation in the bowl game just as they have always done before when any other conference member made the request," he concluded.

Huntington Vinson Bags Class B Title

MILTON, W. Va., Nov. 16 (AP)—Huntington Vinson's unbeaten Tigers won their third Class B West Virginia high school football championship in four years here tonight by downing Sissonville, 26 to 7.

Vinson's powerful offensive rolled for two touchdowns each in the first and third quarters. Sissonville got its lone marker in the last period.

The Tigers, sporting a winning streak extending back into the 1950 season, shared the title last year with Poca and were champions in 1948, the first year the State High School Athletic Association designated Class B winners.

ALTOONA, Pa., Nov. 16—LaSalle High School of Cumberland, Md. rolled over Altoona Catholic High School's gridders here tonight on muddy Cricket Field by the score of 30 to 0.

The victory was the Cumberland team's second in three starts under Coach Norman F. Geatz, Jr., and it marked the first time that the Explorers had beaten the Marauders since 1935. The series now stands 6-2 in favor of ACHS with two games ending in ties.

McKenzie Scores Twice

Earl McKenzie, left halfback, racked up two of the visitors' five touchdowns. The other six-pointers were credited to Bobby Arnone, Ray Brown and Frank Taccino, substitute back. LaSalle's five tries for extra points via passing were incomplete.

Coach Geatz used practically all the members of the squad in the contest that was played on a gridiron made gooey by the heavy rains.

LaSalle scored in the first period on a 45-yard touchdown gallop by McKenzie. McKenzie also scored the second td in the second period from 10 yards out.

The Explorers registered twice in the third stanza when Bobby Arnone smashed over from the three and Ray Brown intercepted a pass and ran 45 yards to pay dirt.

Frank Taccino, substitute back, added the finishing touches with a 32-yard touchdown run in the fourth period.

Arnone Runs 42 Yards

In the first period, Arnone gave the spectators a thrill with a 42-yard run to Altoona's 17. Three plays later, however, Altoona intercepted a pass to halt the march. On another occasion, Paul Ackerman, LaSalle end, intercepted an aerial and ran it back for a td but the score was nullified by a tripping penalty.

Wrong Alley Shot Proves Costly To Milwaukee Bowler

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 16 (AP)—Howie Kissner rolled 12 strikes in a row starting in the first frame Thursday night but still failed to bowl a perfect game.

Impossible, you say?

Well, they're calling him Howie (Wrong Alley) Kissner today.

After rolling a 242 opening game, Kissner—leadoff man for the Magaw team in the greater all star league—stepped to the alleys and sent a sizzler down the polished lane for a perfect strike. Then they told him it didn't count. Wrong alley.

He opened again with another strike and followed with 10 more. On the 12th ball, with a chance remaining for a perfect game, the No. 10 pin remained standing for a 299 count. He finished the series with a medicore 167 but had a creditable 708 aggregate.

This is what that wrong alley shot cost Kissner:

A diamond medal from the American Bowling Congress for a 300 game.

$300 in cash from a bowling shirt manufacturer whose shirt he was wearing.

A $100 watch from a Milwaukee jeweler.

And $50 from a Milwaukee haberdasher.

Turkey Shoot Is Set For Ridgeley Sunday

Rookie In Service

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (INS)—The New York Yankees were informed today that rookie southpaw pitcher Bob Wiesler has gone on active service at Ft. Ethan Allen, Vt., with a Missouri National Guard unit.

Weisler joins pitchers Ed Ford and Davie Madison and outfielder Art Schult on the Yankees' national defense list. The Yanks now have one vacancy on their roster which may be filled at Monday's major league draft meeting.

HUNTERS TAKE NOTE!—L. W. Churchill, of Westmoreland, N. H., points to one of his cows on which he has painted in large letters C-O-W, as John Roll of New York City, acts the part of a hunter and makes sure he knows what it is. Churchill hopes hunters won't mistake his cows for deer this season. Last year one trigger-happy nimrod was credited with shooting a goat. Another blew a large hole in a bear skin rug draped over an automobile radiator.

Tennessee And Maryland Will Play In Sugar Bowl Game

Schools Accept Invite To Play New Year's Day

Top Ranking Elevens Meet In 18th Annual Tilt At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16 (AP) — Charles C. Zatarain, president of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Association, announced tonight the University of Tennessee and the University of Maryland have accepted invitations to play in the 18th annual Sugar Bowl football game here Jan. 1.

The game will pit the nation's second and fifth ranking teams.

the regular season is unprecedented in the history of the Sugar Bowl, which began its New Year's Day game in 1935.

Coaches Bob Neyland of Tennessee and Jim Tatum of Maryland represented the two universities in the negotiations with the Sugar Bowl.

There had been rumors that the schools were under consideration, but up until a few days ago Sugar Bowl authorities insisted no invitation would be issued until the latter part of November.

Vols Have Three Games

Tennessee stil has three Southeastern Conference games to play and Maryland has two games remaining on its schedule.

"We are happy to announce acceptance of our invitations by Tennessee and Maryland," said Zatarain. "This is the game the football fans and experts of the nation want and although neither team has completed its schedule, we saw no reason to delay the invitations. It has never been a requisite of the Sugar Bowl that the participating teams be unbeaten.

"Tennessee and Maryland are now the two top-ranking teams eligible for bowl bids."

Tennessee has scored 264 points in seven games, and Maryland 236 points in six games this season.

Neyland, commenting on the invitation to the Sugar Bowl, the third in Tennessee's history, said he was especially pleased because it would offer his great halfback, Hank Lauricella, the opportunity to close out his collegiate career before his home folks in New Orleans.

"Lauricella is a great star and I am pleased that he will play his last game in his home town, New Orleans," said Neyland. "Tennessee is proud of its football team and we hope to prove a worthy representative of the Southeastern Conference."

Tatum, a regular attendant at the Sugar Bowl in the past, comes into the classic as a coach for the first time. The Maryland Terrapins have been hailed as one of the all time great teams in Southern Conference history.

Tatum Is Pleased

Headed by "Mighty Mo" Modzelewski and Bob Ward, All-America candidates, the Maryland team has rolled over all opposition in its bid for an unbeaten season.

"I'm glad my boys are going to get a chance to play in the Sugar Bowl and against the great Tennessee team," said Coach Tatum in accepting the invitation. "No team is more deserving of a chance to prove its championship qualities in a post season classic."

Selection of training sites probably will be delayed by coaches Neyland and Tatum until after their teams complete their schedules.

R. Millholland Will Filed In Court Here

The will of Randolph Millholland, Sr., 71, husband of Mrs. Jean R. (Roberts) Millholland, 218 Washington Street, was filed for probate yesterday in Orphans Court.

Millholland, who died November 6, was a well known local businessman. His widow was bequeathed his personal effects and property. The document stated that she could divide some of the property between the couple's two children, Randolph Millholland, this city, and Mrs. Betty Joyner, of Larchmont, N. Y.

The First National Bank of Cumberland was named executor of the will and posted bond of $25,000. The will provided that the widow be the beneficiary of a trust fund and that quarterly payments be made to her during her lifetime. After her death the estate is to go to the son and daughter.

Bryan G Cops 15th Special At Pimlico

County Delight 2nd In 4-Horse Field; $15,000 To Winner

By JOHN CHANDLER

BALTIMORE, Nov. 16 (AP) — Bryan G, a second stringer from the Virginia stable of C. T. Whitney, today led all the way to grab an easy victory in the 15th running of the sporty Pimlico Special.

The Chestnut 4-year-old son of Blenheim II-Anthemian, overshadowed by such stablemates as Hill Prince and Mangochick, never left any doubt about the result as Jockey Ovie Scurlock steered him home by five lengths over the favored County Delight.

County Delight, from the Rokeby Stable of Paul Mellon and Ridden by Eddie Arcaro seeking his fifth Pimlico Special Victory, was 12 lengths ahead of Bedford Stable's Call Over. The latter wound up two and a quarter lengths ahead of the only other horse in the field, Mrs. E. duPont Weir's Royal Governor.

Oil Capitol Scratched

Oil Capitol was a late scratch, probably due to the fact all of the horses had to carry 126 pounds under the weight-for-age conditions. Oil Capitol won the Butler last week with only 108.

There was win-only betting in the $15,000 winner take all affair, and those in the slim crowd of 11,973 who braved showers and a cool wind who liked Bryan G's chances, got back $5.80 for their $2.

Bryan G, named after Bryan Gentry, a former manager of Chenery's Farm at Doswell, Va., stepped the mile and three sixteenths in a respectable 1:57 2-5 on a slow track.

It was telecast as far west as Kansas City on behalf of the Red Cross blood bank. Earlier plans for a coast-to-coast telecast were cancelled because NBC did not relinquish one channel for which they had an earlier commitment according to a CBS spokesman at the track.

Scurlock Rides Winner

"Bryan G ran easily all the way," said Scurlock, 33-year-old native of Paintsville, Ky. who was bringing home the second Virginia horse to win a Special. The other from the Old Dominion to do it was Market Wise in 1941.

"I thought I was home free at the half mile pole. It took me a long time to win one, but this was a good one."

Arcaro said there was no excuse, "we just couldn't beat Bryan G." County Delight was coupled in the betting with Royal Governor, both trained by J. E. Ryan, and they went off at 3 to 5. Call Over was third choice at 7 to 2.

Joe Culmone also said "no excuses" for Call Over, while Carroll Bierman, aboard Royal Governor, said the 7-year-old gelding didn't like the track.

Gas Heater Fumes Nearly Suffocate Two Local Girls

Two local girls were treated at Memorial Hospital yesterday after being nearly suffocated by fumes from a gas heater in a home where they cared for a bedfast invalid.

City Police said that Arlene Nelson, 18, 214 Potomac Street, and Naomi Hoover, 15, 202 Maple Street, recovered shortly after being taken to the hospital at 9:30 a. m.

Lt. Edwin R. Lilya, who investigated, said Miss Dorothy Hoover, 19, also of 202 Maple Street, and Miss Nelson were sleeping in a room on the first floor adjacent to the kitchen in the home of Miss Elizabeth J. MacDonald, at 119 Potomac Street.

At 7 a. m. Dorothy Hoover arose and went to the second floor to care for Miss MacDonald.

Before going upstairs, Lt. Lilya said she lighted the hot water heater in the kitchen, turning the gas up high.

Lt. Lilya related that between 7 a. m. and 9 a. m. Naomi Hoover arrived at the house and went to bed with Miss Nelson.

Around 9 a. m. Dorothy Hoover returned to the first floor and found the two girls unconscious on the bedroom floor.

After attempting unsuccessfully to revive the two girls, Lt. Lilya said the older girl called police. Although unconscious when taken to the hospital in ambulances, the girls were revived shortly after arriving.

The detective lieutenant said the gas heater used most of the oxygen in the air in the two rooms, causing the girls to nearly suffocate.

Miss MacDonald, who can only be moved with the help of others, and Dorothy Hoover were not affected by the fumes, Lt. Lilya added.

4. As the announcer talks to a possible winner by telephone, his voice will be broadcast so all listeners know immediately that someone has called in with a "Radio". While the announcer checks the card, all other players are to HOLD THEIR CARDS INTACT until the caller has been officially declared a winner.

Tennessee And Maryland Will Play In Sugar Bowl Game

Top Ranking Elevens Meet In 18th Annual Tilt At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16 (AP) — Charles C. Zatarain, president of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Association, announced tonight the University of Tennessee and the University of Maryland have accepted invitations to play in the 18th annual Sugar Bowl football game here Jan. 1.

The game will pit the nation's second and fifth ranking teams.

the regular season is unprecedented in the history of the Sugar Bowl, which began its New Year's Day game in 1935.

Coaches Bob Neyland of Tennessee and Jim Tatum of Maryland represented the two universities in the negotiations with the Sugar Bowl.

There had been rumors that the schools were under consideration, but up until a few days ago Sugar Bowl authorities insisted no invitation would be issued until the latter part of November.

Vols Have Three Games

Tennessee stil has three Southeastern Conference games to play and Maryland has two games remaining on its schedule.

"We are happy to announce acceptance of our invitations by Tennessee and Maryland," said Zatarain. "This is the game the football fans and experts of the nation want and although neither team has completed its schedule, we saw no reason to delay the invitations. It has never been a requisite of the Sugar Bowl that the participating teams be unbeaten.

"Tennessee and Maryland are now the two top-ranking teams eligible for bowl bids."

Tennessee has scored 264 points in seven games, and Maryland 236 points in six games this season.

Neyland, commenting on the invitation to the Sugar Bowl, the third in Tennessee's history, said he was especially pleased because it would offer his great halfback, Hank Lauricella, the opportunity to close out his collegiate career before his home folks in New Orleans.

"Lauricella is a great star and I am pleased that he will play his last game in his home town, New Orleans," said Neyland. "Tennessee is proud of its football team and we hope to prove a worthy representative of the Southeastern Conference."

Tatum, a regular attendant at the Sugar Bowl in the past, comes into the classic as a coach for the first time. The Maryland Terrapins have been hailed as one of the all time great teams in Southern Conference history.

Tatum Is Pleased

Headed by "Mighty Mo" Modzelewski and Bob Ward, All-America candidates, the Maryland team has rolled over all opposition in its bid for an unbeaten season.

"I'm glad my boys are going to get a chance to play in the Sugar Bowl and against the great Tennessee team," said Coach Tatum in accepting the invitation. "No team is more deserving of a chance to prove its championship qualities in a post season classic."

Selection of training sites probably will be delayed by coaches Neyland and Tatum until after their teams complete their schedules.

The Western Maryland Railway Thursday awarded to a group headed by Morgan Stanley & Co., its offering of $14,950,000 general mortgage bonds, Series B, due 1976.

The bonds were awarded at 98.-5231 for a 4½ per cent coupon rate, or a net cost to maturity of 4.559 per cent.

Associated with Morgan Stanley & Co. were First Boston Corporation; Harriman, Ripley & Co.; Dick and Merle-Smith; R. W. Presprich Co.; Wood, Struthers & Co.; Stroud & Co.; Illinois Company of Chicago, and Baker, Watts & Co., Baltimore.

Subject to approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission, the bonds were reoffered by the banking group at par and accrued interest.

Another bid was submitted for the offering by a group headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co., naming 98.-8199 for a 4¾ per cent coupon rate, or a net interest cost of 4.7972 per cent.

Proceeds of this financing will be applied to the payment at or before maturity of an equal amount of first mortgage 4 per cent bonds due October 1, 1952.

R. Millholland Will Filed In Court Here

The will of Randolph Millholland, Sr., 71, husband of Mrs. Jean R. (Roberts) Millholland, 218 Washington Street, was filed for probate yesterday in Orphans Court.

Millholland, who died November 6, was a well known local businessman. His widow was bequeathed his personal effects and property. The document stated that she could divide some of the property between the couple's two children, Randolph Millholland, this city, and Mrs. Betty Joyner, of Larchmont, N. Y.

The First National Bank of Cumberland was named executor of the will and posted bond of $25,000. The will provided that the widow be the beneficiary of a trust fund and that quarterly payments be made to her during her lifetime. After her death the estate is to go to the son and daughter.

Bryan G Cops 15th Special At Pimlico

County Delight 2nd In 4-Horse Field; $15,000 To Winner

By JOHN CHANDLER

BALTIMORE, Nov. 16 (AP) — Bryan G, a second stringer from the Virginia stable of C. T. Whitney, today led all the way to grab an easy victory in the 15th running of the sporty Pimlico Special.

The Chestnut 4-year-old son of Blenheim II-Anthemian, overshadowed by such stablemates as Hill Prince and Mangochick, never left any doubt about the result as Jockey Ovie Scurlock steered him home by five lengths over the favored County Delight.

County Delight, from the Rokeby Stable of Paul Mellon and Ridden by Eddie Arcaro seeking his fifth Pimlico Special Victory, was 12 lengths ahead of Bedford Stable's Call Over. The latter wound up two and a quarter lengths ahead of the only other horse in the field, Mrs. E. duPont Weir's Royal Governor.

Oil Capitol Scratched

Oil Capitol was a late scratch, probably due to the fact all of the horses had to carry 126 pounds under the weight-for-age conditions. Oil Capitol won the Butler last week with only 108.

There was win-only betting in the $15,000 winner take all affair, and those in the slim crowd of 11,973 who braved showers and a cool wind who liked Bryan G's chances, got back $5.80 for their $2.

Bryan G, named after Bryan Gentry, a former manager of Chenery's Farm at Doswell, Va., stepped the mile and three sixteenths in a respectable 1:57 2-5 on a slow track.

It was telecast as far west as Kansas City on behalf of the Red Cross blood bank. Earlier plans for a coast-to-coast telecast were cancelled because NBC did not relinquish one channel for which they had an earlier commitment according to a CBS spokesman at the track.

Scurlock Rides Winner

"Bryan G ran easily all the way," said Scurlock, 33-year-old native of Paintsville, Ky. who was bringing home the second Virginia horse to win a Special. The other from the Old Dominion to do it was Market Wise in 1941.

"I thought I was home free at the half mile pole. It took me a long time to win one, but this was a good one."

Arcaro said there was no excuse, "we just couldn't beat Bryan G." County Delight was coupled in the betting with Royal Governor, both trained by J. E. Ryan, and they went off at 3 to 5. Call Over was third choice at 7 to 2.

Joe Culmone also said "no excuses" for Call Over, while Carroll Bierman, aboard Royal Governor, said the 7-year-old gelding didn't like the track.

Gas Heater Fumes Nearly Suffocate Two Local Girls

Two local girls were treated at Memorial Hospital yesterday after being nearly suffocated by fumes from a gas heater in a home where they cared for a bedfast invalid.

City Police said that Arlene Nelson, 18, 214 Potomac Street, and Naomi Hoover, 15, 202 Maple Street, recovered shortly after being taken to the hospital at 9:30 a. m.

Lt. Edwin R. Lilya, who investigated, said Miss Dorothy Hoover, 19, also of 202 Maple Street, and Miss Nelson were sleeping in a room on the first floor adjacent to the kitchen in the home of Miss Elizabeth J. MacDonald, at 119 Potomac Street.

At 7 a. m. Dorothy Hoover arose and went to the second floor to care for Miss MacDonald.

Before going upstairs, Lt. Lilya said she lighted the hot water heater in the kitchen, turning the gas up high.

Lt. Lilya related that between 7 a. m. and 9 a. m. Naomi Hoover arrived at the house and went to bed with Miss Nelson.

Around 9 a. m. Dorothy Hoover returned to the first floor and found the two girls unconscious on the bedroom floor.

After attempting unsuccessfully to revive the two girls, Lt. Lilya said the older girl called police. Although unconscious when taken to the hospital in ambulances, the girls were revived shortly after arriving.

The detective lieutenant said the gas heater used most of the oxygen in the air in the two rooms, causing the girls to nearly suffocate.

Miss MacDonald, who can only be moved with the help of others, and Dorothy Hoover were not affected by the fumes, Lt. Lilya added.

4. As the announcer talks to a possible winner by telephone, his voice will be broadcast so all listeners know immediately that someone has called in with a "Radio". While the announcer checks the card, all other players are to HOLD THEIR CARDS INTACT until the caller has been officially declared a winner.

Hancock Legion Gets Liquor License

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Nov. 16 (AP)—The Washington County Liquor Board today granted a liquor license to a Hancock, Md., American Legion post, but warned that this does not mean it has abandoned its policy of denying permits to veterans organizations.

Chairman Francis Urner said the board made an exception in the case of the Webster B. Harrison Post only because the Mayor and Council of Hancock and "many prominent residents" had supported the application.

French Club Sees Exhibit

FROSTBURG—The French Club of Frostburg State Teachers College made a trip to Pittsburgh to see the current exhibit of French paintings on display at Carnegie Institute.

The members of the club, accompanied by Miss Irene L. Kirkely, saw the work of such artists as Francois, Millet, Losseau Boucher, Renoir, Cezanne. While there, the group also heard an organ recital at the Carnegie Music Hall.

The trip, which was taken in connection with the study of French history and culture, is one of a series which the club will make this year.

Those who attended, besides Miss Kirkely, head of the college language department, were June Gilford, James Goldsworthy, William Harvey, George Hering, Donald Hunt and Charles Kopp.

Ski Club Aids Development

Members of the Western Maryland Ski Club are working with the Washington Ski Club and volunteers in preparing the new Washington skiing development near Davis, W. Va.

Located on the Canaan Valley slopes, which are 3,500 feet in elevation, a warming hut and tow machine housings are being constructed.

The skiing range is unique among the winter sport areas because of the lack of woods obstacles and the variety of open slopes.

It was also pointed out by veteran skiers of the area that ten to 15-foot snow drifts lay in the draw near the tow late each spring.

George Hankins, president of the Western Maryland ski club, states that members who visited the slopes noted the enthusiasm of those who visited the area last spring.

The mayor and residents of Davis last year took in several of the skiers when the Worden Hotel was crowded. In addition, this year, the mayor is working out an arrangement to meet trains with buses to shuttle skiers through Davis to the skiing location.

Ski Club Aids Development

Members of the Western Maryland Ski Club are working with the Washington Ski Club and volunteers in preparing the new Washington skiing development near Davis, W. Va.

Located on the Canaan Valley slopes, which are 3,500 feet in elevation, a warming hut and tow machine housings are being constructed.

The skiing range is unique among the winter sport areas because of the lack of woods obstacles and the variety of open slopes.

It was also pointed out by veteran skiers of the area that ten to 15-foot snow drifts lay in the draw near the tow late each spring.

George Hankins, president of the Western Maryland ski club, states that members who visited the slopes noted the enthusiasm of those who visited the area last spring.

The mayor and residents of Davis last year took in several of the skiers when the Worden Hotel was crowded. In addition, this year, the mayor is working out an arrangement to meet trains with buses to shuttle skiers through Davis to the skiing location.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 16 (INS)—Cornel Wilde is taking some of that money from his oil well which came in near Wichita Falls, Texas, and putting it back into motion pictures.

Cornel Wilde

He has bought two original stories, which he will produce independently, beginning next spring. The first is an adventure yarn called "Star Of India," in which Cornel, himself, will star. The second is a modern yarn called "The Gladiator," by Irvin Ashkenaze, who used to write Frank Morgan's radio show.

Cornel's bride, Jean Wallace, will be starred in "The Gladiator." This marriage is really working out well, and both Jean and Cornel are trying to make a home for the Franchot Tone children.

When Al Jolson made the movie musical, "Hallelujah, I'm A Bum," William Perlberg was associated with him. The other evening this oldie was shown by Donald O'Connor at home to Bill and George Seaton and some other friends.

It gave Bill and George ideas. Why not remake it, with Betty Hutton and Donald? Astor Films owns it, and it shouldn't be too expensive. Frank Morgan and Madge Evans were the other stars in the original. I'm told "Somebody Loves Me" the last picture Betty made for Perlberg and Seaton is just plumb wonderful.

Clark Gable leaves Nevada after a two months stay there to go fishing and hunting in Mexico and Baja California — the spot where he and Carole Lombard formerly spent so many happy days.

His deal to buy the Max Fleischman ranch is held up because of the death of Fleischman, who killed himself. It's a part of the estate, and nothing can be sold for at least six months. So, Clark has decided against buying it.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Gable is the house guest of the governor of Nassau, and is refusing to talk about her divorce to any inquiring reporters. Probably on advice of her attorneys.

Chatter in Hollywood:

Friends, relatives and mere fans have tried to get Zsa Zsa Gabor and George Sanders together — but without avail.

They've talked in anger, they've talked when they've been calm, but they are no nearer settling their troubles than they were at the beginning.

Lawyers have now entered into the picture and unless there's a complete reversal and change of heart, there will be a divorce. This I'm terribly sorry to see because I think they love each other, but they are both high strung and temperamental and one side always has to give a little.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

The Louis Riley who is escorting Dolores Del Rio all about New York is the ex-husband of Sir Charles Mendl's bride.

John Barrymore Jr. has been dating Jean Ferguson, one of the Copacabana girls, in New York ever since he saw her at Carmen Miranda's opening. He asked for an introduction.

Maury Wolfe, manager of Jimmy Van Heusen's music publishing company, and pretty starlet, Susan Evans, have set the date.

Kirk Douglas, who is still sick in St. John's Hospital, hopes to leave by Monday and go to Palm Springs for two weeks to recuperate. He's been very close to pneumonia.

Congratulations to Vic Damone, who writes from Germany that he has been made a private first class. He says it's like having his option lifted!

Rita Hayworth, dancing with her dance director, Hermes Pan, getting breathless admiration from the onlookers at the Mocambo. Rita posed again and again for Cameraman Hermie Fink.

The unpredictable Shelley Winters at the Bantam Cock with Jack Cushingham, tennis pro at the Beverly Hills Tennis Club. Those who know say that Shell and Farl are not as lovey-dovey since they took that European trip.

Myrna Loy unveiled her husband, H. Sargent Howland, at a cocktail party she gave to introduce him yesterday. It was the first time Hollywood had a chance to look at him.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Amcelle Worker Gets Service Awards

Harry L. Yost, of 260 North Mechanic Street, a chargehand at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America, was presented a gold wrist watch Thursday by H. C. Given, Jr., plant manager, for completing 25 years of employment with the company.

William J. Elvin, plant engineer, also awarded Yost a certificate and a lapel emblem with five stars.

Originally hired as a helper in the Power and Auxiliary department on Nov. 15, 1926, Yost served his apprenticeship as a carman with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He was promoted to millwright July 1, 1934, in the Cellulose Acetate Engineering department where he still works.

He is a native of Berkeley Springs, W. Va.

The Junior Women's Civic Club will hold a bake sale at 9:30 this morning at 29 South Centre Street. It is under the direction of the American Home committee with Miss Elizabeth McCain as chairman. Proceeds are for the CARE for Korea drive.

Walking with grace depends on your co-ordination and balance. Improve yours this sure, easy way!

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

You see many a woman who can stand still or sit still gracefully. That is a relatively simple accomplishment, if you pull your torso up tall and neatly neatly dispose your hands and feet.

But the moment you begin to walk — to set your posture in motion—many other skills are taxed. Foremost among these is your co-ordination.

Flaws in Grace

Jolts, jerks, or jiggles result if any part of your body fails to co-ordinate with the other parts. Grace only arises, for instance, when the movements of your arms and legs are synchronized so that they swing in opposite directions. Unless the left leg and the right arm swing out simultaneously the effect will be ungainly. Elementary as this may seem, it is a flagrant error of many women, particularly those who shun regular exercise or athletics.

Try this exercise to see how natural grace is to you. Stand on your right foot and swing the left leg forward with the knee relaxed and leading. At the same moment, swing your right arm forward and your left arm backward—vigorously. Then shift, swinging the left leg back sharply and extending the knee as far as you're able, simultaneously swinging the right arm back and the left forward. Repeat ten times with rhythm and vigor. Then stand on your left foot and perform the exercise ten times more, reversing the swing of your arms on alternate sides until you tire. Practice this exercise daily and you'll find your co-ordination and grace creeping ahead at a handsome pace. Why? Because it also enhances your balance, control of which is the second skill required for a lovely walk.

Perfection Rare

It is the rare person who can attain flawless co-ordination and balance control the first time in doing this exercise. Achievement and ease is only gained through practice. When you find you can change from one leg to the other without missing a beat, you can start to be proud of your walking grace. It will be well above average if you can — that is the test of your prowess.

Every man's hat is off to a graceful lady — and every woman's eye is on her, too!

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

A Monocle Is Indigestible

There was a knock on the cabin door.

"Come in," said the man. A steward entered and handed him a message.

"From the ship's captain," he announced.

John Wheeler

"He wants me to sit at his table during the voyage," the man explained to his companion, as he tossed the note on the table.

"You'd better," replied the other. "I don't mind."

He'd played second fiddle to the famous one for so long a time, it was nothing new. At the dinner that night our hero found himself next to a rather pretty, bosomy lady with a slight French accent although it was easy to understand what she said. It was usually "yes" when she felt that answer would pay off. But the man had had plenty of experience with women and wasn't wearing blinders. She was introduced to him as a "baroness."

When the steamer docked, much to my surprise, I read my friend had told the reporters he was going to get married and the lucky lady on his arm was the one he met aboard ship. I called him up, thinking there had been some mistake.

"That's right," he responded, "and I would like to bring her in to see you."

He did the next day, and I was unimpressed, since she put a monacle in her eye at intervals and carried a swagger stick, two badges I don't care for on a lady's costume, but after all I wasn't marrying the dame. It turned out they planned to head for Europe on the same ship and have the knot tied by the ceremony on the bridge and drop-spectacular and glamorous wedding in those days. Of course, you can't say to the champing, prospective groom,

"Forget the whole business. I don't like her looks, and you'll be sorry."

The only consequence would be he will marry her anyway, and both of them will hate you for a while, especially the bride after he tells her about your advice, as he surely will. So I let nature take its course, and it did at sea with the captain handling the ceremony and throwing in a lot of flourishes.

Now we come to the unfortunate sequel. As a result of some discreet inquiries, I discovered the "baroness," who no more deserved the title than I do that of centerfielder for the Yankees, had been a very close friend of the ship's master and had made several voyages with him. The officials of the line were looking into the matter. Like many another fellow, after the glamor wears off, he glanced around for a place to unload, and picked out the young man who thought he knew all the answers, particularly when it comes to the opposite sex.

It's a sad story for the marriage lasted only about six months and hit a couple of bumps in that period. Gradually my friend, who is usually the last to find out, began to discover the real facts. Besides me he had a few sympathizers. The court granted a separation, and ruled he would have to pay his wife $300 weekly for support. He was groaning to me about it one day, and, since it didn't worry me much because I wasn't stuck, I remarked,

"What do you think she is going to live on? She can't digest a monocle.'

Shortly after he performed the ceremony on the bride and dropped his cargo, the captain married a rich girl and retired from the sea to a large farm.

Certain Soaps Cause Chickens To Grow Faster

WASHINGTON. (AP) — Chickens grow faster if fed certain soaps or other "surface agents," a group of scientists announced today.

This discovery may unlock important new secrets about human nutrition, these scientists say. It also could lead to new feeding methods that might produce more and cheaper meat.

C. M. Ely of the National Distillers Products Corp., Cincinnati, O., wrote in the magazine "Science" some "surfactants" were found to have a growth-stimulating ability equal to or greater than that of antibiotic residues, such as those from terramycin and aureomycin production.

In its natural state water has surface tension—a sort of thin elastic skin—which offers resistance to penetration of dirt particles.

But when surfactants such as soap and detergents are added surface tension is greatly reduced. Dirt particles are rapidly dispersed.

Antibiotics primarily are bacteria killers used to fight disease. But if mixed with poultry and some livestock feeds they cause faster growth under some conditions.

Just why, remains a mystery.

Scientists have speculated that among other possibilities are these:

When the antibiotic reaches the intestine it (a) kills harmful bacteria slowing growth or (b) increases growth of "friendly" microorganisms which produce vitamins that speed growth.

At least one other important possibility arises through the discovery that surfactants also have growth-stimulating ability, a nutritionist said in commenting on Ely's article.

Many antibiotics are known to have surface active properties. Therefore, the mechanism of growth response from the two products may be related, he said. He pointed out that reduced surface tension may make it easier for the intestine to absorb nourishment from the liquified food that flows through it.

Practical application of the information in animal feeding will be delayed pending more thorough tests. Scientists want to be sure that the surfactants cause no changes in chickens that might prove harmful to people who eat them.

The ancients believed that fennel seeds gave strength and courage.

John Wheeler

"He wants me to sit at his table during the voyage," the man explained to his companion, as he tossed the note on the table.

"You'd better," replied the other. "I don't mind."

He'd played second fiddle to the famous one for so long a time, it was nothing new. At the dinner that night our hero found himself next to a rather pretty, bosomy lady with a slight French accent although it was easy to understand what she said. It was usually "yes" when she felt that answer would pay off. But the man had had plenty of experience with women and wasn't wearing blinders. She was introduced to him as a "baroness."

When the steamer docked, much to my surprise, I read my friend had told the reporters he was going to get married and the lucky lady on his arm was the one he met aboard ship. I called him up, thinking there had been some mistake.

"That's right," he responded, "and friend of the ship's master and had made several voyages with him. The officials of the line were looking into the matter. Like many another fellow, after the glamor wears off, he glanced around for a place to unload, and picked out the young man who thought he knew all the answers, particularly when it comes to the opposite sex.

It's a sad story for the marriage lasted only about six months and hit a couple of bumps in that period. Gradually my friend, who is usually the last to find out, began to discover the real facts. Besides me he had a few sympathizers. The court granted a separation, and ruled he would have to pay his wife $300 weekly for support. He was groaning to me about it one day, and, since it didn't worry me much because I wasn't stuck, I remarked,

"What do you think she is going to live on? She can't digest a monocle.'

Shortly after he performed the ceremony on the bride and dropped his cargo, the captain married a rich girl and retired from the sea to a large farm.

I would like to bring her in to see you."

He did the next day, and I was unimpressed, since she put a monocle in her eye at intervals and carried a swagger stick, two badges I don't care for on a lady's costume, but after all I wasn't marrying the dame. It turned out they planned to head for Europe on the same ship and have the knot tied by the ceremony on the bridge and drop-spectacular and glamorous wedding in those days. Of course, you can't say to the champing, prospective groom,

"Forget the whole business. I don't like her looks, and you'll be sorry."

The only consequence would be he will marry her anyway, and both of them will hate you for a while, especially the bride after he tells her about your advice, as he surely will. So I let nature take its course, and it did at sea with the captain handling the ceremony and throwing in a lot of flourishes.

Now we come to the unfortunate sequel. As a result of some discreet inquiries, I discovered the "baroness," who no more deserved the title than I do that of centerfielder for the Yankees, had been a very close

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

This I Believe

In his opening broadcast Edward R. Murrow stated the general principles and objectives of "This I Believe" much more succinctly than I could so I repeat them here.

John Crosby

"This I Believe. By that name we bring you a new series of radio broadcasts presenting the personal philosophies of thoughtful men and women in all walks of life. In this brief time each night, a banker or a butcher, a painter or a social worker, people of all kinds who have nothing more in common than integrity, a real honesty will talk out loud about the rules they live by, the things they have found to be the basic values in their lives."

And that's what they do on the five minute program (heard only in five cities on CBS stations)—people like C. Jared Ingersoll, a member of the board of directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Eleanor Roosevelt, General Lucius D. Clay, Helen Keller, Quentin Reynolds, Prof. Harry A. Overstreet, the philosopher, and a lot of other oddly assorted people. The program grew out of a conversation held in 1949 by four businessmen who felt that spiritual values were being drowned in a sea of material values.

A year was spent in planning the series and six months in setting an editorial policy. It wasn't, Mr. Murrow explained in his opening broadcast, entirely easy. "Except for those who think in terms of pious platitudes or dogma or narrow prejudice . . . people don't speak their beliefs easily or publicly. In a way, our project has been an invasion of privacy, like demanding a man to let a stranger read his mail. Gen. Lucius Clay remarked it would hardly be less embarrassing for an individual to be forced to disrobe in public than to unveil his private philosophy."

Nevertheless, more than 150 men and women have disrobed their philosophies publicly for this program. Naturally, any program which is interested in searching into spiritual values has a certain religious tone to it. But "This I Believe" is not essentially a religious program and, while reverence for God is expressed by some (but not all) speakers, the thread that runs consistently through all of them is a rather more difficult article of faith—faith in that cussed, often misled, frequently cruel mankind, faith in his enormous creative powers and spiritual growth, faith in his abilities to cope with the most hopeless tasks, and a sort of astonished wonder at his infinite capacity for survival.

Mr. Murrow, who avoids cliche skillfully in his own utterances, has not entirely succeeded in eliminating it in his guests but the program does succeed in keeping it to the irreducible minimum. These articles of faith, these credos of hope in man, are expressed in different ways. I like Gen. Clay's: "I think the troubled world we live in should not dismay us. I believe the world today is a historically better world than the world of the past. Though ruthless men still maintain power through force and would extend it through conquest, people everywhere are becoming more tolerant and understanding than ever before." I think that statement indisputable and it's well to be reminded of it.

Professor Overstreet, who wrote that remarkable book "The Mature Mind," said that his mission was to expand the areas of his awareness. "The great principle of love depends on this. He who loves another tries truly to understand the other . . . Socrates gave no finished catalogue of the truths of the world. He gave, rather, the impluse to search. This is far better I feel than dogmatic certainty. When we are aware that there are glories of life still hidden from us, we walk humbly before the great unknown."

Here Prof. Overstreet states two themes that run constantly through these little talks, namely that man's mission is two-fold — to love his fellow man by understanding him, to develop his own powers to the fullest degree. Mrs. Roosevelt is almost fatalist in her pursuit of these truths. "I came to the conclusion that you had to use this life to develop the very best that you could develop. I don't know whether I believe in a future life. I believe that all you go through here must have some value, therefore there must be some reason."

Each speaker, whatever his crede, leaves you feeling that there is some hope for mattered mankind, that being a man in this troubled world is not such a bad thing after all. I can think of no higher praise for a program. Incidentally, booklets of talks will be printed from time to time.

hatism even in hospitals. He has asked civilian hospital workers to stop using the front door. . . Sen. Harry Cain of Washington really needed to get in the limelight by touring Seattle with General MacArthur. His chances of re-election are about as rosy as MacArthur's chance of being reappointed by Truman. . . Keep an eye on the lady mayor of Portland, Ore., Dorothy Lee, Republican. She has cleaned up the underworld, made a big hit with women voters, and probably could defeat Senator Cordon in the GOP primaries. . . India is now giving advice to the Big 4 foreign ministers that they should agree to a "no-war declaration." Yet India refuses a no-war declaration in regard to Pakistan where the war danger is even more acute. . . Internal Revenue could have saved itself a lot of headaches if it had not spurned J. Edgar Hoover's offer of assistance some time ago. Originally the FBI was called in to investigate Internal Revenue bribery, but Internal Revenue refused to give the G-men a free hand.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

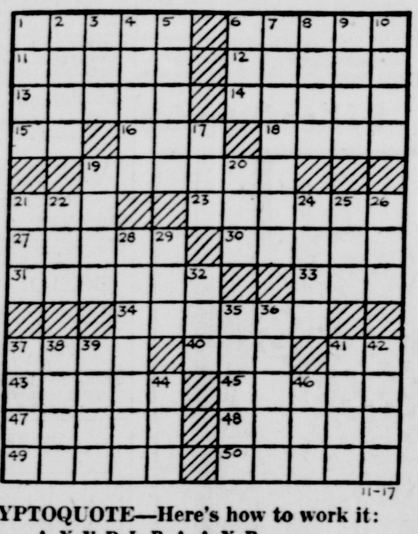
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

MU NUD G FUUB UIB—FSYEISAGYIT OCJS, C ERCYH C APME EGHS PK LCER GOGDCJS—WTDUY.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: THE CONSTITUTIONAL GUARDIAN I, OF PRETTY YOUNG WARDS IN CHANCERY—GILBERT.

Railroads Continue Market Leadership But Job Tough

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—The railroads came through with a driving last minute rally today in the stock market.

That action kept the market from bending over completely to the losing side. The net result was a mixed close over a range of around two points higher to a point or more lower.

The carriers did the same thing yesterday, but today they had a harder job in providing leadership for the rest of the list.

They didn't succeed too well. Although the average price increase tended to be larger than the average decrease, there were more stocks on the downside.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 20 cents with the industrials down 30 cents, rails up 70 cents, and utilities up 10 cents.

The market was a narrow 1,085 individual issues of which 349 advanced and 439 declined with 10 new highs and 42 new lows for the year.

Railroads Continue Market Leadership But Job Tough

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—The railroads came through with a driving last minute rally today in the stock market.

That action kept the market from bending over completely to the losing side. The net result was a mixed close over a range of around two points higher to a point or more lower.

The carriers did the same thing yesterday, but today they had a harder job in providing leadership for the rest of the list.

They didn't succeed too well. Although the average price increase tended to be larger than the average decrease, there were more stocks on the downside.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 20 cents with the industrials down 30 cents, rails up 70 cents, and utilities up 10 cents.

The market was a narrow 1,085 individual issues of which 349 advanced and 439 declined with 10 new highs and 42 new lows for the year.

Those figures show the diverse trends within the market today, and to cap it all the volume came to the lowest of the week at 1,140,000 shares. Yesterday's total was 1,200,000 shares.

In the list of 15 most active issues, there were seven up, four down, and four unchanged.

Standard Oil of Ohio topped the list with sales of 35,800 shares unchanged at 41½. That included one block of 30,400 shares off ½.

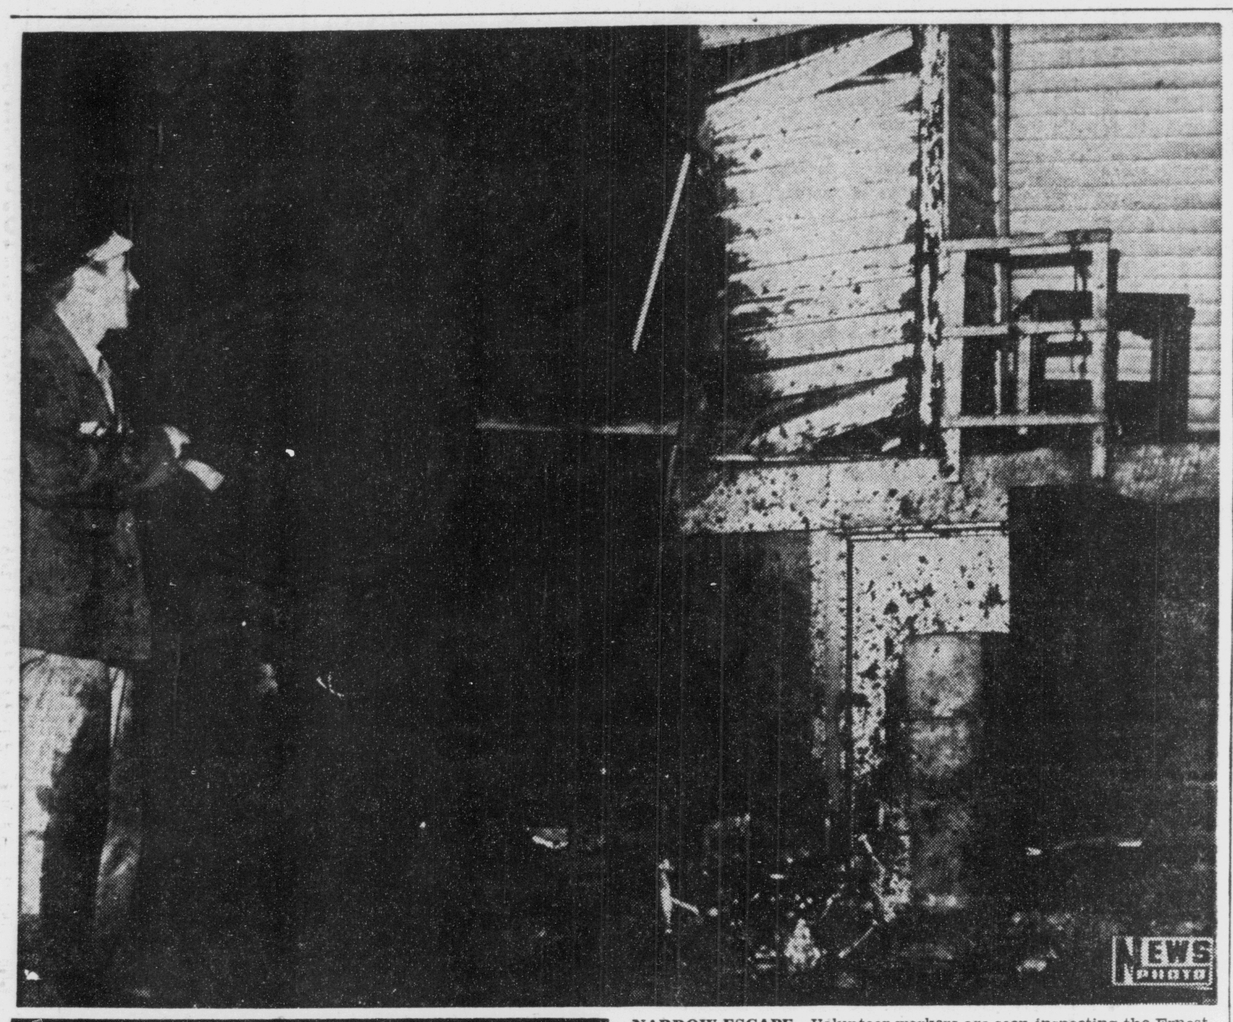
Three Army Men Killed When B-26 Crashes On Mountain Near Oakland



NARROW ESCAPE—Volunteer workers are seen inspecting the Ernest Shaffer home, near Eglon, W. Va., after the dwelling was struck by one of the motors of a B-26 light bomber which crashed in the mountains of Preston County, W. Va., late yesterday afternoon. The motor hit the north side of the home and plowed on, damaging the dwelling but leaving the family unhurt. Small pieces of the doomed plane riddled much of the exterior of the building. Part of the motor was torn off by the impact and can be seen near the corner. The lower photo shows the wreckage of the motor which was torn off as the plane hit a tree and crashed in fog and snow, killing three crew members.

Bodies Of Two Crewman Found After Air Force Plane Strikes Tree In Preston County, W. Va.

Wreckage Scattered Over Wide Area, One Engine Smashes Side Of Building

Three men were killed early last night when an Air Force B-26 light bomber, crashed in fog and snow in the eastern part of Preston County, W. Va., near the Garrett County line.

An Air Force spokesman at the Greater Pittsburgh Airport said the plane took off from the Pittsburgh Airport at 4:56 p.m. (Eastern Standard Time) with three Army reserve officers aboard.

The spokesman said the plane was returning to Langley Field, Va., where it left yesterday on a routine training flight.

Identification of those aboard was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Maryland State Trooper Robert Henline, first officer at the scene, said one body and parts of another were found amid the wreckage which was scattered over about six acres. The third body had not been found.

There were reports the plane exploded in mid-air, but there was no evidence immediately to substantiate this.

Engine Hits Home

One of the two engines, however, separated from the rest of the plane and plowed into the farmhouse of Ernest Shaffer, near Eglon. None of the persons in the house was injured. The farm house was some distance away from the general area of the wreckage.

The accident occurred just off West Virginia State Route 24 in Preston County.

Seemed To Explode

One witness, James Bell, said the plane appeared to explode in mid-air. He said one engine apparently broke loose and smashed into the farmhouse of Ernest Shaffer, but none of the occupants was injured.

State police from both West Virginia and Maryland were on the scene, between the towns of Eglon and Aurora, Preston County.

Bell said the plane's log, located in the wreckage, indicated the plane

Byrd Praises Moose Effort To Foster Brotherhood

Opens Conclave At Lodge Here

Efforts of the Loyal Order of Moose to expand brotherhood were praised by Dr. H. C. "Curly" Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, as he addressed the opening session of the mid-winter conclave of the Maryland Moose Association last night at the Moose Home on Beall Street.

Work of similar organizations in this country and around the world gradually will spread brotherhood among all of the peoples of the world, Dr. Byrd added.

17-Year Member

A member of Baltimore LOOM Lodge No. 70 for 17 years, the college president is well aware of the program of brotherhood carried on by the Moose. He is a past governor of the Baltimore lodge and an honorary member of the College Park lodge.

In the course of his 25-minute speech Dr. Byrd elaborated on the programs conducted at Moosehaven in Florida and Mooseheart in Illinois. At Moosehaven, old folks are cared for and at Mooseheart, the "Child City," orphaned children of Moose members find a new home. He is a member of the Mooseheart Board of Governors.

Praise Local Efforts

Dr. Boyd also praised the value that each community derives from the program conducted by the Moose in the home town of each lodge. The efforts help boost civic pride, he emphasized.

Before the conclave is concluded Cumberland Lodge No. 271, LOOM, Beall Street, expects to entertain about 400 members of the lodge from Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Highlight of today's program at the Moose conclave will be a speech by Rep. J. Glenn Beall at a dinner dance at the Moose Home beginning at 7 p. m.

The dance will be semi-formal.

Today's program will begin at 11 a. m. with an executive committee meeting. A luncheon will follow at 1

H. Grady Gore, Senate Aspirant, Speaks Here

Hits 'Trumanites," Poor Poll Showing

H. Grady Gore, Montgomery County real estate man and farmer who calls himself the "probable candidate" for the U. S. Senate on the Republican ticket next year, addressed 39 persons at a public rally last night at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

In a 60-minute speech which ran to more than 12 pages in the typewritten version, Gore lashed out bitterly at what he termed "the pile of crime, corruption and crackpot planning we have accumulated in Washington."

He also raised his voice against lack of interest in party primary elections, for which he blamed the "hand-picking of candidates by a few men who are promoting their own interests."

Gore took a hefty swing at the "Trumanites," who he said "must study up on how to waste money" because "you couldn't do it so well without really working at it."

"Our present government is not a reflection of the American people," he declared.

"We have lost the morality and the courage and the wisdom that comes from the people, that have always made our self-government a great force for decency and progress in human affairs. We have let the politicians take our government away from us.

"It's ridiculous to be so powerful at the citizens' level x x x and so very, very weak at the top of our nation."

"And all of the men in Congress whose machines helped keep this administration in office—they know, too."

Yuletide Lights, Decorations Are Being Installed

Shopping Hours Set By Mercantile Group

Installation of street lights and decorations heralding the coming Christmas season began early this morning on Baltimore Street.

Hours when the local merchants will be open for the pre-holiday shopping days were also outlined at a meeting of the Mercantile Bureau of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce yesterday morning.

Beginning Tuesday, December 11, according to Robert Little Ebert, chairman, local stores will be open until 9 p. m. up until December 24 when the merchants will close at 6 p. m.

Regular Monday evening opening hours will prevail during that period, Little noted. Stores will also close at 6 p. m. on New Year's Eve.

Installation Begins

Workmen of the line department of the Potomac Edison Company early this morning began installing lights and decorations along Baltimore Street, and according to H. G. Grimes, line superintendent, much of the work should be accomplished this morning and the remainder of installation completed next week.

The lights and decorations will line Baltimore Street between the Western Maryland and Baltimore and Ohio crossings, Grimes added.

In South Cumberland, the Businessmen's Association are sponsoring the lighting and decoration of Virginia Avenue from Boone Street to Laing Avenue. Installation in that area will begin sometime next week. Co-chairman for that area are George Millenson and James Scarpelli. Lights and laurel will be strung across the Avenue, Scarpelli noted, and large Santa Claus figures will be placed in the center of each string of lights.

Street Parade Planned

A large lighted Christmas tree, Scarpelli added, will be located near the South End Fire Station, at Race and Second Streets.

The lights on Baltimore Street will be turned on Thanksgiving evening officially opening the Christmas season in Cumberland. A huge balloon parade, a mile in length, is being planned for this city Monday, November 26, at 7:30 p. m.

Scheduled to appear in the parade are giant balloons of fairyland as well as colorful floats, bands and marching units.

'I Speak For Democracy' Finals Planned Here Today

Students from 12 Allegany County high schools will vie for honors this morning in the "I Speak For Democracy" speech contest at a local radio station where each contestant's talks will be recorded for judging.

They are: Charles Wickard, Allegany; Alan Mease, Fort Hill; Casper R. Taylor, Jr., LaSalle; Rosemary Mullaney, Ursuline; Joanne Mathews, Girls Central; Josephine Riha, Central, Lonaconing; Janet Pisanchi, St. Mary's; Enordo Arnone, Beall, Joanne Grindle, Bruce; Jean Browning, Flintstone; Mary Frances Mertz, St. Peter's, Westernport, and Norma Shaw, Barton.

The contest is sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce with Richard B. Jamison, chairman. Judges, according to Jamison, will hold the preliminary elimination contest on Sunday during the afternoon and on Monday or Tuesday the three fintlists' recordings will be broadcast over the three local radio stations.

The Allegany County winner will compete with winners from other Maryland counties sometime during the week of November 25. From the group of transcriptions representing state winners, four national finalists will be chosen.

An engraved silver cup will be awarded in the county finals to the local winner. This trophy will become permanent property of the school that sponsors three annual winners in the contest. Fort Hill High School was presented the trophy last year.

Each contestant this year will be given an award, Jamison added, and all contestants are expected to be guests of the Jaycees at their regular meeting in January. Prizes and awards will be presented at this time, and the county winner will present his speech.

Temperature Gauges Planned For Area Rivers

Records To Be Marked On Height Charts

The U. S. Geological Survey office is installing two water temperature recorders at two river gauging stations in the area, according to L. A. Koffman, engineer in charge.

Koffman said the installations are in connection with a co-operative program with the Maryland Department of Research and Education.

The purpose of the installation of recorders is for collecting recorded water temperatures at three gauging stations in the state including the Potomac River at Hancock and Crabtree Creek above Savage River Dam near Swanton.

Use Same Charts

After the temperature recorders are put in, records of river water temperatures will be recorded on the same charts that the height of the river is recorded now, Koffman said.

The Survey office is now in the process of installing the piping needed for the equipment. Koffman stated that the temperature recorders will be installed as soon as they arrive from Portland, Ore.

The plan, Koffman stated, is to locate the recorders at the two gauging stations for three years and then they will be switched to other streams in the state. In this way, the Survey office will be able to determine water temperatures over any given period from the records.

Valuable Study

The survey will be a study of water temperatures in comparison with air temperatures during the three years. The study will give valuable information for conservation and industrial purposes, Koffman said.

For example, Koffman explained, certain fish cannot live in warm water, and by having this water temperature study, conservation officials will know what type of fish will survive in what streams in the state.

Also, industries using river water to cool equipment, will be able to determine how much water is needed to cool equipment.

Koffman said the recorders will be installed in the gauge houses which now are used to record height of river water. Both records will appear on the same charts.

Final Argument Scheduled Today In Will Dispute

Nieces, Nephews Seek To Break Document

Closing arguments and presentation of instructions to the jury this morning will wind up the two-day trial of a suit in Allegany County Circuit Court by which nieces and nephews of a Garrett County man seek to break his will.

Hearing of evidence in the dispute took all day yesterday. Associate Judge George Henderson, who is presiding excused the jury until 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Died In 1948

The dispute involves the will of the late Richard B. Bray, Garrett County lumberman and coal mine operator, who died in July, 1948. His nieces and nephews filed the caveat action originally in Garrett County Orphans Court against Lewis C. Bray, brother and executor of the estate of Richard B. Bray.

The caveators contend that Richard B. Bray was not of sound mind in 1946 when the will was signed by him. Judges in Garrett County Orphans Court could not agree on the case and it was appealed to Garrett County Circuit Court. Later, the suit was removed here on motion of one of the caveators seeking to break the will.

Six Witnesses

Six witnesses were presented by attorneys for Bray's nieces and nephews. First was Mrs. Vernie R. Smouse, Garrett County Register of Wills. She was followed by June D. O'Donnell, one of the nieces involved in the dispute. Then, oddly, Lewis C. Bray was called as one of the plaintiff's witnesses. He was followed to the stand by Claude Rohrbaugh and Mrs. Stella Rohrbaugh, who signed the will as witnesses, and Dr. Ralph Callandrella, who had been Richard B. Bray's physician 17 years.

Defense witnesses included George Boyd, who drew up the will; Lewis C. Bray, Dr. Callendrella, Otha Sharpless and Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson, who also treated Richard B. Bray.

Bray's nieces and nephews are represented by four attorneys, Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., Neil C. Fraley and Walter W. Dawson, all of Garrett County, and Earl E. Manges, this city. Three attorneys represent Lewis Bray. They are William R. Offutt, Asa T. Matthews and E. Ray Jones, all of Garrett County.

Buser Is Named Head Of County Farm Bureau

Allegany County Farm Bureau elected officers and three directors, while the Associated Women named directors at the joint meeting last evening at the LaVale fire hall. Officers of the latter group are completing their last year of a three year term. Charles Harvey, Frostburg, presided at the meeting of the men's group; and Miss Ruth Clauson, Hazen Road, the women's.

Floyd Buser, Oldtown, was elected president of the Farm Bureau; with Alvin Wilson, Barton, vice president. Directors are: Harry Delbrook, Mt. Savage; W. H. Johnson, Willowbrook Road; and James Twigg, Twiggtown.

Besides Miss Clauson other officers of the Associated Women are: Mrs. Harry Barton, McMullen Highway, vice president; Mrs. Marshall Porter, Eckhart, secretary; and Mrs. Marvin Hinkle, Hinkle Road, treasurer.

New directors are: Mrs. Maude Mann, Piney Plains; Mrs. W. H. Johnson, Willowbrook Road; and Mrs. Mabel T. White, Rawlings.

A Memorial service was conducted by Mrs. Lloyd B. Shaw, Lonaconing, for George Wilson, Williams Road; Mrs. James House, Flintstone; and M.C.S. Twigg, Oldtown.

Talks were geven by Wilbert Smith, Maryland Farm Bureau Membership chairman, on the organization of the Farm Bureau; Mrs. John Flook, president of the Associated Women, on the organization of the women's group; and Francis A. Kenny, on the C and O Canal Parkway Project.

The meeting opened with the group singing of the first verse of "America the Beautiful," led by Mrs. Barton. The invocation was offered by Albert O'Neal; and a medley of old songs and other selections were led by Mrs. Margery Chambers. Concluding the evening refreshments were served and entertainment consisted of Hill Billy music.

Welfare Group To Attend Meet

Eleven case workers representing the Allegany County Welfare Board will attend the annual Maryland State Conference on Social Welfare at Hagerstown Monday, according to Mrs. Elinor M. Westerfeld, executive director.

The group includes Mrs. Arlene Russell, Mrs. Alice McGuire, Mrs. Marion Hull, Edward O'Rourke, Mrs. Helen Shroyer, Francis McDermott, Miss Barbara Murray, Miss Jane Harris, Mrs. Phoebe Goldsboro, Miss Norma Avers, and Miss Ann Griffith.

The annual regional meeting will consider such questions as the nation's aging population, with emphasis on medical programs, recreation plans and housing problems for older people.

Speakers will include Dr. Louis M. Krause, professor of clinical medicine at the University of Maryland; Joseph P. Folkoff, executive director of the Levindale Hebrew Home in Baltimore, and Edmund F. Hoey, director of recreation in Cumberland.

Sanitary Board Reviews Problem In Whole County

Overall County Authority Needed

The groundwork for creation of an overall authority to deal with sanitation problems in the county was laid at a meeting of the Metropolitan Sanitary Commission with representatives of suburban areas Thursday night.

Dr. William E. Moseley, commission chairman, said the proposed authority would be able to speak for areas of the county not covered by the commission.

The commission authorized Mayor Jesse Jacobs of Frostburg to ask the Frostburg Council to appoint a representative to the commission and to create a sanitary authority of its own.

LaVale representatives also were asked to name a member to the new group, which will cover all areas to be affected in long-range sanitation plans.

Dr. Moseley described the move a step toward expanding the effective scope of the Commission's program.

He explained that the Commission, created by an act of the 1949 Legislature, was formed to clean up what he termed "deplorable" sanitation conditions in the metropolitan area around Cumberland.

The Commission, however, has authority to represent only unincorporated areas such as Cresaptown, Bowling Green and Potomac Park.

But since much of the program depends on cooperation of incorporated areas, such as Cumberland, the Commission has found it necessary to broaden the scope of its activities.

Present plans call for tying in suburban sewage disposal lines with Cumberland's treatment plant, for which plans are now being prepared by Robert T. Regester, Baltimore consulting engineer.

Dr. Moseley emphasized the point that the entire project will be completed on a no-tax basis, but will be paid for on a revenue bond plan.

Soroptimists Collecting Toys For Needy Children Of City

The Soroptimists, newly-formed women's service club, are collecting toys for gifts to needy children at Christmas time, according to Miss Jeannette Bonig, Associated Charities secretary.

Mrs. Ethel Newman, manager of the Garden Theater and a member of the club, will present a two-hour showing of comedies next Saturday from 10 a. m. to noon.

The only admission fee will be one toy per child.

Theater employes will donate their time as projectionists and ushers and members of the Soroptimists will collect the toys at the door and turn them over to the Associated Charities.

Miss Bonig said the club had volunteered to help or collect toys as one of its first projects. She urged that only toys in good condition be donated, as facilities for repairing them are limited.

Meanwhile, Central Firemen this week turned part of the fire station into a sort of Santa's workshop to help get the toys in shape for Christmas.

Miss Bonig predicted that demand for toys — and clothing — will match last year's "very heavy" distribution.

Observers Get Instructions In Air Spotting

Pittsburgh Center Directs 300 Units

A two-man Air Force team from the Pittsburgh, Pa., Filter Center conducted an orientation program last night in the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company's conference room for representatives from the six Ground Observer Corps stations in Allegany County.

County Civil Defense Director William G. Barger said that the Pittsburgh Filter Center directs the operations of some 300 observer points in Western Maryland, West Virginia, Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio.

Lt. Charles Nelson and Sgt. Richard Backes, who comprised the team, stressed that the key to the whole air spotting system is the Ground Observers Corps, which reports movements of all planes in each area.

For their instructions, the team used a plotting board on which they showed how all planes are plotted in the four-state area. They also cited the cooperation that is essential between the Air Force and the Ground Observers Corps for successful operations.

The two-man team will return to Cumberland in the next six to nine months to conduct advance training for the Ground Observers Corps in this county, Barger added.

From here the team will move on to Keyser, W. Va. today and will be in Oakland tomorrow.

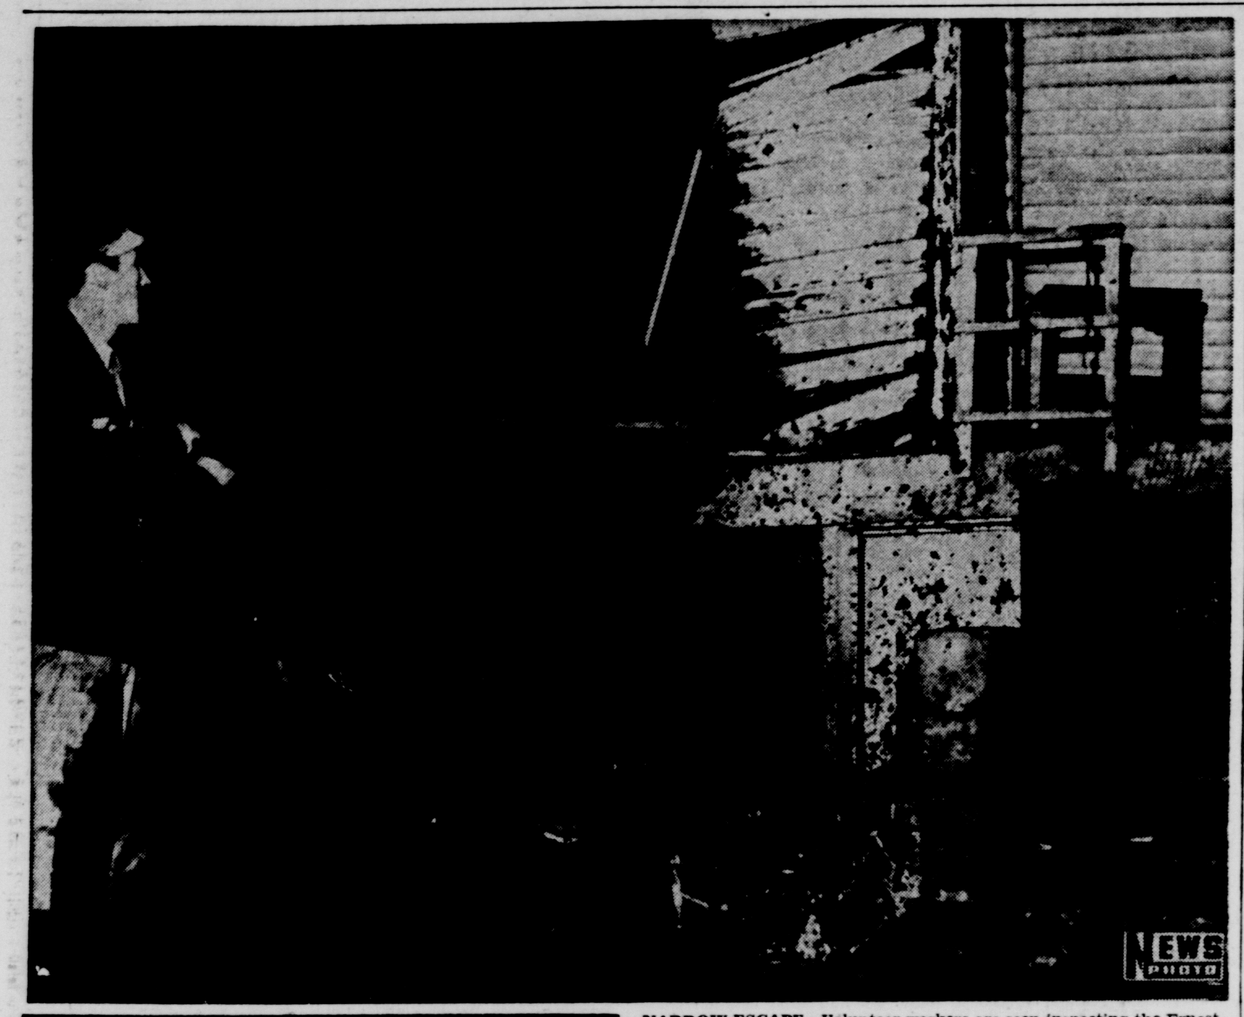
Three Army Men Killed When B-26 Crashes On Mountain Near Oakland



NARROW ESCAPE—Volunteer workers are seen inspecting the Ernest Shaffer home, near Eglon, W. Va., after the dwelling was struck by one of the motors of a B-26 light bomber which crashed in the mountains of Preston County, W. Va., late yesterday afternoon. The motor hit the north side of the home and plowed on, damaging the dwelling but leaving the family unhurt. Small pieces of the doomed plane riddled much of the exterior of the building. Part of the motor was torn off by the impact and can be seen near the corner. The lower photo shows the wreckage of the motor which was torn off as the plane hit a tree and crashed in fog and snow, killing three crew members.

Bodies Of Two Crewman Found After Air Force Plane Strikes Tree In Preston County, W. Va.

Wreckage Scattered Over Wide Area, One Engine Smashes Side Of Building

Three men were killed early last night when an Air Force B-26 light bomber, crashed in fog and snow in the eastern part of Preston County, W. Va., near the Garrett County line.

An Air Force spokesman at the Greater Pittsburgh Airport said the plane took off from the Pittsburgh Airport at 4:56 p.m. (Eastern Standard Time) with three Army reserve officers aboard.

The spokesman said the plane was returning to Langley Field, Va., where it left yesterday on a routine training flight.

Identification of those aboard was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Maryland State Trooper Robert Henline, first officer at the scene, said one body and parts of another were found amid the wreckage which was scattered over about six acres. The third body had not been found.

There were reports the plane exploded in mid-air, but there was no evidence immediately to substantiate this.

Engine Hits Home

One of the two engines, however, separated from the rest of the plane and plowed into the farmhouse of Ernest Shaffer, near Eglon. None of the persons in the house was injured. The farm house was some distance away from the general area of the wreckage.

The accident occurred just off West Virginia State Route 24 in Preston County.

Seemed To Explode

One witness, James Bell, said the plane appeared to explode in mid-air. He said one engine apparently broke loose and smashed into the farmhouse of Ernest Shaffer, but none of the occupants was injured.

State police from both West Virginia and Maryland were on the scene, between the towns of Eglon and Aurora, Preston County.

Opens Conclave At Lodge Here

Efforts of the Loyal Order of Moose to expand brotherhood were praised by Dr. H. C. "Curly" Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, as he addressed the opening session of the mid-winter conclave of the Maryland Moose Association last night at the Moose Home on Beall Street.

Work of similar organizations in this country and around the world gradually will spread brotherhood among all of the peoples of the world, Dr. Byrd added.

17-Year Member

A member of Baltimore LOOM Lodge No. 70 for 17 years, the college president is well aware of the program of brotherhood carried on by the Moose. He is a past governor of the Baltimore lodge and an honorary member of the College Park lodge.

In the course of his 25-minute speech Dr. Byrd elaborated on the programs conducted at Moosehaven in Florida and Mooseheart in Illinois. At Moosehaven, old folks are cared for and at Mooseheart, the "Child City," orphaned children of Moose members find a new home. He is a member of the Mooseheart Board of Governors.

Praise Local Efforts

Dr. Boyd also praised the value that each community derives from the program conducted by the Moose in the home town of each lodge. The efforts help boost civic pride, he emphasized.

Before the conclave is concluded Cumberland Lodge No. 271, LOOM, Beall Street, expects to entertain about 400 members of the lodge from Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Highlight of today's program at the Moose conclave will be a speech by Rep. J. Glenn Beall at a dinner dance at the Moose Home beginning at 7 p. m.

The dance will be semi-formal.

Today's program will begin at 11 a. m. with an executive committee meeting. A luncheon will follow at 1

H. Grady Gore, Senate Aspirant, Speaks Here

Hits 'Trumanites," Poor Poll Showing

H. Grady Gore, Montgomery County real estate man and farmer who calls himself the "probable candidate" for the U. S. Senate on the Republican ticket next year, addressed 39 persons at a public rally last night at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

In a 60-minute speech which ran to more than 12 pages in the typewritten version, Gore lashed out bitterly at what he termed "the pile of crime, corruption and crackpot planning we have accumulated in Washington."

He also raised his voice against lack of interest in party primary elections, for which he blamed the "hand-picking of candidates by a few men who are promoting their own interests."

Gore took a hefty swing at the "Trumanites," who he said "must study up on how to waste money" because "you couldn't do it so well without really working at it."

"Our present government is not a reflection of the American people," he declared.

"We have lost the morality and the courage and the wisdom that comes from the people, that have always made our self-government a great force for decency and progress in human affairs. We have let the politicians take our government away from us.

"It's ridiculous to be so powerful at the citizens' level x x x and so very, very weak at the top of our nation."

"And all of the men in Congress whose machines helped keep this administration in office—they know, too."

Yuletide Lights, Decorations Are Being Installed

Shopping Hours Set By Mercantile Group

Installation of street lights and decorations heralding the coming Christmas season began early this morning on Baltimore Street.

Hours when the local merchants will be open for the pre-holiday shopping days were also outlined at a meeting of the Mercantile Bureau of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce yesterday morning.

Beginning Tuesday, December 11, according to Robert Little Ebert, chairman, local stores will be open until 9 p. m. up until December 24 when the merchants will close at 6 p. m.

Regular Monday evening opening hours will prevail during that period, Little noted. Stores will also close at 6 p. m. on New Year's Eve.

Installation Begins

Workmen of the line department of the Potomac Edison Company early this morning began installing lights and decorations along Baltimore Street, and according to H. G. Grimes, line superintendent, much of the work should be accomplished this morning and the remainder of installation completed next week.

The lights and decorations will line Baltimore Street between the Western Maryland and Baltimore and Ohio crossings, Grimes added.

In South Cumberland, the Businessmen's Association are sponsoring the lighting and decoration of Virginia Avenue from Boone Street to Laing Avenue. Installation in that area will begin sometime next week. Co-chairman for that area are George Millenson and James Scarpelli. Lights and laurel will be strung across the Avenue, Scarpelli noted, and large Santa Claus figures will be placed in the center of each string of lights.

Street Parade Planned

A large lighted Christmas tree, Scarpelli added, will be located near the South End Fire Station, at Race and Second Streets.

The lights on Baltimore Street will be turned on Thanksgiving evening officially opening the Christmas season in Cumberland. A huge balloon parade, a mile in length, is being planned for this city Monday, November 26, at 7:30 p. m.

Scheduled to appear in the parade are giant balloons of fairyland as well as colorful floats, bands and marching units.

'I Speak For Democracy' Finals Planned Here Today

Students from 12 Allegany County high schools will vie for honors this morning in the "I Speak For Democracy" speech contest at a local radio station where each contestant's talks will be recorded for judging.

They are: Charles Wickard, Allegany; Alan Mease, Fort Hill; Casper R. Taylor, Jr., LaSalle; Rosemary Mullaney, Ursuline; Joanne Mathews, Girls Central; Josephine Riha, Central, Lonaconing; Janet Pisanchi, St. Mary's; Enordo Arnone, Beall, Joanne Grindle, Bruce; Jean Browning, Flintstone; Mary Frances Mertz, St. Peter's, Westernport, and Norma Shaw, Barton.

The contest is sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce with Richard B. Jamison, chairman. Judges, according to Jamison, will hold the preliminary elimination contest on Sunday during the afternoon and on Monday or Tuesday the three fintlists' recordings will be broadcast over the three local radio stations.

The Allegany County winner will compete with winners from other Maryland counties sometime during the week of November 25. From the group of transcriptions representing state winners, four national finalists will be chosen.

An engraved silver cup will be awarded in the county finals to the local winner. This trophy will become permanent property of the school that sponsors three annual winners in the contest. Fort Hill High School was presented the trophy last year.

Each contestant this year will be given an award, Jamison added, and all contestants are expected to be guests of the Jaycees at their regular meeting in January. Prizes and awards will be presented at this time, and the county winner will present his speech.

Temperature Gauges Planned For Area Rivers

Records To Be Marked On Height Charts

The U. S. Geological Survey office is installing two water temperature recorders at two river gauging stations in the area, according to L. A. Koffman, engineer in charge.

Koffman said the installations are in connection with a co-operative program with the Maryland Department of Research and Education.

The purpose of the installation of recorders is for collecting recorded water temperatures at three gauging stations in the state including the Potomac River at Hancock and Crabtree Creek above Savage River Dam near Swanton.

Use Same Charts

After the temperature recorders are put in, records of river water temperatures will be recorded on the same charts that the height of the river is recorded now, Koffman said.

The Survey office is now in the process of installing the piping needed for the equipment. Koffman stated that the temperature recorders will be installed as soon as they arrive from Portland, Ore.

The plan, Koffman stated, is to locate the recorders at the two gauging stations for three years and then they will be switched to other streams in the state. In this way, the Survey office will be able to determine water temperatures over any given period from the records.

Valuable Study

The survey will be a study of water temperatures in comparison with air temperatures during the three years. The study will give valuable information for conservation and industrial purposes, Koffman said.

For example, Koffman explained, certain fish cannot live in warm water, and by having this water temperature study, conservation officials will know what type of fish will survive in what streams in the state.

Also, industries using river water to cool equipment, will be able to determine how much water is needed to cool equipment.

Koffman said the recorders will be installed in the gauge houses which now are used to record height of river water. Both records will appear on the same charts.

Final Argument Scheduled Today In Will Dispute

Nieces, Nephews Seek To Break Document

Closing arguments and presentation of instructions to the jury this morning will wind up the two-day trial of a suit in Allegany County Circuit Court by which nieces and nephews of a Garrett County man seek to break his will.

Hearing of evidence in the dispute took all day yesterday. Associate Judge George Henderson, who is presiding excused the jury until 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Died In 1948

The dispute involves the will of the late Richard B. Bray, Garrett County lumberman and coal mine operator, who died in July, 1948. His nieces and nephews filed the caveat action originally in Garrett County Orphans Court against Lewis C. Bray, brother and executor of the estate of Richard B. Bray.

The caveators contend that Richard B. Bray was not of sound mind in 1946 when the will was signed by him. Judges in Garrett County Orphans Court could not agree on the case and it was appealed to Garrett County Circuit Court. Later, the suit was removed here on motion of one of the caveators seeking to break the will.

Six Witnesses

Six witnesses were presented by attorneys for Bray's nieces and nephews. First was Mrs. Vernie R. Smouse, Garrett County Register of Wills. She was followed by June D. O'Donnell, one of the nieces involved in the dispute. Then, oddly, Lewis C. Bray was called as one of the plaintiff's witnesses. He was followed to the stand by Claude Rohrbaugh and Mrs. Stella Rohrbaugh, who signed the will as witnesses, and Dr. Ralph Callandrella, who had been Richard B. Bray's physician 17 years.

Defense witnesses included George Boyd, who drew up the will; Lewis C. Bray, Dr. Callendrella, Otha Sharpless and Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson, who also treated Richard B. Bray.

Bray's nieces and nephews are represented by four attorneys, Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., Neil C. Fraley and Walter W. Dawson, all of Garrett County, and Earl E. Manges, this city. Three attorneys represent Lewis Bray. They are William R. Offutt, Asa T. Matthews and E. Ray Jones, all of Garrett County.

Buser Is Named Head Of County Farm Bureau

Floyd Buser, Oldtown, was elected president of the Farm Bureau; with Alvin Wilson, Barton, vice president. Directors are: Harry Delbrook, Mt. Savage; W. H. Johnson, Willowbrook Road; and James Twigg, Twiggtown.

Besides Miss Clauson other officers of the Associated Women are: Mrs. Harry Barton, McMullen Highway, vice president; Mrs. Marshall Porter, Eckhart, secretary; and Mrs. Marvin Hinkle, Hinkle Road, treasurer.

New directors are: Mrs. Maude Mann, Piney Plains; Mrs. W. H. Johnson, Willowbrook Road; and Mrs. Mabel T. White, Rawlings.

A Memorial service was conducted by Mrs. Lloyd B. Shaw, Lonaconing, for George Wilson, Williams Road; Mrs. James House, Flintstone; and M.C.S. Twigg, Oldtown.

Talks were geven by Wilbert Smith, Maryland Farm Bureau Membership chairman, on the organization of the Farm Bureau; Mrs. John Flook, president of the Associated Women, on the organization of the women's group; and Francis A. Kenny, on the C and O Canal Parkway Project.

The meeting opened with the group singing of the first verse of "America the Beautiful," led by Mrs. Barton. The invocation was offered by Albert O'Neal; and a medley of old songs and other selections were led by Mrs. Margery Chambers. Concluding the evening refreshments were served and entertainment consisted of Hill Billy music.

Sanitary Board Reviews Problem In Whole County

Overall County Authority Needed

The groundwork for creation of an overall authority to deal with sanitation problems in the county was laid at a meeting of the Metropolitan Sanitary Commission with representatives of suburban areas Thursday night.

Dr. William E. Moseley, commission chairman, said the proposed authority would be able to speak for areas of the county not covered by the commission.

The commission authorized Mayor Jesse Jacobs of Frostburg to ask the Frostburg Council to appoint a representative to the commission and to create a sanitary authority of its own.

LaVale representatives also were asked to name a member to the new group, which will cover all areas to be affected in long-range sanitation plans.

Dr. Moseley described the move a step toward expanding the effective scope of the Commission's program.

He explained that the Commission, created by an act of the 1949 Legislature, was formed to clean up what he termed "deplorable" sanitation conditions in the metropolitan area around Cumberland.

The Commission, however, has authority to represent only unincorporated areas such as Cresaptown, Bowling Green and Potomac Park.

But since much of the program depends on cooperation of incorporated areas, such as Cumberland, the Commission has found it necessary to broaden the scope of its activities.

Present plans call for tying in suburban sewage disposal lines with Cumberland's treatment plant, for which plans are now being prepared by Robert T. Regester, Baltimore consulting engineer.

Dr. Moseley emphasized the point that the entire project will be completed on a no-tax basis, but will be paid for on a revenue bond plan.
